³ Position of the European Parliament of ...(OJ...) and decision of the Council of ...

- (1) Following the financial crisis and the recommendations of a group of high level experts led by Jacques de Larosière, the Union has made important progress in creating not only stronger, but also more harmonised rules for the financial markets in the form of the Single Rule Book. The Union has also set up the European System of Financial Supervision ("ESFS"), built on a two-pillar system which combines micro-prudential supervision, coordinated by European Supervisory Authorities ("ESAs"), and macro-prudential supervision through the establishment of the European Systemic Risk Board ("ESRB"). The three ESAs namely the European Banking Authority ("EBA"), created by Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴, the European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority ("EIOPA"), created by Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council , and the European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA), created by Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁵ (collectively "the founding regulations") – became operational in January 2011. The overall objective of the ESAs is to sustainably reinforce the stability and effectiveness of the financial system throughout the Union and to enhance consumer and investor protection.
- (2) The ESAs have made a crucial contribution to the harmonisation of the rules of the financial markets in the Union by providing the Commission with input for its initiatives for regulations and directives adopted by Council and Parliament. The ESAs have also provided the Commission with drafts of detailed technical rules which have been adopted as delegated and implementing acts.

⁵ Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 November 2010 establishing a European Supervisory Authority (European Securities and Markets Authority), amending Decision No 716/2009/EC and repealing Commission Decision 2009/77/EC (OJ L 331, 15.12.2010, p. 84).

- (3) The ESAs have also contributed to the convergence in financial supervision and supervisory practice in the Union by means of guidelines directed at competent authorities or financial institutions and by coordinating reviews of supervisory practices.
- (4) (...)
- (5) Any enhanced powers to be afforded to the ESAs, to enable them to meet those objectives, would also require both appropriate governance, an efficient use of resources and sufficient funding. Enhanced powers alone would not be sufficient to achieve the ESAs' objectives where they do not have sufficient funding or where they are not governed in an effective and efficient manner.
- (5a) When performing its tasks and exercising its powers the ESAs should act in accordance with the principles of proportionality and subsidiarity that are anchored in the Treaty, as well as better regulation policy. The content and form of the ESAs' actions and measures including instruments like guidelines, recommendations or Questions and Answers should always be based on and within the boundaries of the legislative acts within the scope of the ESAs. The ESAs should not exceed what is necessary to achieve the objectives of this Regulation and should be proportionate to the nature, scale and complexity of the risks inherent in the financial activity or business of the affected institution or undertaking.
- (5b) Questions and Answers are an important convergence tool that promotes common supervisory approaches and practices by giving guidance on the application of the European legislation within the scope of the ESAs. In the respective process the aspects of flexibility and transparency should be taken into account. Public consultations would be advisable regarding Questions and Answers with a potential high impact on the single market.

- (6) In the Commission's Communication of 8 June 2017 on the mid-term review of the Capital Markets Union Action Plan, it was emphasised that a more effective and consistent supervision of financial markets and services is pivotal for the elimination of regulatory arbitrage between Member States, when exercising their supervisory tasks, for the acceleration of market integration and for the creation of single market opportunities for financial entities and investors.
- (7) It is therefore particularly urgent to complete the Capital Markets Union. Ten years after the onset of the financial crisis and seven years after the establishment of the new supervisory system, financial services and the Capital Markets Union will be increasingly driven by two major developments: sustainable finance and technological innovation. Both have the potential to transform financial services and our system of financial supervision should be equipped for them.
- (8) It is therefore crucial that the financial system plays its full part in meeting critical sustainability challenges. This will require a deep re-engineering of the financial system to which the ESAs can make an active contribution to creating the right regulatory and supervisory framework for sustainable investments.
- (9) The ESAs should play an important role in identifying and reporting risks that environmental, social and governance factors pose to financial stability, and in rendering financial markets activity more consistent with sustainability objectives. The ESAs should provide guidance on how sustainability considerations can be effectively embodied in relevant EU financial legislation, and promote coherent implementation of these provisions upon adoption.

- (10) Technological innovation has had an increasing impact on the financial sector and competent authorities have therefore taken various initiatives to deal with those technological developments. In order to continue promoting better supervisory convergence and to exchange best practices between relevant authorities on the one hand, and between relevant authorities and financial institutions or financial market participants on the other hand, the role of the ESAs with regard to their oversight function and supervisory coordination should be strengthened.
- (11) Technological advancements in financial markets can improve financial inclusion, provide access to finance, enhance market integrity and operational efficiency and also lower barriers to entry in those markets. To the extent relevant for the applicable substantive rules, training of competent authorities should also extend to technological innovation. This should contribute to avoiding that Member States develop divergent approaches in these matters.
- (12) (...)
- (14) In addition, for the purpose of the procedure provided for in Article 17 of the founding regulations and in the interest of proper application of Union law, it is appropriate to ease and speed up the ESAs' access to information. They should therefore be enabled to request information directly, via a duly justified and reasoned request, from other competent authorities whenever requesting information from the competent authority concerned has proven, or is deemed, insufficient to obtain the information that is deemed necessary for the purpose of investigating an alleged breach or non-application of Union law.

