Zu 4:

Der Dopingfall ist der Nationalen Anti-Doping Agentur Österreichs (NADA Austria) bekannt. Österreich ist durch diesen Fall nicht betroffen, da in den österreichischen Sportverbänden der WADA-Code implementiert wurde.

Zu 5 bis 7:

Die WADA ist eine Privatstiftung nach schweizerischem Recht mit Sitz in Lausanne und Hauptquartier in Montreal. Die Anerkennung des WADA-Codes und auch der unterschiedlichen WADA-Standards ist daher in erster Linie eine Entscheidung, die grundsätzlich jedes nationale Olympische Komitee, jeder internationale Sportverband und auch jede nationale Anti-Doping Agentur treffen kann. Der WADA Code an sich ist von einer Privatstiftung gesetztes Recht, das nur durch ein komplexes System von Anerkennungen durchgesetzt werden kann.

Zu 8 und 9:

Der WADA Code als solcher ist nicht Bestandteil des UNESCO-Übereinkommens. Dieser gilt nur für die WADA Dokumente, „List of Prohibited Substances“, den Standard „for Therapeutic Use Exemptions“ und den Standard „for Testing“, die notwendige Bestandteile der Definition von Doping sind.

Da diese Fragen keinen Gegenstand der Vollziehung des Bundesministeriums für Landesverteidigung und Sport betreffen, ersuche ich um Verständnis, dass ich von einer Beantwortung Abstand nehme.
