From: General Secretariat of the Council
To: Permanent Representatives Committee/Council

---

Subject: Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 establishing common rules on compensation and assistance to passengers in the event of denied boarding and of cancellation or long delay of flights and Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 on air carrier liability in respect of the carriage of passengers and their baggage by air
- Outcome of the European Parliament's second reading
(Strasbourg, 19 to 22 January 2026)

I. INTRODUCTION

On behalf of the Committee on Transport and Tourism (TRAN), the Rapporteur Andrey NOVAKOV (EPP, BG) presented a recommendation for second reading containing 243 amendments (amendments 1-243) to the Council position<sup>1</sup> at first reading on the abovementioned proposal for a Regulation to the Plenary on 13 January 2026.

II. VOTE

The European Parliament adopted these amendments (amendments 1-243) which were put to the vote collectively at its Plenary on 21 January 2026.

The European Parliament officially transmitted its amendments at second reading to the Council on 9 March 2026. The text of the amendments adopted, and the European Parliament's legislative resolution are set out in the Annex to this note.

Air passenger rights

European Parliament legislative resolution of 21 January 2026 on the Council position at first reading with a view to the adoption of a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 establishing common rules on compensation and assistance to passengers in the event of denied boarding and of cancellation or long delay of flights and Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 on air carrier liability in respect of the carriage of passengers and their baggage by air (10015/1/2025 – C10-0228/2025 – 2013/0072(COD))

(Ordinary legislative procedure: second reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Council position at first reading (10015/1/2025 – C10-0228/2025),
  - having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee of 11 July 2013<sup>1</sup>,
  - after consulting the Committee of the Regions,
  - having regard to the opinion of the Commission (COM(2025)0630),
  - having regard to its position at first reading<sup>2</sup> on the Commission proposal to Parliament and the Council (COM(2013)0130),
  - having regard to the guidelines of the Committee on Transport and Tourism of 13 October 2025 pursuant to Rule 74 of its Rules of Procedure,
  - having regard to Article 294(7) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union,
  - having regard to Rule 68 of its Rules of Procedure,
  - having regard to the recommendation for second reading of the Committee on Transport and Tourism (A10-0001/2026),
1. Adopts its position at second reading hereinafter set out;
  2. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council, the Commission and the national parliaments.

<sup>2</sup> Position of the European Parliament of 5 February 2014 (OJ C 93, 24.3.2017, p. 336) and position of the Council at first reading of 29 September 2025 (OJ C, C/2025/5782, 30.10.2025, ELI: <http://data.europa.eu/eli/C/2025/5782/oj>). Position of the European Parliament of 21 January 2026.

Whereas:

- (1) Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>3</sup> and Council Regulation (EC) No 2027/97<sup>4</sup> have significantly contributed to protecting the rights of air passengers when their travel plans are disrupted by denied boarding, long delays, cancellations or mishandled baggage.
- (1a) The Union legislator confirms the aims expressed by Recitals 1 and 4 for EU legislation in the field of air transport to ensure a high level of protection for passengers, to fully take into account the requirements of consumer protection in general and to raise the standards of protection set by this Regulation. This should be done by strengthening the rights of air passengers, by improving legal certainty for both air passengers and air carriers and by codifying the main rulings of the Court of Justice in its interpretation of Regulation No 261/2004, as well as by ensuring that air carriers operate under harmonised conditions in a liberalised market. This also means that standards of protection set by Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should in no way be downgraded. Accordingly, the full potential of air passenger rights, as protected under Regulations (EC) No 261/2004 and (EC) No 2027/97, should be realised and a more effective, efficient and consistent application of such rights should be ensured across the Union, while taking into account the interests of air carriers and continuing to strike a balance between the interests of air passengers and those of air carriers. [Am. 1]*

<sup>3</sup> Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 February 2004 establishing common rules on compensation and assistance to passengers in the event of denied boarding and of cancellation or long delay of flights, and repealing Regulation (EEC) No 295/91 (OJ L 46, 17.2.2004, p. 1, ELI: <http://data.europa.eu/eli/reg/2004/261/oj>).

