from:	General Secretariat of the Council
to:	Permanent Representatives Committee/Council
Subject:	Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on promoting the free movement of citizens and businesses by simplifying the acceptance of certain public documents in the European Union and amending Regulation (EU) No 1024/2012 - Outcome of the European Parliament's first reading (Strasbourg, 3 to 6 February 2014)

I. INTRODUCTION

The Committee on Legal Affairs adopted a report consisting of 49 amendments (amendments 1- 49) to the proposal for a Regulation. In addition, a group of 40 members (Mrs Angelika NIEBLER (EPP-DE) and Mrs Alexandra THEIN (ALDE-DE) and others) submitted two further amendments (amendments 50-51).

II. DEBATE

The Rapporteur, Mr Bernhard RAPKAY (S&D, DE), opened the debate, which took place on 3 February 2014, and:

- stressed that the proposed regulation intends to abolish unnecessary administrative formalities, such as the legalisation and the apostille, regarding the acceptance of certain public documents in other Member States. Furthermore it foresees simplification of other formalities related to the cross-border acceptance of public documents, namely of certified copies and certified translations.
- asked for the introduction of an effective and secure administrative cooperation between national authorities based on the already existing Internal Market Information system (IMI) in order to guarantee the authenticity of public documents which circulate from one Member State to another, and in order to avoid fraud and the use of forged documents.
- argued that the proposed regulation will not cover the substantive recognition of the contents of a public document, and therefore will not imply any particular legal consequences, but will only guarantee the simple acceptance of the document as a document of the correct type. In such a case, the authenticity of a public document can safely be presumed.
- spoke in favour of the introduction of multilingual standard forms concerning, inter alia, births, deaths, marriages, registered partnerships and legal status, and the representation of a company or other undertaking. If these standard forms were to exist, the need for translations would disappear.
- stressed that for certain public documents (in the areas of real estate, legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking, and the legal form and representation of other legal persons) the responsible national administration should, by way of derogation from the standard rule, be authorised to ask for a supplementary certified translation.
- regretted that the Council was not ready and willing to enter into negotiations with the European Parliament, due to the fact that it is dominated by bureaucrats from the national ministries. He stressed that the EP has done its work to cut red tape and will vote before the end of legislative term.

The Vice-President of the Commission, Mrs Viviane REDING:

- also underlined the main objective of the proposal, which is to simplify the acceptance of public documents when citizens and companies make use of their right of free movement and establishment and when they would otherwise be blocked by bureaucratic hurdles. She stressed that this matter concerns 14 million citizens who reside in a Member State other than that of their origin.
- stressed that, in case of doubts, national authorities are able to check the authenticity of a public document with the issuing authority via the IMI system. This will make fraud and forgery very difficult.
- outlined that the Commission is ready to accept the changes and improvements proposed by the Committee of Legal Affairs, in particular the possibility that a certified translation can still be requested for economically complex documents such as those concerning real estate or companies, and providing for a bigger number of multilingual standard forms.
- stressed that the Commission cannot accept the amendments tabled by the group of 40 members after the vote in the Legal Affairs Committee. As the amendments foresee that only extracts from registers and a few administrative documents would be exempted from the apostille and other formalities, it would go completely against the basic objective of the Commission proposal of reducing unnecessary bureaucratic hurdles.

Speaking on behalf of the EPP political group, Mr Alajos MESZAROS (EPP-SK):

- spoke in favour of the report adopted by the Legal Affairs Committee and the proposed regulation, as it would foster and simplify the free movement of citizens and the right of establishment.
- underlined the need to ensure good and effective cooperation between Member States through the IMI system. This should strengthen mutual trust between national administrations and would help to reduce the risks of fraud and forgery.
- supported the creation of multilingual forms. This could also help the use of minority languages.

Speaking on behalf of the S&D political group, Mrs Evelyn REGNER (S&D-AT):

- thanked the Rapporteur for his work and stressed the possible positive impact of the proposed regulation on European citizens.
- pointed out that the S&D group would like to improve the existing systems and does not have general misgiving about them. She stressed that work should be done towards alignment of the standards and to overcome purely national thinking.
- stressed that limiting the scope to only public documents which are extracts from public registries, as certain members of the EPP group suggest, is not acceptable.

Speaking on behalf of the ALDE political group, Mrs Alexandra THEIN (ALDE-DE):

- stressed the importance of the proposed regulation for the free movement of citizens and for the rule of law in the Union.
- regretted that the Rapporteur has enlarged the scope immensely and in such a way that she cannot agree to it. The Commission presented the proposal only now at the end of the legislative term, due to the fact that the matter is difficult and not as simple as the Rapporteur presents it. This is in particular the case in respect of documents counterparts of which do not exist in other Member States, since both the formal and the substantive legal effects thereof differ substantially.
- argued furthermore, given that the proposed scope is now so wide, that the Council could not agree to it, and negotiations with the Council could therefore not even start. If the regulation would have been limited to feasible and realistic goals, an agreement with the Council could have been found and the regulation could have entered into force. The Parliament will now adopt its position, but afterwards the proposal will be blocked in Council and no further progress will be made.
- asked for support of the two amendments (amendments 50 and 51) which she had tabled together with colleagues from the EPP group. The amendments are aimed at limiting the scope to extracts from public registries, and would exclude documents concerning real property and conveyancing, and company law documents.
- spoke in favour of multilingual documents which could be used without any problems from now on, if the Member States are able to find a common terminology and to draft common models for such documents.

Speaking on behalf of the Greens/EFA political group, Mrs Eva LICHTENBERGER (Greens/EFA-AT):

- spoke in favour of the report adopted by the Legal Affairs Committee and the proposed regulation, as it would foster and simplify the free movement of citizens and the right of establishment.
- pointed out that the problem of fraud and forged documents will continue to exist, but looked to the possibility of having a stronger and more effective exchange between the national administrations as a step in the right direction.
- stressed that a balance needs to be found between the interests of citizens living with cross-border contacts or businesses and the security and authenticity of public documents.

Speaking on behalf of the ECR political group, Mrs Andrea CSEKOVA (ECR-CZ):

- supported the objectives of the regulation to reduce bureaucracy and abolish unnecessary administrative burdens.
- spoke in favour of the two proposed amendments 50 and 51 which would limit the scope to extracts from public registries on the civil status of persons, and said that the regulation should not extend to other documents.
- stated that simplification in the use of standardised documents would help and would already represent real progress.

Speaking on behalf of the EFD political group, Mr Jaroslav PASKA (EFD-SK):

- spoke in favour of the wider use of multilingual forms for the certificates most often used, such as extracts from registries regarding births, marriages and deaths.
- noted that a pragmatic approach would be necessary in order to check the authenticity of the public documents from other Member States.

III. VOTE

When it voted on 4 February 2014, the Parliament adopted the Committee's forty-nine amendments (amendments 1-49). No other amendments were adopted.

The Commission's proposal as thus amended and the legislative resolution constitute the Parliament's position at first-reading. The text of the amendments adopted and the European Parliament's legislative resolution are set out in the Annex to this note.