- (15) A harmonised supervision of the financial sector requires a consistent approach among competent authorities. To that end, the activities of the competent authorities are subject to peer reviews, which should be supported by peer review committees. The ESAs should also ensure that the methodology is applied in the same manner. The peer reviews should not only focus on the convergence of supervisory practices, but also on the capacity of competent authorities to achieve high quality supervisory outcomes, as well as on the independence of those competent authorities. The main findings of those peer reviews should be published to encourage compliance and increase transparency, unless such publication would involve risks to financial stability.
- (16) A harmonised supervision of the financial sector also requires that disagreements between the competent authorities of different Member States in cross-border situations are settled efficiently. The existing rules for settling such disagreements are not fully satisfactory. They should therefore be adapted so as to be more easily applicable.
- (17) Integral to the ESAs work on convergence of supervisory practices is the promotion of a Union supervisory culture. Therefore, the Board of Supervisors may identify up to two priorities of union wide relevance and forward looking character each year. These priorities should be taken into account by competent authorities when drawing up their work programmes. The Board of Supervisors should discuss the relevant activities by the Authorities in the next year and draw conclusions.

- (19) Orderly and well-functioning international financial markets require that third-country equivalence decisions that have been adopted by the Commission are monitored. Each ESA should monitor the regulatory and supervisory developments and the enforcement practices in those third countries. It shall do so in order to verify whether the criteria, on the basis of which those decisions have been taken and any conditions set out therein, are still fulfilled. The Authority should submit a confidential report on its monitoring activities to the Commission on an annual basis. In that context, each ESA should also, where possible, develop administrative arrangements with third-country competent authorities to obtain information for monitoring purposes and for coordinating supervisory activities. This enhanced supervisory regime will ensure that third countries' equivalence is more transparent, more predictable for the third countries concerned and more consistent across all sectors.
- (20) The collection and gathering of accurate and complete information by the ESAs is essential to the carrying out of their tasks and functions and to achieving their objectives. In order to avoid duplication of reporting obligations for financial institutions and financial market participants, that information should be provided by the relevant competent authorities or national supervisory authorities which are closest to the financial markets and institutions.
- (21) Within the founding regulations of the ESAs it was provided that competent authorities would play a key role within their governance structure to ensure that expertise and practical know-how flow into decision making. ESAs should continue to operate as members-based organisations that arrive at decisions through reflections among their members and no decision should be taken against the will of a majority of their members. The ultimate decision-making body of the Authority is the Board of Supervisors. It was also specified in those regulations that in order to prevent conflicts of interest, the members of the Board of Supervisors and of the Management Board would act independently and in the sole interest of the Union. In order to enhance work on convergence, the Management Board shall be strengthened by fulltime members.

(22) (...)

(23) In order to provide for an appropriate level of expertise and accountability, the Chairperson and the fulltime members of the Management Board should be appointed on the basis of merit, skills, knowledge of clearing, post-trading and financial matters, as well as experience relevant to the financial supervision. To ensure transparency and democratic control, as well as to safeguard the rights of the Union institutions, the Chairperson and the fulltime members of the Management Board should be chosen on the basis of an open selection procedure. The Board of Supervisors should establish a shortlist and submit that shortlist to the European Parliament for approval. Following that approval, the Council should adopt a decision to appoint the members of the Management Board. The Chairperson and the fulltime members of the Management Board should be accountable to the European Parliament and to the Council for any decisions taken on the basis of the founding Regulations.

(24) (...)

(25) (...)

(26) (...)

(27) (...)

(28) To preserve the confidentiality of the work of the ESAs, the requirements of professional secrecy should also apply to any person who provides any service, directly or indirectly, permanently or occasionally, related to the tasks of the ESA concerned.

- (29) Regulations (EU) No 1093/2010, 1094/2010 and 1095/2010 as well as sectoral financial services legislation require the ESAs to seek effective administrative arrangements, involving the exchange of information with third-country supervisors. The need for effective cooperation and information exchange should become all the more important when, pursuant to this amending Regulation, some of the ESAs assume additional, broader responsibilities in relation to the supervision of non-EU entities and activities. Where, in this context, the ESAs process personal data, including by transferring such data outside the Union, they are bound by the requirements of Regulation (EU) No 2018/XXX (Data Protection Regulation for EU institutions and Bodies). In the absence of an adequacy decision or of appropriate safeguards, for example provided for in administrative arrangements within the meaning of Article 49(3) of the Data Protection Regulation for EU institutions and Bodies, the ESAs may exchange personal data with third-country authorities in accordance with and under the conditions of the public interest derogation as set out in Article 51(1)(d) thereof, which notably applies to cases of international data exchange between financial supervisory authorities.
- (30) It is essential that the EBA decision making procedures provide appropriate safeguards for Member States not participating in the banking union, whilst at the same time enabling the EBA to continue to take decisions in an effective manner when the number of non-participating Member States reduces. The current voting rules requiring that a majority of participating member States and a majority of non-participating Member States for EBA take a decision should be maintained.

