- (1) Directive (EU) 2017/1132 of the European Parliament and of the Council³ lays down inter alia rules on disclosure of company information in business registers of Member States to enhance legal certainty in the single market, and a system of interconnection of registers. That system of interconnection of registers has been operational since June 2017 and currently connects all Member States' registers. In response to digital developments, Directive (EU) 2017/1132 was amended by Directive (EU) 2019/1151 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴ to provide rules for the fully online formation of limited liability companies, registration of cross-border branches and submission of documents to business registers.
- (2) In an increasingly digitalised world, digital tools are essential to ensure the continuity of business operations and companies' interactions with business registers and authorities. In order to increase trust and transparency in the business environment and facilitate companies' operations and activities in the single market, in particular in relation to micro, small and medium-sized enterprises ('SMEs'), as specified in Commission Recommendation 2003/361/EC⁵, it is crucial that companies, authorities and other stakeholders have access to reliable information about companies that can be used without burdensome formalities in a cross-border context.
- (3) This Directive responds to the digitalisation objectives set out by the Communications "2030 Digital Compass"⁶ and "Digitalisation of justice in the European Union"⁷, and to the need to facilitate the cross-border expansion of SMEs underlined in the Communications "Updating the 2020 New Industrial Strategy"⁸ and "SME Strategy for a sustainable and digital Europe"⁹.

⁴ Directive (EU) 2019/1151 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 June 2019 amending Directive (EU) 2017/1132 as regards the use of digital tools and processes in company law (OJ L 186, 11.7.2019, p. 80).

- (4) Access to, and use of, reliable company information from the registers are still hindered by barriers in cross-border situations. Firstly, company information that users, including companies and authorities, are looking for is not yet sufficiently available in national registers and/or cross-border through the system of interconnection of registers. Secondly, the use of such company information in cross-border situations, including administrative procedures before national authorities or EU institutions and bodies, court proceedings or the setting-up of cross-border subsidiaries or branches, is still hindered by time-consuming and costly procedures and requirements, including the need for apostille or translation of company documents.
- (5) All stakeholders, including companies themselves, authorities and the public at large need to be able to rely on information about companies for their business purposes or in administrative procedures or court proceedings. Therefore, it is necessary that company data, which is entered into business registers and accessible through the system of interconnection of registers, is accurate, up-to-date and reliable.
- (6) The introduction, by Directive (EU) 2019/1151, of standards for controls on the identity and legal capacity of persons that form a company, register a branch or file documents or information online was an important first step. It is now essential to take further steps to improve the reliability and trustworthiness of company information in registers in order to facilitate its use in cross-border administrative procedures and court proceedings.
- (7) While all Member States carry out, to a certain extent, an ex-ante scrutiny of company documents and information before they are entered in the business register, there are different approaches in Member States as regards the intensity of checks, applicable procedures or also the person or body in charge of verifying the information. This results in insufficient trust in company documents or information on a cross-border basis and in situations where company documents or information from a business register in one Member State are sometimes not accepted as evidence in another Member State.

- (8) Therefore, it is important to ensure that certain checks are carried out in all Member States in order to guarantee a high level of accuracy and reliability of the information, while at the same time respecting Member State traditions. It is also necessary that such checks are mandatory in general, not only for fully online formation of companies, but also for any other forms of formation of companies. Similarly, where Member States still allow other filing methods in addition to online filing, such checks standards should also be carried out in order to subject all information entered into the register to the same level of control. Such checks and other requirements should be adapted to the specificities related to the other forms of formation of companies. For example, online templates are only used by applicants as part of the fully online procedure for formation of companies.
- (9) A preventive administrative, judicial or notarial control or any combination thereof, respecting Member States traditions, including business registers as administrative or judicial authorities, should be ensured in all Member States in order to ensure reliability of company data in cross-border situations. A legality check of the company's instrument of constitution, the company statutes if contained in a separate instrument, and of any amendment of such instruments and statutes, should be carried out, given that these are the most important documents concerning the company. This preventive control should be without prejudice to national laws that, respecting Member States' legal systems and legal traditions, require that such documents shall be drawn up and certified in due legal form. A preventive control of the annual accounts is not required under this Directive.
- (10) In order to further cut costs and reduce administrative burdens relating to the formation of companies, including the length of procedures, and to facilitate the expansion of companies in the single market, in particular SMEs, the use of the 'once-only' principle should be further extended in the area of company law. This principle is already well recognised in the Union, including under the 2030 Digital Compass Communication as a means to allow public administrations to exchange data and evidence across borders, and used in different areas, such as for instance the once-only technical system for cross-border automated exchange of evidence under the Single Digital Gateway¹⁰.

