Proposal for a

COUNCIL RECOMMENDATION

on the temporary restriction on non-essential travel into the EU

Proposal for a

on the temporary restriction on non-essential travel into the EU

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 292, 2nd sentence and Article 77 (2) (b) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

Whereas:

- (1) On 10 March 2020, the Heads of State or Government of the European Union emphasised the need for a joint European approach with regard to COVID-19.
- (2) On 16 March 2020, the Commission adopted a Communication¹ recommending a temporary restriction of non-essential travel from third countries into the EU+ area² for one month. On 17 March 2020, the Heads of State or Government of the EU agreed to implement the temporary restriction of non-essential travel. The four Schengen Associated States also implemented it.
- (3) On 8 April 2020³ and 8 May 2020⁴, the Commission adopted two follow-up Communications, each recommending the extension of the non-essential travel restrictions by one month, respectively. All Schengen Member States as well as the four Schengen Associated States (hereafter ‘Member States’) decided to implement these extensions, in the last instance until 15 June 2020.
- (4) On 15 April 2020, the President of the European Commission and the President of the European Council set out a ‘Joint European Roadmap towards lifting COVID-19 containment measures’⁵. The Roadmap lays down a two-stage approach whereby internal border controls should be lifted in a coordinated manner. Subsequently, temporary restrictions at external borders would be gradually relaxed and non-EU residents would be allowed to resume non-essential travel to the EU.

² The “EU+ area” includes all Schengen Member States (including Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus and Romania), as well as the four Schengen Associated States. It also includes Ireland and the United Kingdom if they decide to align.

- (5) Consultations with Member States confirmed a need to have a further short extension of the existing restrictions at external borders and the imperative of a unified approach to their gradual lifting .
- (6) On 11 June 2020, the Commission adopted a Communication⁶ which recommended to extend the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU until 30 June 2020, and which sets out an approach for a gradual lifting of the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU as of 1 July 2020. All Member States have implemented the further extension until 30 June.
- (7) Discussions have since then taken place between Member States on the criteria and methodology to be applied.
- (8) This Recommendation is without prejudice to the responsibility that Member States have to continue applying Article 6 of the Schengen Borders Code⁷, which lays down the entry conditions for third-country nationals. In particular, the Member States keep the responsibility to assess whether, on a case by case basis, a third-country national is to be considered a threat to public health. In this context, Member States should ensure a close cooperation between border guard authorities and transport providers.
- (9) Border control is in the interest not only of the Member State at whose external borders it is carried out but of all Member States which have abolished internal border control. Member States should therefore ensure that measures taken at the external borders are coordinated in order not to put at risk the functioning of the Schengen area.
- (10) Decisions on the possible lifting of the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU should take into account the epidemiological situation within the EU, i.e. the average number of COVID-19 cases over the last 14 days and per 100,000 inhabitants. The EU average is currently at 16 cases.
- (11) The International Health Regulations (2005) ('IHR') adopted by the Fifty-eighth World Health Assembly on 23 May 2005 reinforced the coordination among States Parties to the World Health Organization (WHO), which include all the Member States of the Union, of the preparedness for, and response to, a public health emergency of international concern. The IHR Monitoring Framework identifies core public health capacities to be maintained by WHO State Parties. Data reported periodically by countries under this framework can be compiled into an overall score as a proxy for the overall capacity for response.
- (12) The effectiveness of decisions on lifting the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU depends on their implementation by Member States for all external borders in a uniform manner. There is a treaty-based obligation to ensure coordination in order not to put at risk the functioning of the Schengen area. While a more restrictive approach would not endanger, as such, the functioning of the Schengen area, a less restrictive approach than the one coordinated at Schengen area level could entail such a risk. A Member State should therefore not unilaterally decide to lift the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU for a particular third country before the lifting of travel restriction has been decided in a uniform manner by the other Member States for that country.

- (13) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of Protocol No 22 on the Position of Denmark annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the TFEU this Recommendation does affect Denmark. Given that this Recommendation builds upon the Schengen acquis, Denmark shall, in accordance with Article 4 of that Protocol, decide within a period of six months after the Council has decided on this Recommendation whether it will implement it in its national law.
- (14) This Recommendation constitutes a development of the provisions of the Schengen acquis in which Ireland does not take part, in accordance with Council Decision 2002/192/EC⁸; this Recommendation does therefore not affect Ireland.
- (15) As regards Iceland and Norway, this Recommendation constitutes a development of the provisions of the Schengen acquis within the meaning of the Agreement concluded by the Council of the European Union and the Republic of Iceland and the Kingdom of Norway concerning the latter's association with the implementation, application and development of the Schengen acquis which fall within the area referred to in Article 1, point A, of Council Decision 1999/437/EC⁹.