- (31) The founding regulations of the ESAs provide that the ESAs, in cooperation with the ESRB, should initiate and coordinate Union-wide stress tests in order to assess the resilience of financial institutions or financial market participants to adverse market developments. It should also ensure that a consistent methodology is applied, in as much as possible, at national level to such tests. It should also be clarified, in respect of all of the ESAs, that the professional secrecy obligations of competent authorities shall not prevent competent authorities from transmitting the results of stress test to the ESAs for the purpose of publication.
- (32) (...)
- (33) With the ever increasing cross-border dimension of trading activities and, in particular, of the activities of certain investment firms which, by their systemic nature, may have cross-border effects impacting financial stability, ESMA should have an enhanced coordination role in recommending competent authorities to initiate corresponding investigations. Furthermore, it should be able to facilitate the exchange of information relevant for those investigations, where ESMA has reasonable grounds to suspect that activity with significant cross-border effects is taking place that threatens the orderly functioning and integrity of financial markets or the financial stability in the Union.
- (34) (...)
- (35) (...)
- (36) (...)
- (37) (...)
- (38) (...)
- (39) (...)

- (40) (...) (41) The quality of trading data and of the processing and provisioning those data, including cross-border data procession and provisioning, is of paramount importance to achieve the main objective of Regulation (EU) No 600/2014 of strengthening the transparency of financial markets. The provision of a consolidated tape is therefore pivotal for users to be able to obtain the desired overview of trading activity across Union financial markets and for competent authorities to receive accurate and comprehensive information on relevant transactions.
- (42) (...)
- (43) (...)
- (44) It is important to ensure effective and efficient functioning of the consolidated tape. ESMA should therefore be conferred competences to the authorisation and oversight of consolidated tape providers.
- (45) (...)
- (46) The conferral of authorisation and oversight of consolidated tape providers to ESMA is also instrumental to other tasks ESMA is performing under Regulation (EU) No 600/2014, as well as ensuring high quality of post-trade data.
- (47) For ESMA to exercise its supervisory powers effectively within the area of supervising consolidated tape providers, ESMA should be able to conduct investigations and on-site inspections. ESMA should be able to impose penalties or periodic penalty payments to compel consolidated tape providers to put an end to an infringement, to supply complete and correct information required by ESMA or to submit them to an investigation or an on-site inspection and to impose administrative sanctions or other administrative measures where it finds that a person has committed, intentionally or negligently, an infringement of Regulation (EU) No 600/2014.

- (48) Financial products using critical benchmarks are available in all Member States. Those benchmarks are therefore of crucial importance for the functioning of financial markets and financial stability in the Union. The supervision of a critical benchmark should therefore take a holistic view of potential impacts, not only in the Member State where the administrator is located and the Member States where its contributors are located, but across the entire Union. It is hence appropriate that certain critical benchmarks are supervised at Union level by ESMA in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/1011.
- (48a) Regulation (EU) 2016/1011 introduces a common framework to ensure the accuracy and integrity of indices used as benchmarks in financial instruments and financial contracts, or to measure the performance of investment funds in the Union.
- (48b) Article 51(1) of Regulation (EU) 2016/1011 introduced a transitional period whereby an index provider providing a benchmark on 30 June 2016 shall apply for authorisation by 1 January 2020.
- (48c) The discontinuation of a critical benchmarks can impact market integrity, financial stability, consumers, the real economy, or the financing of households and businesses in Member States. Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2016/1368 established a list of critical benchmarks used in financial markets pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2016/1011. Critical benchmarks are defined under Article 4(1), point 25 of Regulation (EU) 2016/1011.
- (48d) The discontinuation of a critical benchmark by an administrator could affect the validity of financial contracts or financial instruments. The discontinuation of a such a critical benchmark could cause disruption to both investors and consumers, with potentially severe repercussions on financial stability. In addition, should input data to critical benchmarks cease, this could undermine the representative nature of such benchmarks and negatively impact the benchmarks' ability to reflect its underlying market or economic reality.
- (48e) The possibility to mandate the administration of critical benchmarks, as well as the possibility to mandate contributions to such benchmarks, should therefore be ensured for an overall period of 5 years in total.

(48f) Critical benchmarks are in a process of reform. Switching from an existing critical benchmark to an appropriate successor rate requires a period of transition so that all legal and technical arrangements necessary for such a switch can be completed without disruption. During this transitional period the existing critical benchmark will need to be published alongside its ultimate successor rate. It is therefore necessary to extend the period during which an existing critical benchmark can be published and used without their administrator having obtained the necessary regulatory authorisations.

(65) It is appropriate to provide for a reasonable period of time to make the necessary arrangements for the envisaged governance structure and the delegated and implementing acts in order to enable the ESAs and the other parties concerned to apply the rules introduced by this Regulation.

(66) Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010; Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010; Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010; Regulation (EU) No 600/2014; Regulation (EU) 2016/2011; should therefore be amended accordingly,