¹⁰ Regulation (EU) 2018/1724 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 2 October 2018 establishing a single digital gateway to provide access to information, to procedures and to assistance and problem-solving services and amending Regulation (EU) No 1024/2012 (OJ L 295, 21.11.2018, p. 1).

- (11) Applying the ‘once-only’ principle entails that companies are not asked to submit the same information to public authorities more than once. For example, companies should not have to resubmit the company documents or information relating to the existence and registration of the founder company and thus already submitted to the register where the company is registered when creating a subsidiary in another Member State. Applying the ‘once-only’ principle would entail that the information about the founder company should be exchanged electronically, between the register where the company is registered and the register where a subsidiary is to be registered, using the system of interconnection of registers. Alternatively, information about the founder company could be directly accessed from the system of interconnection of registers through the European e-Justice portal, or in the national register of the founder company.
- (11a) Applying the ‘once-only’ principle also means that the founder company should not have to resubmit the company documents or information to any authority, body or person. These authorities should directly access information that is publicly available through the system of interconnections of registers via the European e-Justice portal. In case where the register should provide such information to any authority, body or person, Member States should be free to decide the means to do so, for example through national optional access points to the system of interconnection of registers, and whether to charge fees for such information.
- (12) In order to increase transparency and trust with respect to companies in the single market, and to facilitate companies’ cross-border operations and activities, it is essential to make more company information available across the Union and to ensure that it is comparable and more easily accessible. This should be done by building on the company information that already exists in national registers and making it available at Union level through the system of interconnection of registers, as well as by providing access to more information both in the national registers and through the system of interconnection of registers.

- (15) In order to protect the interests of third parties and enhance trust in business transactions with different types of companies in the single market, it is important to enhance transparency and provide easier access on a cross-border basis to information about so called ‘commercial partnerships’, which for the purpose of this Directive are understood to be types of partnerships listed in Annex IIB. These play an important role in the economy of Member States and are registered in all national business registers, yet there are differences between the types of partnerships and types of information made available about them across the Union, which results in difficulties in the cross-border access to this information. To address this, the same basic information about ‘commercial partnerships’ should be disclosed in all Member States. The disclosure requirements for partnerships should mirror the existing disclosure requirements for limited liability companies but be adapted to the specific characteristics of partnerships. For instance, the disclosure requirements should also cover information about partners authorised to represent the partnership. As in the case of limited liability companies, Member States should be allowed to require that partnerships disclose documents or information beyond what is required by this Directive. Where such additional documents or information contain personal data, Member States should process such personal data in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹¹.
- (16) Information about ‘commercial partnerships’ should also be accessible at Union level through the system of interconnection of registers in the same way as for limited liability companies, with certain information to be made available free of charge, and they should be unequivocally identified through the European unique identifier (“EUID”).

- (22) In addition to common standards for checking company information before it is entered into the register, it is necessary to ensure that the information in the register is kept up to date. The Financial Action Task Force recommendation 24 ‘Transparency and beneficial ownership of legal persons’, as revised in March 2022, includes requirements that company information in business registers be kept accurate and up to date. It is also in companies’ interest to make sure that their information is updated in the register because this information, including the EU Company Certificate, can be relied on by third parties. Therefore, companies should be required to disclose changes to company information without unnecessary delay and the registers should record and make available such changes in a timely manner. These requirements do not cover conversions, mergers or divisions of limited liability companies, for which specific rules are provided in Directive (EU) 2017/1132.

The deadline for the registers should start from the date when all formalities that are necessary for the filing are carried out, including the legality check confirming that the documents comply with national law. While the deadline for the publication of accounting documents is regulated by Directive 2013/34/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council¹², the registers should also make them publicly available without unnecessary delay. To further ensure that company information is accurate and up to date in all Member States, effective, proportionate and dissuasive penalties should be in place for failure to comply with all disclosure obligations under this Directive, including for late filing.

¹² Directive 2013/34/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013 on the annual financial statements, consolidated financial statements and related reports of certain types of undertakings, amending Directive 2006/43/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council and repealing Council Directives 78/660/EEC and 83/349/EEC (OJ L 182, 29.6.2013, p. 19).

