Subject: Questionnaire on the CJEU's judgments in relation to the independence of issuing judicial authorities and effective judicial protection
- Updated compilation of replies and certificates

Following the judgments of the Court of Justice of the European Union of 27 May 2019 in joined cases OG (C-508/18) and PI (C-82/19 PPU) and in case PF (C-509/18), relating to the concept of "issuing judicial authority" in the context of the European arrest warrant, Eurojust issued a questionnaire.

The answers to this questionnaire, as provided by the Member States, were compiled in 10016/19, as revised by 10016/1/19 REV 1.

In the light of new case-law of the CJEU and other new information received, Eurojust and the European Judicial Network in criminal matters (EJN) have revised the compilation, see the Annex.

QUESTIONNAIRE ON THE CJEU'S JUDGMENTS IN RELATION TO THE INDEPENDENCE OF ISSUING JUDICIAL AUTHORITIES AND EFFECTIVE JUDICIAL PROTECTION

UPDATED COMPILATION OF REPLIES AND CERTIFICATES

Executive summary

In 2019, the Court of Justice of the European Union interpreted in a number of judgments to what extent a Public Prosecutor's Office falls within the concept of 'issuing judicial authority' under Article 6(1) of the Framework Decision on the European Arrest Warrant (EAW) and the surrender procedures between the Member States. The CJEU clarified in this case law the requirements of objectivity and independence and the need for effective judicial protection that must be afforded to the requested persons if an EAW is issued by a Public Prosecutor's Office.

Following a mandate given by the Council, Eurojust and the EJN worked, in close coordination, on a questionnaire and compilation of replies. The aim of the questionnaire was to assist practitioners in the application of the aforementioned new CJEU case law as it has raised many questions amongst practitioners regarding the legal position of public prosecutors in the Member States. A first version of this compilation was presented at the OPEN Meeting of 19 June 2019 (Council document no. 10016/19). An updated version was published in November 2019 to include new national legislation and more certificates in which Member States ensured compliance with the requirements set by the CJEU's case law (Council document no. 10016/19/ REV 1). Subsequent judgments of the CJEU on this topic in October and December 2019 prompted a further update of the document, including an additional question on the requirements of effective judicial protection.

The present compilation includes a brief summary of the most relevant judgments that the CJEU delivered on this issue in the period between May and December 2019, and compiles the replies received from the Member States, the United Kingdom and Norway, in relation to the following issues:

- Whether public prosecutors can issue an EAW;
- What authority ultimately takes the decision to issue an EAW;
- Whether national law guarantees the independence of the public prosecutors from the executive;
- Whether, in those countries where a public prosecutor can issue an EAW, such a decision, and in particular its proportionality, can be subject to court proceedings which meet in full the requirements inherent in effective judicial protection;

- What legal and/or practical measures have been taken to address the issue in the Member States affected by the CJEU's judgments;
- Any other additional information, including recent developments in national law and/or certificates issued to ensure compliance with the requirements set by the CJEU's case law.

I. Background

On 27 May 2019, the CJEU focused in a first set of judgments on the concept of ‘issuing judicial authority’ (Article 6(1) EAW FD), after which Eurojust launched a questionnaire on this topic. At the COPEN Meeting of 19 June 2019, the Council gave Eurojust a mandate to update this Compilation in close coordination with the European Judicial Network (EJN).

After the publication of the Compilation, some relevant developments took place: new national certificates became available, new legislation was adopted (NL) and some national judgments were delivered. Eurojust and the EJN therefore prepared a first update of the questionnaire (Council doc. 10016/1/19 REV 1). This update was limited to inserting new certificates, a reference to the new Dutch law and some relevant national case law (DE, NL) that Eurojust and the EJN had obtained through the Eurojust National Desks and the EJN Contact Points.

In October and December 2019, more judgments followed in which the CJEU provided further guidance on the independence of the ‘issuing judicial authority’ and on the requirement of effective judicial protection, which must be afforded to persons subject to such an arrest. The CJEU interpreted not only the concept of ‘issuing judicial authority’ (Article 6(1) EAW FD), but also clarified the concept of ‘EAW’ (Article 1(1) EAW FD) and the requirement of effective judicial protection under the EAW FD. In light of these judgments, Eurojust and EJN prepared a new update of the questionnaire; summarising the CJEU’s recent case law on this topic (see II), adding an additional question to the questionnaire (see III) and inviting the competent national authorities to reply to the new question and to review/update, where needed, their replies to the old questions (see IV).

