Subject:	Proposal for a Regulation on the European Union Agency for Criminal Justice Cooperation (EUROJUST) - Orientation debate

---

The Commission's proposal on Eurojust introduces major changes in the structure and governance of Eurojust (Articles 10 to 18). The main changes concern the distinction between the operational and management functions of the College; the setup of an Executive Board; new provisions on annual and multi-annual programming; the representation of the Commission in the College acting as a Management Board and in the Executive Board; and detailed description of the responsibilities and tasks of the Administrative Director.

The main goal of the proposed reform of Eurojust structure is to allow Eurojust to perform its tasks more effectively and efficiently. In order to remove the administrative burden currently faced by the National Members, the Commission proposes to distinguish between the operational and administrative functions of Eurojust by separating the College's management functions into operational and non operational matters. When it exercises its management function in non-operational matters, the College shall also comprise two representatives from the Commission.

The Commission's proposal also introduces an Executive Board to take responsibility for administrative matters at Eurojust and to assist the College on these issues. The Executive Board will comprise the President and Vice-Presidents, one other national member, the Commission and the Administrative Director. The Administrative Director will not have voting rights.

The Commission's proposed governance structure was met with some reservation by delegates when discussed at the COPEN Working Party in November 2013, with many delegates raising concerns about the representation of the Commission in the College in terms of how the independence of Eurojust may be perceived. Delegates also considered that the functions of the College, Executive Board and Administrative Director were not clearly defined.

Subsequently, COPEN invited Eurojust to comment on the governance structure proposed by the Commission in the draft Regulation. In its written comments<sup>1</sup>, Eurojust described how the current Council Decision had provided a minimum governance structure for Eurojust with Eurojust subsequently developing additional informal structures and adopting internal rules to deal with governance issues which had not been regulated by the Council Decision. It also noted that the Court of Auditors has repeatedly criticised the current governance structure of Eurojust in its annual audit reports since 2010.

On the governance structure presented by the Commission, Eurojust echoed the concerns raised by Member States, particularly around the Commission's representation in the College. It also considered that the Commission's presence on the Executive Board might not always be necessary and concluded that it would prefer to see the current informal structure of the Presidency Team which carries out the functions of an executive board be institutionalised under the new Regulation as an alternative approach which it considers to conform with the Common Approach on Decentralised Agencies.

The Commission has consistently argued that its proposal respects the operational independence of Eurojust, since its representatives would only be involved in management issues, not operational issues. It has also maintained that there are no objective reasons to deviate from the Common Approach on Decentralised Agencies with respect to the number of Commission representatives in the College and the Executive Board and their voting rights.

CATs at its meeting on 24th April 2014, discussed various models which could address the concerns raised by Member States and Eurojust. A clear majority of Member States supports an alternative model which would expand the existing Eurojust Presidency team to include a representative from the Commission and two other National Members (on rotation) to form a new Executive Board. This Executive Board would be responsible for overseeing the day-to-day administration of Eurojust and act as a preparatory body for the non-operational tasks of the College. The College could then focus on operational and policy work whilst retaining general control over administrative matters linked with operational issues, i.e. adoption of the budget, the annual report and annual and multi-annual work programmes in line with the overall aim of the Commission's proposal to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of Eurojust and reduce the administrative burden faced by National Members.

In light of the outcome of CATs, the Hellenic Presidency has prepared a revised text of the Commission's proposal which incorporates the model favoured by CATs. This text is attached in the Annex.

In light of these discussions, the Presidency invites the Council to endorse this text as the basis for future discussions at the COPEN Working Party.