- (23) In order to keep company information in registers updated, it is also important to identify companies which no longer fulfil the requirements to continue to be registered in the business register. While Member States should not be obliged to conduct periodic inspections, Member States should have transparent procedures in place to verify, in specific cases where doubts have arisen, the status of such companies. While companies may temporarily suspend their activity for valid reasons, it is important that their status in the business register is updated accordingly. For example, indicators could be the fact that a company does not have a functioning board of directors as required by national law, has not filed accounting documents, or lack of any economic activity for some years. Similarly, the fact that a large number of companies are registered at the same address could indicate that some of these companies may have been set up for abusive purposes. Such procedures should include the possibility for companies to explain their situation and provide the necessary data, within reasonable deadlines, and should ensure that the status of the company, for example, whether it is closed, struck off the register, wound up, dissolved, economically active or inactive, as defined in national law and where recorded in the national registers, is updated accordingly. The procedures should also include a possibility, as a last resort, to strike off a company from the register in accordance with the procedures set by national law. Information about these procedures should be publicly available in accordance with this Directive.

- (24) In the single market, companies should be able to prove that their company is legally incorporated in a Member State through simple and reliable means, which are recognised cross-border by other Member States. Therefore, a harmonised EU Company Certificate should be established. Companies could apply for such an EU Company Certificate, with national business registers or through the system of interconnection of registers, to use it for different purposes, including for administrative procedures before authorities and in court proceedings in other Member States or before EU institutions and bodies. Such an EU Company Certificate should be issued and certified by the national business registers, should be available in all official languages of the Union and should include essential company information used by companies in cross-border situations, including, for instance, the company name, its registered office, legal representatives or the object of the company, which should be understood as the main activity or activities of the company and could be expressed as a NACE code. The EU Company Certificate would be without prejudice to national extracts and certificates. The electronic EU Company Certificate should be authenticated by using trust services as referred to in Regulation (EU) No 910/2014¹³. The origin and authenticity of a paper format Certificate should be able to be verified electronically, for example, through a protocol number corresponding to the original document in the register or by verifying the digital signature of the issuing authority stored in the quick-response code (QR code) appearing on this document. Third parties, including authorities, which need reliable, essential information about companies would also be able to apply for the EU Company Certificate of a particular company. Registers and authorities in other Member States should accept an EU Company Certificate in accordance with this Directive.

¹³ Regulation (EU) No 910/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 July 2014 on electronic identification and trust services for electronic transactions in the internal market and repealing Directive 1999/93/EC (OJ L 257, 28.8.2014, p. 73).

- (24a) Directive (EU) 2017/1132 includes measures to ensure that company information is not only publicly disclosed, but also that it can be relied upon by third parties. In addition, Directive (EU) 2019/1151 introduced mandatory standards and controls in relation to the on-line formation of companies and the registration of branches. This Directive provides a comprehensive set of measures that will contribute further to ensuring that the company information in registers is accurate and up to date. The provisions to facilitate the cross-border use of company information in this Directive build on those already existing standards and controls as well as on the comprehensive set of measures proposed by this Directive to ensure accuracy.
- (24b) In order to tackle fraud and abuse, Member States should be allowed to refuse to accept the company information or documents from a register of another Member State as evidence where the competent authority has reasonable grounds to suspect fraud or abuse in relation to that company's formation or continued existence or to other information about that company. In such cases, the competent authority should, as a first step, consult the register which provided the information or issued the documents in order to request its views. The company information or document from a register in another Member State should not be refused systematically, but only exceptionally, on a case-by-case basis, where justified by the public interest to protect against fraud or abuse. If the information or the document provided is refused, the competent authority should inform the register which provided the information or document, e.g., through the relevant contact point referred to in Article 16e. This is without prejudice to the possibility for competent authorities to alert the register from which the information or document originates in cases where they consider that the information or document provided to them might contain inadvertent, clerical or other manifest, errors, with a view to seek its possible rectification before relying on the information or document, including for entries into their own register.

- (25) In order to further facilitate cross-border procedures for companies and simplify and reduce formalities, such as apostille or translation, a digital EU power of attorney should be established. The digital EU power of attorney will be a multilingual common European template which companies may choose to use in order to authorise a person to represent the company in specific cross-border procedures in the scope of this Directive, such as the formation of companies, registration or closure of branches, filing of amendments to the instrument of constitution, completion of cross-border conversions, or cross-border and domestic mergers and divisions. It should have a minimum mandatory content specifying at least the scope of representation, the person authorised to represent the company, the type of representation, and any potential restrictions on self-dealing or multiple representation, while it would be drawn up in accordance with national legal and formal requirements. The digital EU power of attorney should be accepted as evidence of the authorised person's entitlement to represent the company. This is without prejudice to the national rules related to formation of companies and limitations to the use of powers of attorney in general. The digital EU power of attorney should be aligned with the requirements of electronic attestation of attributes set in Regulation [...] [eID regulation COM/2021/281 final] and the technical specifications of the European Digital Identity Wallet to ensure a horizontal solution with increased user-friendliness. This should contribute to reduce both administrative and financial burdens for Member States by lowering the risk of developing parallel systems that are not interoperable across the Union.