Eurojust and the EJN continuously keep the possibility of any future update open. Any comments and/or suggestions for a future update can be sent to Eurojust (operations@eurojust.europa.eu) and the EJN (ejn@eurojust.europa.eu).

II. Summary of the CJEU's judgments

In 2019, the CJEU delivered six judgments in which it examined - in relation to six different national legal orders (DE, LT, AT, FR, SE, BE) - the requirements that public prosecutor's offices must fulfil for issuing an EAW and/or the scope of judicial protection afforded to persons referred to in such warrants. In these judgments, the CJEU interpreted the concept of 'EAW' (Article 6(1) EAW FD), the concept of 'issuing judicial authority' (Article 1(1) EAW FD) and the requirement of effective judicial protection under the EAW FD.

- Judgment of 27 May 2019 in Joined Cases C-508/18 OG and C-82/19 PPU PI (retrievable here). In relation to an EAW for the purpose of prosecution, issued by a German public prosecutor's office, the CJEU ruled that the concept of 'issuing judicial authority' of Article 6(1) EAW FD must be interpreted as not including public prosecutors' offices of a Member State which are exposed to the risk of being subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions in a specific case from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in connection with the adoption of a decision to issue an EAW.
- Judgment of 27 May 2019 in Case C-509/18 PF (retrievable here). In relation to an EAW for the purpose of prosecution, issued by a Lithuanian Prosecutor General's Office, the CJEU ruled that the concept of 'issuing judicial authority' of Article 6(1) EAW FD must be interpreted as including the Prosecutor General of a Member State who, whilst institutionally independent from the judiciary, is responsible for the conduct of criminal prosecutions and whose legal position, in that Member State, affords him a guarantee of independence from the executive in connection with the issuing of an EAW.
- Judgment of 9 October 2019 in Case C-489/19 NJ (retrievable here). In relation to an EAW for the purpose of prosecution, issued by an Austrian public prosecutor's office and endorsed by an Austrian court, the CJEU ruled that the concept of 'EAW' referred to in Article 1(1) EAW FD, must be interpreted as meaning that EAWs issued by the public prosecutor's offices of a Member State fall within that concept, despite the fact that those public prosecutor's offices are exposed to the risk of being subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions in a specific case from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in the context of the issue of those arrest warrants, provided that those arrest warrants are subject, in order to be transmitted by those public prosecutor's offices, to endorsement by a court which reviews independently and objectively, having access to the entire criminal file to which any specific directions or instructions from the executive are added, the conditions of issue and the proportionality of those arrest warrants, thus adopting an autonomous decision which gives them their final form.

- Judgment of 12 December 2019 in Joined Cases C-566/19 PPU JR and C-629/19 PPU *YC (retrievable here). In relation to an EAW for the purpose of prosecution, issued by a French public prosecutors' office the CJEU held that:
 - Article 6 (1) EAW FD must be interpreted as meaning that the magistrates of a public prosecution office of a Member State, who are responsible for criminal proceedings and act under the direction and supervision of their superiors, are covered by the concept of 'issuing judicial authority' within the meaning of this provision if their status guarantees their independence, in particular vis-à-vis the executive, in the context of the issuance of an EAW;
 - The EAW FD must be interpreted as meaning that the requirements inherent in effective judicial protection which must accrue to a person against whom a EAW has been issued for the purpose of prosecution, are satisfied when, under the legislation of the issuing Member State, the conditions for the issue of that warrant, and in particular its proportionality, are subject to judicial review in that Member State.
- Judgment of 12 December 2019 in Case C-625/19 PPU *XD (retrievable here). In relation to an EAW for the purpose of prosecution issued by a Swedish public prosecutor's office, the CJEU held that the EAW FD should be interpreted as meaning that the requirements inherent in effective judicial protection vis-à-vis a person against whom a EAW has been issued for the purposes of prosecution are met when, under the legislation of the issuing Member State, the conditions for issuing that warrant and in particular its proportionality, are subject to judicial review in that Member State.
- Judgment of 12 December 2019 in Case C-627/19 PPU *ZB (retrievable here). In relation to an EAW for the purpose of the execution of a custodial sentence, issued by a Belgian public prosecutor's office, the CJEU held that the EAW FD must be interpreted as meaning that it does not preclude legislation of a Member State that confers the power to issue an EAW for the purpose of executing a custodial sentence on an authority which, while participating in the administration of justice in that Member State, is not itself a judicial authority, and that does not provide for a separate legal remedy against that authority's decision to issue such a EAW.

