According to article 9 of the Multiannual Financial Framework the Emergency Aid Reserve (EAR) is intended to allow for a rapid response to specific aid requirements of third countries following events which could not be foreseen when the budget was established; first and foremost for humanitarian operations, but also for civil crisis management and protection, and situations of particular pressure resulting from migratory flows at the Union's external borders, where circumstances so require.

d) Detailed grounds for the increase

The humanitarian crisis in South Sudan has further deteriorated in recent months. This results from years of conflict, which have displaced 4,4 million people inside the country and in the region. Food insecurity is at its highest level since the conflict started in December 2013. According to the World Food Programme figures of February 2019, severe acute food insecurity now affects 6,87 million people, i.e. more than 60 percent of the population. Out of them, about 2 million people are in a humanitarian emergency phase and in risk of famine. Reports of sexual and gender based violence have increased sharply in recent months, with an unprecedented number of victims who need assistance. In addition, new fighting has started in January 2019 with severe consequences for civilians.

The countries that host the South Sudanese refugees are faced with multiple natural and man-made humanitarian crises, which have recently further deteriorated. The situation is particularly critical in:

- Sudan, hosting 846 204 South Sudanese refugees: An additional 5 million people have now fallen into food insecurity due to the economic crisis in 2018. As a result, 50% of the population is now affected by food insecurity. The World Food Programme estimates that an additional 2,3 million people will be severely food insecure in the coming months;
- Ethiopia, hosting 420 000 refugees from South Sudan: Inter-ethnic violence has intensified in the last months in the Gambella region, where most South Sudanese refugees live. There is an increasing political pressure to limit assistance to refugees whose presence is perceived as creating an ethnic imbalance and not benefitting the host population. Violence among refugee groups themselves has also affected the conditions in the camps.

EUR 30,0 million in commitment and EUR 24,0 million in payment appropriations are requested, in addition to the EUR 80,5 million already programmed in late 2018. The assistance will be allocated to South Sudan (EUR 20,0 million), Sudan (EUR 5,0 million) and Ethiopia (EUR 5,0 million).

As of 15 February, the overall implementation rate of commitment appropriations of the humanitarian aid chapter 23 02 was at 93,3% of available appropriations, whereas the implementation in payment appropriations was at 4,9%.

The Operational Reserve for Humanitarian aid is expected to be used during the first semester of the year to cater for other humanitarian crises or sudden onset disasters.

The Commission has identified and proposes the redeployment of EUR 24,0 million in payment appropriations from the Instrument for Pre-accession (IPA). The Commission therefore requests the mobilisation of the Emergency Aid Reserve for EUR 30,0 million in commitment appropriations.