- (17) As regards Liechtenstein, this Recommendation constitutes a development of provisions of the Schengen acquis within the meaning of the Protocol between the European Union, the European Community, the Swiss Confederation and the Principality of Liechtenstein on the accession of the Principality of Liechtenstein to the Agreement between the European Union, the European Community and the Swiss Confederation on the Swiss Confederation's association with the implementation, application and development of the Schengen acquis which fall within the area referred to in Article 1 point A, of Decision 1999/437/EC¹² read in conjunction with Article 3 of Decision 2011/350/EU¹³.

- (18) The legal status of this recommendation as recalled in recitals 13 to 17 is without prejudice of the need for all Member States, in the interest of the proper functioning of the Schengen area, to decide on the lifting of the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU in a uniform manner,

HAS ADOPTED THIS RECOMMENDATION:

1. To determine the third countries for which the current restriction on non-essential travel into the EU is to be lifted, Member States should apply the methodology and criteria set out in the Communication of the Commission of 11 June 2020¹⁴ on the third assessment of the application of the temporary restriction on non-essential travel to the EU. The criteria mentioned in the Communication relate to the epidemiological situation and containment measures, including physical distancing, as well as economic and social considerations.
2. As regards the epidemiological situation, third countries should meet the following criteria, subject to regular review:
 - close to or below 16 new COVID-19 cases over the last 14 days and per 100,000 inhabitants;
 - the trend of new cases over the same period in comparison to the previous 14 days is stable or decreasing; and
 - the overall response to COVID-19 taking into account available information on aspects such as testing, surveillance, contact tracing, containment, treatment and reporting. Where data on such aspects is unavailable, Member States may use the total average score across all dimensions for International Health Regulations (IHR) when this is above 50. Information provided by EU Delegations based on the checklist annexed to the Communication of 11 June 2020 may also be taken into account.
3. When deciding whether the temporary restriction on non-essential travel to the EU applies to a third-country national, residence in a third country for which the restrictions on non-essential travel have been lifted should be the determining factor (and not nationality).
4. Travel restrictions may be lifted or reintroduced for a specific third country according to changes in the conditions set out in paragraph 2 regarding the epidemiological situation. Rapid decision-making should be applied in case the situation in a third country worsens quickly.
5. However, even where temporary travel restrictions continue to apply to a third country, essential travel should be allowed for the categories of travellers¹⁵ listed in acquis, relating to the abolition of checks at internal borders and movement of persons (OJ L 160, 18.6.2011, p. 19).

¹⁴ COM(2020) 399, 11 June 2020.

¹⁵ Specific categories of travellers with an essential function or need:

- i. Healthcare professionals, health researchers, and elderly care professionals;
- ii. Frontier workers;
- iii. Seasonal workers in agriculture;
- iv. Transport personnel;

the Communication of 16 March¹⁶ and 11 June 2020¹⁷, and the Guidance of 30 March 2020¹⁸. Member States may introduce additional security measures for these travellers, especially when their trip originates in a high risk region.

6. In particular, the following categories of persons should be exempted from the travel restriction, independent of the purpose of travel:
- (a) Union citizens within the meaning of Article 20(1) TFEU and third-country nationals who, under agreements between the Union and its Member States, on the one hand, and those third countries, on the other hand, enjoy rights of free movement equivalent to those of Union citizens, as well as their respective family members¹⁹,
 - (b) third-country nationals who are long-term residents under the Long-term Residence Directive²⁰ persons deriving their right to reside from other EU Directives or national law or who hold national long-term visas, as well as their respective family members.

Member States can, however, take appropriate measures such as requiring such persons to undergo self-isolation or similar measures upon return from a third country for which the temporary travel restriction is maintained, provided they impose the same requirements on their own nationals.

7. Reciprocity should be assessed regularly and on a case-by-case basis, in particular with regard to third countries that have a lower infection rate than the EU average.
8. These steps should be implemented by all Member States at all external borders. Member States should endeavour to apply all measures in a uniform manner.
9. In the interest of the proper functioning of the Schengen area, a Member State should not decide unilaterally to lift the restriction on non-essential travel into the EU for a specific third country before the lifting of the restriction has also been decided in a strictly coordinated manner by the other Member States.

- v. Diplomats, staff of international organisations, military personnel and humanitarian aid workers and civil protection personnel in the exercise of their functions;
 - vi. Passengers in transit;
 - vii. Passengers travelling for imperative family reasons;
 - viii. Persons in need of international protection or for other humanitarian reasons respecting the principle of non-refoulement;
 - ix. third-country nationals travelling for the purpose of study;
 - x. highly qualified third-country workers if their employment is necessary from an economic perspective and the work cannot be postponed or performed abroad.