- (25a) The digital EU power of attorney established under this Directive is without prejudice to national rules on legal and statutory representation or any other types of powers of attorney. The standard digital EU power of attorney would exist in digital form and it should be authenticated by using trust services as referred to in Regulation (EU) No 910/2014 as amended by [PO: Reference to Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Regulation (EU) No 910/2014 as regards establishing a framework for a European Digital Identity]. While, in accordance with Directive (EU) 2017/1132, the information about the legal representatives is required to be disclosed in the business registers, Member States should be free to choose whether to require that this specific EU digital power of attorney is filed, be it in the business register or in a different register in accordance with national law. In order to overcome language barriers and facilitate their use, the template for an EU Company Certificate and a template for the digital EU power of attorney should be available on the E-justice portal in all Union languages.

- (26) Companies often face difficulties and administrative barriers to use company information, which is already available in their national business register, in cross-border situations, including when dealing with competent authorities or in court proceedings in another Member State. The company data available in the business register of one Member State is often not accepted in another Member State without burdensome formalities that generate costs and delays. Therefore, in order to facilitate cross-border activities in the single market, Member States should ensure that no legalisation or similar formality, such as apostille, be required in respect of certified copies of documents and information related to companies obtained from registers. The same approach should also be applied for documents and information exchanged through the system of interconnection of registers (for example, pre-operation certificates) as well as for notarial acts or administrative documents in the procedures under the scope of this Directive which are used in cross-border context. Such procedures include the formation of companies and the registration of branches in another Member State, cross-border conversions, mergers and divisions.
- (27) At the same time, in order to prevent fraud or forgery, it should be possible for the authorities of the Member State in which the company document or information is presented, where they have a reasonable doubt as to its authenticity, to verify the document or information via the issuing register or the register in its own Member State, which could exchange information about the authenticity of the document through the system of interconnection of registers. To this end, Member States should notify the electronic mail address as a contact point in their Member State to the Commission. Such exchange of information should contribute to the mutual trust and cooperation between Member States within the single market.

- (28) The companies' instruments of constitution are sometimes drawn up in two or more languages, one of them often being an official Union language broadly understood by the largest possible number of cross-border users. Companies also often voluntarily publish a translation of their instrument of constitution into such a language on their websites. In addition, an increasing amount of company information contained in the instrument of constitution is separately available and easily identifiable with the assistance of multilingual labels through the system of interconnection of registers. Company information will also need to be stored in business registers in a machine-readable and searchable format or as structured data, in line with Directive (EU) 2019/1151, which will facilitate machine translation of such data. These developments make it easier to consult and use such company information in cross-border situations without the need for translation. Therefore, this Directive aims to simplify the cross-border use of company information by reducing the cases where translation, and in particular certified translation, is required.
- (28a) For instance, authorities which need to verify specific information about a company from another Member State should first consult the required information in the EU Company Certificate or through the system of interconnection of registers, instead of asking for translation of the entire document containing such specific information. This would not affect the right of Member States to require a non-certified translation into one of their official languages if they need the entire document in the context of a particular procedure. As regards certified translations, as a general principle, legal requirements for producing such translations of the instrument of constitution or of other documents provided by the business register should be limited to what is strictly necessary and certified translations should be required only in specific cases. However, a certified translation can be required, for example, where the documents are to be publicly disclosed by a register, in line with Articles 21 and 32 of Directive (EU) 2017/1132, or if this is necessary, in the context of judicial proceedings.

- (29) In order to increase transparency, facilitate access to company information and create more connected public administrations on a cross-border basis in the single market, it is important to connect the already functioning Union level systems of interconnection that hold important information about companies. Therefore, the system of interconnection of registers (BRIS) should be connected with the EU Beneficial Ownership Registers Interconnection System (BORIS), established by Directive (EU) 2015/849¹⁴ as amended by Directive (EU) 2018/843¹⁵, which links national central registers containing information on the beneficial owners of companies and other legal entities, trusts and other types of legal arrangements, and with the EU Insolvency Registers Interconnection system (IRI) established in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2015/848¹⁶. The EUID should be used to link the information about a particular company across these systems. However, such connection between the systems should not affect the rules and requirements regarding the access to information set out under the relevant frameworks establishing those registers and interconnections. For example, this means that a user of BRIS should only be able to access BORIS if that user is entitled to access BORIS under its respective rules and requirements.

