Subject: Europe's Digital Progress report
- Information from the Commission

Europe's Digital Progress Report (EDPR) combines the quantitative data from the Digital Economy and Society Index – published in March 2017 – with country-specific policy insights, allowing to keep track of the progress made in terms of digitalisation by each Member State and providing an important feedback loop for policy-making at EU level as it identifies specific challenges and offers possible solutions together with examples of best practices.

The Commission will inform Ministers about the latest annual EDPR that was published on 27 April 2017¹.
