INFORMATION NOTE

from:	General Secretariat
to:	Permanent Representatives Committee/Council
Subject:	Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on criminal sanctions for insider dealing and market manipulation – Outcome of the European Parliament's first reading (Strasbourg, 3 to 6 February 2014)

I. INTRODUCTION

The Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs submitted one amendment to the proposal for a Directive (amendment 1).

In accordance with the provisions of Article 294 of the TFEU and the joint declaration on practical arrangements for the codecision procedure¹, a number of informal contacts took place between the Council, the European Parliament and the Commission with a view to reaching an agreement on this dossier at first reading, thereby avoiding the need for second reading and conciliation.

In this context, the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs tabled a further, compromise, amendment (amendment 2). This amendment had been agreed during the informal contacts referred to above. It was intended to supersede - rather than to complement - the amendment already submitted by the Committee.

II. VOTE

When it voted on 4 February 2014, the plenary adopted the compromise amendment (amendment 2). No other amendments were adopted.

The Commission's proposal as thus amended constitutes the Parliament's first-reading position which is contained in its legislative resolution as set out in the Annex hereto ¹.

The Parliament's position reflects what had been previously agreed between the institutions. The Council should therefore be in a position to approve the Parliament's position. The act would then be adopted in the wording which corresponds to the Parliament's position.

¹ The version of the Parliament's position in the legislative resolution has been marked up to indicate the changes made by the amendments to the Commission's proposal. Additions to the Commission's text are highlighted in bold and italics. The symbol "■" indicates deleted text.

Position of the European Parliament adopted at first reading on 4 February 2014 with a view to the adoption of Directive 2014/.../EU of the European Parliament and of the Council on criminal sanctions for insider dealing and market manipulation*

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 83(2) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

* TEXT HAS NOT YET UNDERGONE LEGAL-LINGUISTIC FINALISATION.

Having regard to the opinion of the European Central Bank¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee²,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure³,

Whereas:

- (1) An integrated and efficient financial market and stronger investor confidence requires market integrity. The smooth functioning of securities markets and public confidence in markets are prerequisites for economic growth and wealth. Market abuse harms the integrity of financial markets and public confidence in securities, derivatives and benchmarks.

³ Position of the European Parliament of 4 February 2014.

- (2) Directive 2003/6/EC of the European Parliament and the Council¹ completed and updated the Union's legal framework to protect market integrity. It also required Member States to ensure that competent authorities have the powers to detect and investigate market abuse. Without prejudice to the right of Member States to impose criminal sanctions, Directive 2003/6/EC also required Member States to ensure that the appropriate administrative measures can be taken or administrative sanctions can be imposed against the persons responsible for violations of the national rules implementing that Directive.
- (3) The report by the High-Level Group on Financial Supervision in the EU (the 'High-Level Group') recommended that a sound prudential and conduct of business framework for the financial sector must rest on strong supervisory and sanctioning regimes. To that end, the High-Level Group considered that supervisory authorities must be equipped with sufficient powers to act and that there should also be equal, strong and deterrent sanctions regimes against all financial crimes, sanctions which should be enforced effectively, in order to preserve market integrity. The High-Level Group concluded that Member States' sanctioning regimes are in general weak and heterogeneous.

- (4) A well-functioning legislative framework on market abuse requires effective enforcement. An evaluation of the national regimes for administrative sanctions under Directive 2003/6/EC showed that not all national competent authorities had a full set of powers at their disposal to ensure that they could respond to market abuses with the appropriate sanction. In particular, not all Member States had pecuniary administrative sanctions available for insider dealing and market manipulation, and the level of sanctions varied widely among Member States. A new legislative act is, therefore, needed to ensure common minimum rules across the Union.
- (5) The adoption of administrative sanctions by the Member States has so far proven to be insufficient to ensure compliance with the rules on preventing and fighting market abuse.
- (6) It is essential that compliance be strengthened by the availability of criminal sanctions which demonstrate a social disapproval of a qualitatively different nature compared to administrative penalties. Establishing criminal offences for at least serious forms of market abuse sets clear boundaries in law that such behaviours are regarded as unacceptable and sends a message to the public and potential offenders that these are taken very seriously by competent authorities.