<sup>4</sup> Council Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 of 9 October 1997 on air carrier liability in respect of the carriage of passengers and their baggage by air (OJ L 285, 17.10.1997, p. 1, ELI: <http://data.europa.eu/eli/reg/1997/2027/oj>).

- (2) A number of shortcomings, revealed during the implementation of the rights under Regulations (EC) No 261/2004 and (EC) No 2027/97, have however prevented the full potential of those rights in terms of passenger protection from being realised. In order to ensure a more effective, efficient and consistent application of air passenger rights across the Union, a series of adjustments to the current legal framework is required. This was underlined in the communication from the Commission of 27 October 2010 entitled ‘EU Citizenship Report 2010 Dismantling the obstacles to EU citizens’ rights’ which announced measures to ensure a set of common rights notably for air passengers and the adequate enforcement of these rights.

- (3) The study on the current level of protection of air passenger rights in the EU mandated and published by the Commission in 2020 (hereafter ‘the steer study’<sup>2</sup>) showed that passengers’ claims that the main priority of passengers is to be provided with assistance in the event of travel disruption and to be offered rerouting so that they arrive at their destination as soon as possible. ~~The~~ To this end, the steer study showed shows that the payment of compensation comes third out of the three options provided in terms of the priorities of passengers<sup>2</sup>. However, it cannot be inferred from this study that the payment of compensation would rank low in the priorities of passengers, for three reasons. First, the question design already carries a significant bias, narrowing down possible outcomes, as the three options given to the respondents are not comparable in their nature. While two of the options (assistance, rerouting) promise immediate relief from an urgent problem (flight disruption), the third option (compensation) is less immediate and less urgent by its nature. Compensation under this. On the other hand, the Study also showed that the absolute and relative costs incurred by air carriers through the implementation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 have grown seeks to redress damage suffered as a consequence of a disruption, with a payment that helps the passenger in the long run, rather than solving the immediate problem (via assistance or rerouting). It is only natural that the average respondent ranks as third the least urgent and immediate of the three options (compensation).

However, it would be logically and statistically invalid to conclude from this ranking that receiving compensation would be of significantly since 2011 which could result in a restriction lower importance to the passenger. Second, the question design of the Study creates an artificial obligation on the number of routes operated or a reduction in connectivity offered by air carriers to respondent of having to choose between three options and ranking them, while in the current reality of Regulation 261/2004, those three options co-exist without being mutually exclusive in any way. Third, the ranking of the steer study derives from interaction with consumers and passenger organisations and desk research, and is not based on a comprehensive passenger survey. Therefore, in order to escape the bias of the question design and the methodology of the steer study, it is worth consulting further representative polls on air passengers' opinions with regard to receiving compensation under this regulation. A statistical survey<sup>5</sup> conducted by the European Court of Auditors (ECA) in 2018 of 10 350 randomly chosen citizens from ten Member States, showed the “right to compensation in the event of cancellations or denied boarding” in second place with 39.6% out of ten options out of which passengers were to select three rights which they “regard as most important”, while the preferred option, being the “right to receive alternative transport in the event of long delays, cancellations or denied boarding”, was only marginally higher, at 41.7 % long term.

*Given this negligible difference, no real order of preference should be deduced from these two closely ranking options. In a YouGov poll commissioned by a claims agency, conducted in spring 2025, of 3059 citizens in Germany, Spain and Denmark, 70% of respondents insisted on keeping the current compensation rule, stressing that passengers should not lose rights for a marginal cost saving, while only 14% preferred saving an assumed 1 EUR on the ticket price. Even the industry association Airlines for Europe (A4E) concludes from their own YouGov poll, reflecting the views of more than 6,000 consumers in five Member States, that “75% of passengers who have flown in the past 12 months support sticking to current compensation levels”<sup>6</sup>. This evidence supports the decision of the Union legislator in the context of the revision of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should therefore focus particularly on not to downgrade any existing passengers’ rights to compensation, along with other equally important rights to assistance and rerouting. Both categories of rights examined in the above evidence, “compensation” and “assistance and rerouting”, have to be considered as whole and must not be artificially opposed one to the other. The, while taking into account economic incentives of air carriers and impacts the impact on connectivity can be fully taken into account, while at the same time preserving existing air passengers’ rights and a high level of consumer protection. [Am. 2]*