¹⁵ Directive (EU) 2018/843 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 30 May 2018 amending Directive (EU) 2015/849 on the prevention of the use of the financial system for the purposes of money laundering or terrorist financing, and amending Directives 2009/138/EC and 2013/36/EU (OJ L 156, 19.6.2018, p. 43).

¹⁶ Regulation (EU) 2015/848 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2015 on insolvency proceedings (recast) (OJ L 141, 5.6.2015, p. 19).

- (30) In order to help companies, and in particular SMEs, to expand their business activities cross-border more easily, the ‘once-only’ principle should be further developed in cases where companies register branches in another Member State. In a similar way to the case of setting up a subsidiary cross-border, applying the ‘once-only’ principle with respect to branches means that the information about the company registering the cross-border branch should be retrieved electronically from the register of the company by the register of the branch through the system of interconnection of registers. This exchange of information, as any other exchange of information between registers through the system of interconnection of registers, will be carried out via secure transmission between national registers, which ensures that the information can be trusted and should not be required to be certified or subject to any legalisation or similar formality. Alternatively, the register of the branch may access information about the company directly through the system of interconnection of registers via the European e-Justice portal or in the national register of the founder company.
- (31) While information about cross-border branches of EU limited liability companies is already available through the system of interconnection of registers, information about branches of non-EU companies is not, even if it is already disclosed in national registers in line with Directive (EU) 2017/1132. In order to facilitate access to this information at Union level for stakeholders, information about such third country company branches should be made available through the system of interconnection of registers and some of this information should be free of charge, as is already the case for cross-border branches of EU limited liability companies.

- (32) The documents and information about the company, including information about legal representatives, at least about general partners in partnerships as well as other persons that can lawfully represent a company, should be made publicly available in business registers in order to ensure legal certainty in dealings between companies and third parties. In particular, third parties, such as creditors, investors and business partners, but also authorities and courts, should have full legal certainty about the person that is appointed to act on behalf of the company and has the power to enter into contracts or conduct business on behalf of the company. In a partnership, partners are often authorised to represent the partnership in dealings with third parties and in legal proceedings. Similarly, with a view to protecting third parties, it is necessary that, where all the shares of a private limited liability company are held by a single shareholder, the identity of that single shareholder, which may be a natural or legal person, is made accessible to the public in the business register when such companies are created or when the single shareholder changes. Given that a single shareholder may for example exercise the powers of the general meeting of the company or conclude contracts between him or herself and the company as represented by him or her, third parties should be able to identify the sole member in order to know the identity of the person exercising control of the company or representing the company. Therefore, such persons should be unequivocally identified.

- (33) In order to enhance the functioning of the single market, third parties do not only need to have access to information about companies in their own Member State, but also about companies in another Member State. Similarly to a domestic situation, third parties need to have legal certainty about the legal representatives, partners in partnerships and other persons that can lawfully represent a company, and about the single shareholders of companies in other Member State. Therefore, such information should be made available at Union level through the system of interconnection of registers which provides access to such information in a multilingual and comparable way, thereby ensuring the same level of protection of third parties in cross-border situations. In order to ensure legal certainty as to the identity of the legal representatives, partners in partnerships, and other persons that can lawfully represent a company, as well as single shareholders, it is necessary that such persons can be unequivocally identified. The need for ensuring certainty about the exact identity of such persons is particularly high in cross-border situations where the system of interconnection of registers provides access to such information on all limited liability companies and “commercial partnerships”. Given that national systems have divergent approaches to the identification of such persons, it is necessary to harmonise the personal data categories that can be accessed at Union level. While the first name(s) and surname of such persons constitute personal data that serve to identify them, the first name(s) and surname do not guarantee unique identification in all cases and thus need to be complemented by additional information. Nor would adding only the year of birth be sufficient in this regard given the prevalence of certain names, both first name(s) and surname and their combination, in Member States and the fact that popular names often follow yearly cycles, with the effect that many persons with identical names are born in the same year. It is therefore necessary and proportionate to require registers to make available the full date of birth or equivalent information for those Member States that do not record the full date of birth in the national register and that would allow to unequivocally identify legal representatives, partners in partnerships, and other persons that can lawfully represent a company, as well as of single shareholders.