- (7) Not all Member States have provided for criminal sanctions for some forms of serious breaches of national legislation implementing Directive 2003/6/EC. These different approaches undermine the uniformity of conditions of operation in the internal market and may provide an incentive for persons to carry out market abuse in Member States which do not provide for criminal sanctions for these offences. In addition, until now there has been no Union-wide understanding on which conduct is considered to be such a serious breach. Therefore, minimum rules concerning the definition of criminal offences committed by natural persons, of the liability of legal persons and of sanctions should be set. Common minimum rules would make it also possible to use more effective methods of investigation and effective cooperation within and between Member States. In light of the aftermath of the financial crisis, it is evident that market manipulation has a potential for widespread damage on the lives of millions of people. The recent Libor scandal, which concerned a serious case of benchmark manipulation, demonstrated that relevant problems and loopholes impact gravely on market confidence and may result in significant losses to investors and distortions of the real economy. The absence of common criminal sanction regimes across the Union creates opportunities for perpetrators of market abuse to take advantage of lighter regimes in some Member States. In addition, the imposition of criminal sanctions for market abuse offences will have an increased deterrent effect on potential offenders.

- (8) The introduction of criminal sanctions for at least serious market abuse offences by all Member States is therefore essential to ensure the effective implementation of Union policy on fighting market abuse ■ .
- (9) In order for the scope of this Directive to be aligned with that of Regulation (EU) No.../2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹ [MAR], trading in own shares in buy-back programmes and trading in securities or associated instruments for the stabilisation of securities, as well as transactions, orders or behaviours carried out in pursuit of monetary, exchange-rate or public debt management policy, and activities concerning emission allowances undertaken in pursuit of the Union's climate policy, as well as activities undertaken in the pursuit of the Union's Common Agricultural Policy and the Union's Common Fisheries Policy, should be exempt from this Directive.
- (10) Member States should be under the obligation to provide that at least serious cases of insider dealing, market manipulation and unlawful disclosure of inside information constitute criminal offences when ■ committed with intent.

- (10a) For the purpose of this Directive, insider dealing and unlawful disclosure of inside information should be deemed to be serious in cases such as those where the impact on the integrity of the market, the actual or potential profit derived or loss avoided, the level of damage caused to the market, or the overall value of the financial instruments traded is high. Other circumstances that might be taken into account are, for instance, if the offence has been committed within the framework of a criminal organisation or if the person already has committed such an offence before.
- (10b) For the purpose of this Directive, market manipulation should be deemed to be serious in cases such as those where the impact on the integrity of the market; the actual or potential profit derived or loss avoided, the level of damage caused to the market, the level of alteration of the value of the financial instrument or spot commodity contract or the amount of funds originally used is high or whether the manipulation is performed by a person employed or working in the financial sector or in a supervisory or regulatory authority.

- (11) Due to the adverse effects attempted insider dealing and attempted market manipulation have on the integrity of the financial markets and on investor confidence in these markets, these forms of behaviour should also be punishable as a criminal offence.
- (11a) This Directive should oblige Member States to provide in their national legislation for criminal penalties in respect of the behaviours of insider dealing, market manipulation and unlawful disclosure of inside information to which this Directive applies. This Directive should not create obligations regarding the application of such penalties or any other available system of law enforcement, to individual cases.
- (12) This Directive should also require Member States to ensure that inciting, aiding and abetting the criminal offences are also punishable. ■
- (12a) In order for the sanctions for the offences referred to in this Directive to be effective and dissuasive, a minimum level for the maximum term of imprisonment should be set in this Directive.

- (13) This Directive should be applied taking into account the legal framework established by Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR] and its implementing measures.
- (14) In order to ensure effective implementation of the European policy for ensuring the integrity of the financial markets set out in Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR], Member States should extend liability for the offences provided for in this Directive to legal persons through the imposition of criminal or non-criminal sanctions or measures which are effective, proportionate and dissuasive, such as for example set out in Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR]. Such measures may also include the publication of a final decision on a sanction including the identity of the liable legal person, taking into account fundamental rights and the principle of proportionality and risks for the stability of financial markets and on-going investigations. Member States should where appropriate and where national law provides for criminal liability for legal persons, extend such criminal liability, in accordance with national law, for the offences provided for in this Directive. This Directive should not prevent Member States from publishing final decisions on liability or sanctions.