(3a) In line with the objectives of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, an independent peer-reviewed study from 2023<sup>7</sup> provides robust evidence that the Regulation in its current form is effective in reducing average flight delay times. It finds that this impact is clearly economically important in magnitude and is independent of air carriers' decisions on scheduled flight duration. It confirms that statistically, the hypothesis of no impact can be very firmly rejected. It insists that its results hold for other measures of flight punctuality (arrival delay and share of "ontime flights"), and is robust to alternative specifications. Moreover, it finds that the current Regulation is most effective at delay reduction on routes where competition is low. It underlines that from an economic perspective, the compensation scheme under Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 applies the principle that liability should be borne by the party best placed to prevent and manage it at the lowest cost. Air carriers, rather than passengers, would retain control over punctuality through scheduling, maintenance planning, crew and aircraft rotations, and disruption-recovery strategies.

By tying liability to arrival delay at the final destination, the Regulation would provide necessary economic incentives for air carriers to reduce the occurrence of long delays and cancellations. The findings of this study support the Union legislator's decision to maintain and render explicit the common three-hour threshold for compensation in the event of cancellation or a long delay, the current compensation levels and distance thresholds: ensuring that the current level of protection of passenger rights is not downgraded is effective in increasing connectivity and maintaining economic incentives for air carriers. [Am. 3]

- (4) Passengers travelling on a flight covered by Public Service Obligations, either at a full or at a reduced fare, should be subject to the same rights under Regulation (EC) No 261/2004.

- (5) ~~In order to increase legal certainty for air carriers and passengers, a definition of The concept of ‘extraordinary circumstances’ is needed, which takes into account the judgment~~ has been subject to abundant case law of the Court of Justice in ~~Case C-549/07 (Friederike Wallentin-Hermann v Alitalia – Linee Aeree Italiane SpA)~~<sup>8</sup> (~~‘judgment in Case C-549/07’~~) on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004. The concept of ‘extraordinary circumstances’. Greater clarity should be clarified through non-exhaustive lists of circumstances that constitute provided on what constitutes extraordinary circumstances to allow air passenger rights to be effectively and consistently enforced. In the light of the case law, events whose origin is ‘internal’ should be distinguished from those whose origin is ‘external’ to the operating air carrier. Events should be considered external when they arise from circumstances beyond the air carrier’s control and result from a natural event or an act of a third party. Such external events should be generally qualified as ~~or that do not constitute extraordinary circumstances. The Commission~~ Events that do not meet these criteria should review be deemed internal and should not be qualified as extraordinary circumstances. Such distinction should be further clarified by means of an exhaustive list of circumstances that are clearly identified as capable of being considered as extraordinary.

In order to amend the list of extraordinary circumstances every three years and propose, as, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union should be delegated to the Commission in respect of making additions, where necessary, to that list. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level, and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement of 13 April 2016 on Better Law-Making<sup>9</sup>. In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, to the European Parliament and the Council to update that list receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.

