Items for discussion

3. Preventing and combating migrant smuggling in the digital age

COSI exchanged views about the main challenges of countering migrant smuggling in the digital age and considered tools and solutions that could be developed or enhanced in this regard. The Presidency presented the work of the specialised cyber department within the Polish Border Guard as an example of an effective national solution. In the discussion, delegations referred to the need:

- to strengthen cooperation and information exchange between Member States and with third countries and international organisations, facilitated by Europol whenever appropriate;
- to further develop the dialogue with private parties, including through the EU Internet Forum;
- to ensure the effective implementation of existing legislation (e.g. Digital Services Act, e-evidence package);
- to endeavour to reach a swift political agreement on the proposed new legislation under the anti-migrant smuggling package; and
- to make best use of existing structures such as the European Multidisciplinary Platform Against Criminal Threats (EMPACT), the EU Internet Referral Unit (IRU) at Europol and the ‘DigiNex’ expert network.

4. Situation in Syria and its potential implications for EU internal security and counter-terrorism

Based on an action plan presented by the EU Counter-Terrorism Coordinator, COSI assessed the situation in Syria and its implications for the EU’s internal security, in preparation for the Justice and Home Affairs Council meeting in March 2025. Delegations agreed that there was a need to remain vigilant and to be prepared, in the form of stepping up information sharing, enhancing border controls and making best use of the Schengen Information System.

5. Monitoring weapons and ammunition smuggling from Ukraine – preventive measures

With Russia's war of aggression against Ukraine having now entered its fourth year, COSI exchanged views about preventive measures related to the threat of weapons and ammunition being smuggled from Ukraine. While the EU has not experienced a massive inflow of firearms from Ukraine so far, delegations agreed that the situation could change in the future. Therefore, further preventive measures should be considered. Delegations confirmed their willingness to continue working closely with Ukraine on the implementation of the EU list of actions to counter firearms diversion.