- (14a) Member States should take necessary measures to ensure that law enforcement, judicial authorities and other competent authorities responsible for investigating or prosecuting the offences provided for in this Directive have the ability to use effective investigative tools. Taking into account, inter alia, principle of proportionality, the use of such tools in accordance with national law should be commensurate with the nature and seriousness of the offences under investigation.
- (15) As this Directive provides for minimum rules, Member States are free to adopt or maintain more stringent criminal law rules for market abuse.
- (15a) Member States may for example provide that the conduct described in Article 4 committed recklessly or by serious negligence constitutes a criminal offence.
- (15b) The obligations under Articles 6 and 8 do not exempt Member States from the obligation to provide in national law for administrative sanctions and measures for the breaches set out in Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR] unless Member States have decided, in accordance with the provisions of Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR], to lay down only criminal sanctions for such breaches in their national law.

- (15c) The scope of this Directive is defined in such a way as to complement and ensure the effective implementation of the provisions set out in Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR]. Whereas offences should be punishable in accordance with this Directive when committed intentionally and at least in serious cases, sanctions for breaches of Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR] do not require that intent is proven or that they are qualified as serious. In the application of the law transposing this Directive, Member States should ensure that imposition of criminal sanctions on the basis of offences foreseen by this Directive and of administrative sanctions in accordance with the Regulation (EU) No .../2014 [MAR] does not lead to the breach of the principle of ne bis in idem.
- (15d) Without prejudice to the general rules of national criminal law on the application and execution of sentences in accordance with the concrete circumstances in each individual case, proportionality of sanctions should take into account the profits made or losses avoided by the persons held liable, as well as the damage resulting from the offence to other persons and, where applicable, the damage to the functioning of markets or the wider economy.

- (17) Since the objective of this Directive, namely to ensure the availability of criminal sanctions for at least serious market abuses across the Union, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States but can rather, by reason of the scale and effects of this Directive, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve that objective.
- (17a) Increasing cross-border activities require efficient and effective cooperation between national authorities which are competent for the investigation and prosecution of market abuse offences. The organisation and competencies of the national authorities in the different Member States should not hinder their cooperation.

- (18) This Directive respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union as enshrined in the TFEU. Specifically, it should be applied with due respect for the right to protection of personal data (Article 8), the freedom of expression (Article 11), the freedom to conduct a business (Article 16), the right to an effective remedy and to a fair trial (Article 47), the presumption of innocence and right of defence (Article 48), the principles of legality and proportionality of criminal offences and penalties (Article 49), and the right not to be tried or punished twice in criminal proceedings for the same offence (Article 50).
- (18a) In implementing this Directive Member States should ensure procedural rights of suspected or accused persons in criminal proceedings. Their obligations under this Directive are without prejudice to their obligations under the already adopted Union legislation on procedural rights in criminal proceedings. Nothing in this Directive is intended to restrict freedom of press and freedom of expression in the media in so far as they are guaranteed in the Union and in the Member States, in particular under Article 11 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights and other relevant provisions. This should be emphasized in particular as regards disclosure of inside information in accordance with Article 3a.

- (20) Without prejudice to Article 4 of Protocol █ No 21 █ on the position of the United Kingdom in respect of the area of freedom, security, and justice, annexed to the Treaty, the United Kingdom will not participate in the adoption of this Directive and is therefore not bound by or be subject to its application.
 - (21) In accordance with Articles 1, 2, 3 and 4 of Protocol █ No 21 █ on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the area of freedom, security and justice, annexed to the Treaty, Ireland has notified its wish to take part in the adoption and application of this Directive.
 - (22) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of Protocol █ No 22 █ on the position of Denmark annexed to the Treaty, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Directive and is therefore not bound by it or subject to its application,