- (5a) In accordance with the Montreal Convention, obligations on operating air carriers should be limited or excluded in cases where an event has been caused by extraordinary circumstances which could not have been avoided even if all reasonable measures had been taken. The Court of Justice has provided more details on the meaning and limits of the obligation to take “reasonable measures” in its case-law. [Am. 5]
- (6) ~~In its judgment in Case C-549/07 the Court of Justice held that an unexpected technical problem did not constitute an extraordinary circumstance, except when the unexpected technical problem arose from a hidden manufacturing defect revealed by the manufacturer of the aircraft or by a competent authority, or damage to the aircraft caused by acts of sabotage or terrorism. However, in the light of experience gained and given the overriding importance of ensuring that the rights granted to passengers under this Regulation are not detrimental to safety, in certain conditions technical issues with certain equipment should constitute extraordinary circumstances. [Am. 6]~~

(7) In its judgment in Joined Cases C-156/22, C-157/22 and C-158/22 (TAP Portugal v flightright GmbH and Myflyright GmbH)<sup>10</sup> on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the Court of Justice held that an unexpected absence due to illness or even an unexpected death, shortly before the departure of a flight, of a crew member whose presence is essential to its operation did not constitute an extraordinary circumstance. Nonetheless, even though air carriers have the duty to take all reasonable measures to ensure replacement of the pilot, co-pilot or minimum required cabin crew, ensuring compliance with that obligation in practice outside the air carrier's home bases requires considerable time and high financial cost. Therefore, it is appropriate to provide that the unexpected illness or death of a crew member whose presence is essential, for example when it occurs the day before the departure of the flight, outside the home bases of an air carriers should constitute an extraordinary circumstance. (8) ~~In its judgments in Cases C-28/20 (Airhelp Ltd v Scandinavian Airlines System Denmark — Norway — Sweden)<sup>11</sup>, C-195/17 (Helga Krüsemann and Others v TUIfly GmbH)<sup>12</sup>, C-613/20 (CS v Eurowings GmbH)<sup>13</sup> and in its order in Case C-287/20 (EL and CP v Ryanair DAC)<sup>14</sup> on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the Court of Justice held that strikes by staff of the air carrier did not constitute extraordinary circumstances. Nonetheless, when a strike occurs, certain demands made by airline staff do not fall within the remit of the air carrier and are outside its control, such as changes to the retirement age or to financial contributions that can only be addressed by public authorities. Therefore, it is appropriate to provide that certain strikes by airline staff should constitute extraordinary circumstances. [Am. 8]~~

<sup>14</sup> ~~Order of the Court (Eighth Chamber) of 10 January 2022, EL and CP v Ryanair DAC, Case C-287/20, ECLI:EU:C:2022:1.~~

- (9) In its judgment in Case C-173/07 (Emirates Airlines – Direktion für Deutschland v Diether Schenkel)<sup>15</sup> on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the Court of Justice held that concept of a ‘flight’ within the meaning of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 was not defined but the Court of Justice interpreted it as consisting essentially of an air transport operation, as a ‘unit’ of such transport, performed by an air carrier which fixes its itinerary. In order to avoid uncertainty and in the light of experience gained, a clear definition of a ‘flight’ should now be provided, as well as the associated notions of a ‘connecting flight’ and a ‘journey’.
- (10) In its judgment in Case C-537/17 (Claudia Wegener v Royal Air Maroc SA)<sup>16</sup> on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the Court of Justice held that Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 applied to a part of any flight which was part of one journey, regardless of where the flight took place, including flights fully operated outside the Union. Building on this judgement and with the aim of establishing a level playing field, when either the initial point of departure is located in the territory of a Member States to which the Treaties apply, or, ~~when the operating air carrier is a Union operating air carrier~~, when the final destination of the journey is located in the territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply, this Regulation should apply. [Am. 9]

<sup>15</sup> Judgment of the Court (Fourth Chamber) of 10 July 2008, Emirates Airlines – Direktion für Deutschland v Diether Schenkel, Case C-173/07, ECLI:EU:C:2008:400.

<sup>16</sup> Judgment of the Court (Eighth Chamber) of 31 May 2018, Claudia Wegener v Royal Air Maroc SA, Case C-537/17, ECLI:EU:C:2018:361.