In the abovementioned judgments, the CJEU clarified the concept of issuing judicial authority and the requirements of effective judicial protection. The CJEU underlined that the requirement of effective judicial protection (see 2) is not a condition for classification of an authority as an issuing judicial authority in the meaning of Article 6(1) EAW FD (see 1).¹

1. The concept of issuing judicial authority

When assessing to what extent the concept of issuing judicial authority (Article 6(1) EAW FD) includes a public prosecutor of a Member State, the CJEU took into consideration particularly the following two elements:

- Participation in the administration of criminal justice:² E.g., the authorities are competent, in criminal proceedings, to prosecute a person suspected of having committed a criminal offence so that that person may be brought before a court; and/or they are in charge of the organisation and direction of criminal investigations; and/or have power to issue an indictment.
- Objectivity and independence: The prosecutor's legal position safeguards the objectivity of the public prosecutor's role. He/she is required to take into account all incriminatory and exculpatory evidence. There are statutory rules and an institutional framework capable of guaranteeing that the public prosecutor's office is not exposed, when adopting a decision to issue such an arrest warrant, to any risk of being subject, inter alia, to an instruction in a specific case from the executive.³ The independence is not called into question by the fact that a public prosecutor's office is responsible for conducting criminal prosecutions,⁴ nor by the fact that the Minister for Justice may issue them with general criminal justice policy instructions,⁵ nor by the fact that they are under the direction and control of their hierarchical superiors, themselves part of the public prosecutor's office.⁶

⁶ Joined Cases C-566/19 PPU JR and C-629/19 PPU YC, para 56.

2. Effective judicial protection

Where in the issuing Member State the competence to issue an EAW does not lie with a court, but with another authority participating in the administration of justice, the decision to issue the EAW and the proportionality of such a decision must be capable of being the subject, in the issuing Member State, of court proceedings which meet in full the requirements inherent in effective judicial protection.⁷

It is for the Member States to ensure that their legal orders effectively safeguard the required level of judicial protection by means of the procedural rules that they implement. These rules may vary from one Member State to another. Introducing a separate right of appeal against a public prosecutor's decision to issue an EAW is one possibility, but Member States can also opt for other mechanisms.⁸ For instance, national procedural rules whereby the court that adopted the national arrest warrant reviews the decision of the public prosecutor's office to issue an EAW before or practically at the same time as that decision is adopted, or subsequently, including after the requested person's surrender, would meet the required threshold.⁹

The CJEU recalls in the context of effective judicial protection also the importance of Article 10 of Directive 2013/48/EU on the right of access to a lawyer in criminal proceedings and EAW proceedings.¹⁰ This provision foresees inter alia that the 'competent authority in the executing Member State shall, without undue delay after deprivation of liberty, inform requested persons that they have the right to appoint a lawyer in the issuing Member State'.¹¹

The CJEU also clarifies that in relation to EAWs issued for the purpose of executing a custodial sentence, the judicial review is carried out by the enforceable judgment on which that arrest warrant is based.¹¹

III. Questionnaire

The CJEU's judgments raised a lot of questions amongst practitioners in relation to the legal position of public prosecutors in the Member States in the context of issuing EAWs. The main aim of this questionnaire was to assist the practitioners in the application of the EAW FD. In light of the recent judgments of October and December 2019, a follow-up question was prepared (see new question 4).

National authorities of countries that confer the competence to issue an EAW for the purpose of prosecution to a public prosecutor, were invited to reply to the new question 4. All authorities, but particularly those of the Member States that were concerned in the abovementioned judgments, were invited to review their previous replies and, if deemed appropriate, to send an update of their replies/certificates.

- (1) Can prosecutors issue an EAW in your country?
- (2) Which is the entity, in your Member State, that ultimately takes the decision to issue an EAW?
- (3) Does your national law afford public prosecutors a guarantee of independence from the executive so that they are not exposed to the risk of being subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions in a specific case from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in connection with the adoption of a decision to issue an EAW? (Please clarify if there are any legal provisions which give the executive a power to issue instructions to the prosecutor, and, if so, to what extent).
- (4) NEW! Only for those Member States that confer the competence to issue an EAW for the purpose of prosecution to a public prosecutor
Please specify whether, in your Member State, in accordance with the abovementioned judgments,¹² the decision to issue an EAW, and inter alia the proportionality of such a decision, is capable of being the subject of court proceedings which meet in full the requirements inherent in effective judicial protection. Please specify how your national legal order safeguards the requisite level of protection (e.g. a separate legal remedy against the EAW issued by the public prosecutor, other procedural rules, implementation of Article 10 of Directive 2013/48/EU on the right of access to a lawyer in criminal proceedings and EAW proceedings).
- (5) In case your Member State, as issuing authority, is affected by the CJEU's judgments, which legal and/or practical measures has been taken or will be taken in order to prevent and address this issue?
- (6) Do you have, in view of the above-mentioned judgments, any other additional information or comments that you would like to share with the other Member States? This reply could include, for instance, certificates, relevant national judgments or recent changes in national law.

