(2) Should rescue teams and individual experts providing assistance run out of the means and supplies brought with them, the Receiving State shall cover the costs of their upkeep and the needed means and supplies until the completion of their task of assistance. If necessary, they shall be provided with proper logistical support and medical care.

Article 15

Reimbursements and Damages

(1) The Parties shall renounce all claims for reimbursement for damage to protection, rescue, and other equipment, provided that the said damage is caused by the rescue team or individual expert assisting in performing rescue and disaster relief tasks according to this Agreement, when such damage is not inflicted intentionally or due to gross negligence.

(2) The Parties shall renounce every entitlement to reimbursement in the case of personal injuries and permanent consequences for the health and in the case of death of a participant in a rescue operation, when this occurs during the performance of rescue tasks under this Agreement, except in cases when such damage was inflicted intentionally or due to gross negligence.

(3) In the case of damage inflicted on third persons when performing tasks covered by this Agreement, the Receiving State shall assume responsibility as if the damage was caused by its rescue teams and individual experts in providing assistance, except in cases when such damage is inflicted intentionally or due to gross negligence of the Sending State's rescue teams or individual experts providing assistance.

(4) The liability for damage specified in paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of this Article shall arise upon arrival in the territory or airspace of the Receiving State and continue until departure from its territory or airspace.

(5) The Parties shall also implement the provisions of this Article in the case they are countries of transit.

Article 16

Use of Information and Communication Means

(1) The competent authorities of the Parties shall provide mutual information and communication links, in particular telephone, radio, and other links with rescue teams and individual experts providing assistance, in accordance with this Agreement, while respecting internationally agreed rules of communication. The competent authorities of the Parties shall also provide internet access to rescue teams and individual experts providing assistance.

(2) The Parties shall exchange lists of radio frequencies authorised for use in their territories for the purposes of mutual communication, based on previously obtained radio licences.

Article 17

Protection of Personal Data

(1) As far as it is necessary in the case of a disaster or an emergency, the Parties are permitted to mutually transmit personal data in accordance with the respective national law. Mutual transmission of personal data between the Parties as well as any further processing of transmitted personal data shall be carried out in compliance with any conditions issued by the transmitting authority and in accordance with the following principles, which apply to the processing of data by automated and non-automated means:

- a) Personal data shall be processed lawfully and fairly and in a way, the data subject can verify. They shall only be processed for the specified, explicit and legitimate purposes of this Agreement. They must be adequate, relevant and not excessive in relation to the purposes for which they are processed.
- b) Transmitted personal data shall only be processed for the purposes, for which it was transmitted, unless the transmitting Party explicitly authorises its processing for a different purpose.
- c) Personal data has to be accurate and, as far as necessary, up-to-date; all necessary measures shall be taken to erase or rectify personal data that turns out to be inaccurate with regard to the purpose of its processing. Personal data shall be kept in such a way that the data subject can only be identified for as long as the purpose of the processing requires it.

(2) Personal data shall be processed and kept in such a way that ensures its adequate safety, including protection from unauthorised or unlawful processing and from accidental loss, accidental erasure or accidental destruction, through adequate technical and organisational measures.

(3) The Parties shall maintain a record of every transfer or receipt of personal data. These records shall include the purpose, content and time of the transfer or receipt as well as the transmitting and the receiving authority. This applies accordingly to the erasure of personal data. The records shall be protected with suitable measures against unauthorised use and other forms of improper use and shall be kept for three years. After this period, the records shall be deleted without any delay. The records shall only be used to control compliance with the applicable data protection rules.

(4) Every data subject shall have the right, upon proof of his/her identity, to obtain from the authority responsible for processing the data free of charge and without undue delay information in an intelligible form about any personal data transmitted or processed in the framework of this Agreement, their origin, any recipients or categories of recipients, their intended purpose and the legal basis. Furthermore, every data subject shall have the right to obtain the rectification of inaccurate personal data and the erasure of unlawfully processed personal data. Moreover, the Parties shall ensure that every data subject has the right to lodge an effective complaint with an independent and impartial tribunal established by law as laid down in Article 6 paragraph 1 of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms as well as an independent supervisory authority as laid down in Article 1 of the Additional Protocol of 8 November 2001 to the Council of Europe Convention for the Protection of Individuals with regard to Automatic Processing of Personal data, where his or her rights to data protection are infringed and that the data subject is given the possibility to seek an effective remedy and compensation. The detailed rules for the procedure to assert these rights shall be governed by the relevant national legal provisions of the Party where the data subject asserts his/her rights. In case of a request to assert these rights, the authority possessing the data in question gives the transmitting authority the opportunity to comment before a decision is taken.

(5) Transmitted personal data shall only be further transmitted to third parties, if the transmitting Party has given their written authorisation.

(6) Transmitted personal data shall be erased as soon as they no longer serve the purpose of the transmission or the reason for the transmission ceased.

(7) On request of the transmitting authority, the receiving authority shall inform about any processing of the received data and the results achieved therewith.

Article 18

Entry into Force

(1) The Agreement is concluded for an indefinite period of time.

(2) The Agreement shall enter into force on the first day of the third month following the date of the receipt of the last notification that the internal legal requirements necessary for its entry into force have been fulfilled.

Article 19

Impact of this Agreement on Other Agreements

This Agreement does not prejudice the rights and obligations of the Parties arising from other international agreements.

Article 20

Settlement of Disputes

The Parties shall resolve disputes regarding the interpretation or implementation of this Agreement through mutual consultation and negotiation.

Article 21

Amendments

(1) The Parties may amend this Agreement by concluding a separate protocol that shall enter into force in accordance with paragraph 2 of Article 18 of this Agreement.

(2) Written notices from the Parties regarding changes to the contact information on competent authorities and their addresses, telecommunication links, and points of contact shall not be regarded as amendments to this Agreement.

Article 22

Termination of the Agreement

(1) Either Party has the right to terminate this Agreement in writing through diplomatic channels. Termination of the Agreement shall take effect three months from the date of receipt of the notification of its termination.

(2) Termination of this Agreement shall not prejudice obligations resulting from its implementation, which are still applicable at the date of the termination.
