The Committee held an exchange of views on the Presidency compromise and agreed to forward the conclusions to the Council for adoption. Poland indicated its intention to vote against.

Statement by the Commission

"Whilst not opposing the final agreement to enable the European Union's signature of the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence, the Commission regrets that the Council departed from the Commission's proposal for a broad-based signature and limits the signing of a holistic, human-rights based instrument to single aspects of the Convention.

The Commission considers that this approach encounters political and legal concerns.

From a political point of view, the Commission regrets that the EU is not able, in the light of the existing comprehensive body of relevant legislation, its actions to combat violence against women and its leading role on gender equality in general, to send a stronger signal on the coherence of its external and internal policy by ensuring the widest-possible incorporation of the Convention in the Union acquis.

A reduced scope is also a missed opportunity to harness the EU's already existing legislative framework of action against violence and to provide a stable and sustainable foundation for activating Union resources for specific areas of the Convention.

From a legal perspective, the Commission maintains its view that the Council Decision on signing should have taken the form of a single text, comprising both exclusive and shared competences and using the legal basis of Article 82(2) TFE: the support to and the protection of the victims' of offences criminalised by the Convention is the centre of gravity of the Convention.

With regard to the extent of the exclusive external competence of the European Union pursuant Article 3(2) TFEU, the Commission maintains its views that exclusive external competence of the Union is established, in relation to Chapter VII of the Convention, not only with regard to asylum and non-refoulement matters (Articles 60 and 61 of the Convention) but also with regard to matters of residence status of victims and their protection from expulsion in accordance with Article 59 of the Convention. The Commission furthermore upholds its view that exclusive external competence is also established against the background of existing acquis covering the areas of the Convention to a considerable extent, notably Directive 2012/29/EU on minimum standards on the rights, support and protection of victims of crime, for matters of the Convention under its Chapters IV and VI on protection of and support to all women victims and therefore also concerning other female victims of gender-based offences besides female victims of crimes covered by Directives 2011/36/EU and 2011/93/EU.

The Commission therefore takes the view that the reference in Recital 10 of the Council Decision on the signing of the Convention with regards to matters related to judicial cooperation in criminal matters to Directives 2011/36/EU and 2011/93/EU cannot be understood as an exhaustive list of acts by which UK and Ireland are bound in matters related to judicial cooperation in criminal matters under the Convention.

With regard to the splitting of the decision in two separate decisions, the Commission

- recalls that, as regards matters of asylum, Ireland is bound by Directives 2004/83/EC and 2005/85/EC. The Commission therefore takes the view that Ireland is bound by the Decision on signing of the Convention with regard to Articles 60 and 61 with the exception of Article 60(3) of the Convention regarding gender-sensitive reception procedures;
- recalls that the United Kingdom continues to be bound by the following directives in the area of asylum: Directive 2004/83/EC, 2003/9/EC, 2005/85/EC. The Commission therefore takes the view that the United Kingdom is bound by the Decision on signing of the Convention with regard to Articles 60 and 61 of the Convention.

The Commission reserves its right to seek clarification of these issues in the Court of Justice."

Statement by the United Kingdom

"The United Kingdom wishes to record its support for the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (the Istanbul Convention), and to place on record its intention to ratify the Convention. The UK is committed to working both nationally and internationally to tackle violence against women and girls in all its forms, ensuring that victims are supported, perpetrators are brought to justice, and that we do all we can to prevent these crimes happening in the first place.

The United Kingdom however wishes to record its view that there is no exclusive external competence for the Union arising from the Convention in respect of the subject matter referred to in the Council Decision on the signing, on behalf of the European Union, of the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence with regard to matters related to judicial cooperation in criminal matters. Accordingly, it should be for the Council to determine freely the matters in respect of which the European Union should sign the Convention.

Further, the United Kingdom considers that the Council Decision, being a measure proposed pursuant to Title V of Part Three of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, is subject to Protocol (No. 21) to the Treaties on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in Respect of the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice.

Accordingly, the United Kingdom does not consider that it is automatically bound, as suggested by Recital (10), to participate in the Council Decision simply on account of its participation in Directive 2011/36/EU on preventing and combating trafficking in human beings and protecting its victims, and Directive 2011/93/EU on combating sexual exploitation of children, and child pornography."

22. Draft Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Regulation (EU) No 2016/1036 on the protection against dumped imports from countries not members of the European Union and Regulation (EU) No 2016/1037 on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Union (First reading)

Statement by the Commission

"The Commission considers that the above mentioned "Union submission" to be submitted to the IMO is covered by EU exclusive competence. Submission of proposals to the IMO on issues of EU competence is an act of external representation and should be made by the Commission on behalf of the EU to IMO and should therefore be sent to the IMO by the Commission.

In the view of the Commission, the procedural arguments against presenting submissions to the IMO by the Commission on behalf of the EU are not convincing as there is no evidence to suggest that the IMO, as a specialized agency of the United Nations, would be in a position to reject such a submission.

The Commission thus maintains its position that the Treaty provisions on external representation of the Union should be applied and, consequently, to present the submission in question to the IMO by the European Commission on behalf of the European Union is the only legally correct way forward. In case of non-respect of the above rules, the Commission reserves all its rights in this regard."