¹² Particularly, in view of the CJEU's rulings in Joined Cases C-566/19 PPU J and C-629/19 PPU YC, paras 64-66; Case C-625/19 PPU XD, paras 43-45.

IV. Overview of full responses to the questions

 AT	Prosecutors issue an EAW but it becomes valid only if it is authorized by a judge. Sect. 29/1 of the federal law on judicial cooperation in criminal matters with the Member States of the European Union states: "The public prosecutor shall order the apprehension by way of a European arrest warrant authorized by a court...". The court receives the whole case file. In authorizing a EAW,	The ultimate decision to issue an EAW lies therefore with a judge.	The AT Minister of Justice can give instructions to the prosecutor in individual cases. Instructions have to be given in writing and are always part of the case file.	The decision and inter alia the proportionality of such a decision always has to be the subject of court proceedings, otherwise the EAW cannot be issued as stated under question 1. In addition, the EAW may be challenged by the person concerned. Under the circumstances, the decision to issue an EAW is predetermined by the court decision and constitutes a step executing that decision. This option is elaborated in point 1.1.a of the Prosecutor General's Instruction approved by Order No 1774/2014. In our opinion, such a turn of events and correlation can be	effect that the Republic of Bulgaria is affected by the CJEU's judgments in a manner requiring a change of the regulatory framework. The formal opinion of the Public Prosecutor's Office of the Republic of Bulgaria (PRB) is that public prosecutors meet the requirements for an 'issuing judicial authority'. In this regard, organisational measures have been taken by supplementing the Instruction regarding the issuing of an EAW under Order No 1774 of 2014 by a new Order No RD-02-19 of 26 July	 BG_certificate.pdf

 CY	No prosecutors in Cyprus can not issue EAW. According to Article 3 of Law 133 (I) / 2004 on the EAW, and the procedures for the delivery of requested persons between the EU Member States, the EAW is a decision or decree of a judicial authority of a Member State of the European Union issued for the purpose of arrest and surrender of a person who is in the territory of another.	The entity in Cyprus that ultimately takes the decision to take EAW is the District Court Judge.	It doesn't apply to Cyprus.  DE	Since the judgement of the CJEU in Joined Cases C-508/18 OG and C-82/19 PPU Pl of 27 May 2019, EAWs have been issued by the Local, Regional or Higher Regional Courts or the Federal Court of Justice.	The decision to issue an EAW is taken by a court.	EAWs for the purpose of prosecution are no longer issued by public prosecutors. Instead, they are issued by way of court order. The requirement of effective judicial protection against the decision to issue an EAW as stipulated by the CJEU is therefore no longer relevant in the German context.	In our view, existing EAWs (issued by public prosecutors before the CJEU ruling) can still be used as basis for a provisional arrest. When informed about an arrest, German prosecutors and courts handle the case as top priority. The prosecutor who has issued the EAW gets into contact with the competent court and asks to decide on the EAW as soon as possible. A new version of the EAW is sent. This practice has been working overwhelmingly After the judgement of 27 May 2019, the German Federal Ministry of Justice and Consumer Protection informed the State Ministries of Justice and practitioners that the ruling of the CJEU should be interpreted as meaning that a court has to decide on issuing an EAW, and that it is the opinion of the Federal Government that the existing law must henceforward be interpreted in this way. However, the general legal remedy against a court order is the complaint under sec. 304ff. of the German Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 146 The officials of the public prosecution office must comply with the official instructions of their A conference took place in the Ministry in June 2019, which

 EE	The answer for Estonia is YES. It is the same as in Sweden, a prosecutor is competent to issue an EAW after a court decision on detention.	According to Code of Criminal procedure § 507 (1), in pre-trial proceedings it is the prosecutor's office which takes the decision to issue an EAW and in court proceedings it is the court conducting proceedings regarding a criminal offence which is the basis for an EAW, which takes the decision to issue an EAW. Prosecutor issues an EAW based on a national arrest warrant, which is issued by the court.