- (34) Member States should process any personal data about legal representatives, partners in partnerships and other persons that can lawfully represent a company, and about single shareholders, including the personal data which is to be made publicly available in the registers, in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679. The Commission should process personal data in the context of this Directive in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2018/1725 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁷. In particular, Member States and the Commission should implement appropriate data protection safeguards in order to ensure that the processing of personal data for the purposes of this Directive is limited to what is necessary to achieve its objectives.

¹⁷ Regulation (EU) 2018/1725 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 October 2018 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data by the Union institutions, bodies, offices and agencies and on the free movement of such data, and repealing Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 and Decision No 1247/2002/EC (OJ L 295, 21.11.2018, p. 39).

- (35) To ensure that all Union citizens can enjoy the benefits of making more company information available in business registers, it is essential that such information is provided to persons with disabilities in accessible formats. According to Article 9 of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, State parties are to take appropriate measures to ensure that persons with disabilities can access, on an equal basis with others, inter alia information and communications, including information and communications technologies and systems, and to other facilities and services open or provided to the public. In this regard, the Directive (EU) 2016/2102 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁸ sets out general accessibility requirements for websites and mobile applications of public sector bodies with a view to make them more accessible to users, in particular persons with disabilities, and to foster interoperability. Directive (EU) 2016/2102 encourages Member States to extend its application to private entities offering facilities and services that are open or provided to the public. Furthermore, Directive (EU) 2019/882 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁹ contains accessibility requirements for certain products and services including their websites and related information. Given the diversity of bodies responsible for the management of business registers, ranging from courts and administrative authorities to private entities, and the diverse activities performed by business registers, it should be assessed whether specific measures are needed to ensure that persons with disabilities are able to access company information provided by the business registers in all the Member States on an equal basis with other users.

¹⁸ Directive (EU) 2016/2102 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 October 2016 on the accessibility of the websites and mobile applications of public sector bodies (OJ L 327, 2.12.2016, p. 1).

¹⁹ Directive (EU) 2019/882 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 April 2019 on the accessibility requirements for products and services (OJ L 151, 7.6.2019, p. 70).

- (36) The objectives of this Directive, namely to increase the amount and improve the reliability of company data available in business registers or through the system of interconnection of registers, and to enable direct use of company data available in business registers when setting up cross-border branches and subsidiaries and in other cross-border activities and situations, cannot be sufficiently achieved by Member States, but can rather, by reason of their scale and effects, be better achieved at Union level. Therefore, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve those objectives.
- (37) In accordance with the Joint Political Declaration of 28 September 2011 of Member States and the Commission on explanatory documents²⁰, Member States have undertaken to accompany, in justified cases, the notification of their transposition measures with one or more documents explaining the relationship between the components of a directive and the corresponding parts of national transposition instruments. With regard to this Directive, the legislator considers the transmission of such documents to be justified.

²⁰ OJ C 369, 17.12.2011, p. 14.

- (38) The Commission should carry out an evaluation of this Directive. Pursuant to paragraph 22 of the Interinstitutional Agreement of 13 April 2016 on Better Law-Making, that evaluation should be based on the five criteria of efficiency, effectiveness, relevance, coherence and value added and should provide the basis for impact assessments of possible further measures. The evaluation should cover the practical experience with the EU Company Certificate, digital EU power of attorney and the reduced formalities in cross-border situations for companies. In addition, the Commission should assess the potential for cross-sector interoperability between the system of interconnection of registers (BRIS) and other systems providing mechanisms for cooperation between competent authorities, such as in the areas of taxation or social security or the Once-only Technical System established under Regulation (EU) 2018/1724 of the European Parliament and of the Council²¹, with the aim of creating more connected public administrations cross-border in the single market²². Finally, the Commission should also assess the need to introduce additional measures to fully address the needs of persons with disabilities when they access company information provided by the business registers.
- (39) The European Data Protection Supervisor was consulted in accordance with Article 42(1) of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725 and delivered an opinion on [17 May 2023]²³.
- (40) Directives 2009/102/EC and (EU) 2017/1132 should therefore be amended accordingly.

²¹ Regulation (EU) 2018/1724 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 2 October 2018 establishing a single digital gateway to provide access to information, to procedures and to assistance and problem-solving services and amending Regulation (EU) No 1024/2012 (OJ L 295, 21.11.2018, p. 1).