- (11) The Study has shown varying levels of compliance with Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 by air carriers, with Union air carriers generally showing a higher level of compliance than third country air carriers. Therefore, restoring the level playing field between Union and third country air carriers and improving the economic sustainability of Union air carriers will support Union competitiveness and ultimately improve the protection of passengers overall.
- (11a) In the interest of fair international competition and in order to ensure that passengers are protected by a uniform and coherent framework of rights, Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should apply to all journeys within the Union, as well as to all journeys departing from or arriving in the Union. [Am. 10]

- (12) ~~Article 349 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union recognises the special characteristics of the outermost regions, in particular due to their remoteness. In light of experience gained with Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, it is necessary to ensure territorial connectivity for the outermost regions and enhance cohesion across the Union, which would ultimately benefit passengers. Due to the specific features of journeys between outermost regions and another territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply, the amount of compensation should be determined on the basis of the actual distance of the journeys. [Am. 11]~~
- (13) Tickets are issued or authorised by an operating air carrier following the conclusion of an air transport contract with a passenger. They should be identifiable through a unique ticket number and contain a unique reference related to a single air transport contract issued at the time of booking. They should cover one flight or a connecting flight, without taking into account intermediate stops for technical and operational purposes. They should contain several pieces of information regarding that flight or that connecting flight such as the flight date, airports of departure and arrival, the scheduled times of departure and arrival, the passenger's name, surname, the flight number and the name of the operating air carrier.

(14) In its judgment in Case C-22/11 (Finnair Oyj v Timy Lassooy)<sup>17</sup> on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the Court of Justice held that the concept of ‘denied boarding’ must be interpreted as relating not only to cases where boarding is denied because of overbooking but also to those where boarding is denied on other grounds, such as for operational reasons. Passengers who have presented themselves for boarding and are denied boarding, or who have been informed in advance that they would be denied boarding, against their will, should be reimbursed and compensated without undue delay.
[Am. 12]

~~(15) At the same time, there are reasonable grounds to deny passengers boarding, such as health, safety, security or inadequate travel documentation. Air carriers have also reasonable grounds to deny boarding to passengers displaying unruly behaviour threatening the safety or security of a flight, as referred to in the amended Convention on Offences and Certain Other Acts Committed on Board Aircraft signed in Tokyo on 14 September 1963. In those cases, the operating air carrier should bear the burden of proof.~~
[Am. 13]

---

<sup>17</sup> Judgment of the Court (Third Chamber) of 4 October 2012, Finnair Oyj v Timy Lassooy, Case C-22/11, ECLI:EU:C:2012:604.

- (16) In order to improve levels of protection, passengers should not be denied boarding on a return flight on the grounds that they did not take the outbound flight covered by the same air transport contract.
- (17) At present, passengers are sometimes charged punitive administrative fees for the correction of spelling mistakes in their names. Reasonable corrections of booking errors, or administrative changes, should be provided free of charge provided the correction or change sought would not result in a change of time of flight, date, itinerary or passenger.
- (18) In the case of a cancellation, the choice between receiving reimbursement, continuation of travel by rerouting or travel later on the same day or at a later date should be the decision of the passenger and not that of the air carrier. [Am. 14]

(18a) Where a passenger cancels a flight, air carriers should be obliged to refund, free of charge, taxes which have already been paid. [Am. 15]

(19) *Airport managing bodies at airports ~~that handle more than five~~with an annual passenger traffic volume of not less than four million passengers ~~per year~~for at least three consecutive years and airport essential service providers, in particular air carriers and the suppliers of ground handling services, navigation service providers and assistance providers for disabled passengers and passengers with reduced mobility, should ~~cooperate~~take adequate measures to ensure coordination and cooperation between airport users in order to minimise the impact of multiple flight disruptions on passengers. To this end, airport managing bodies should ~~prepare~~ensure adequate coordination by means of proper contingency plans for such occurrences and work together with national, regional or local authorities in the development of such plans. ~~At all other airports, the airport managing body~~Such plans should make all reasonable efforts to coordinate and make arrangements with airport users in situations that could lead to a considerable number of passengers being stranded and to keep the stranded passengers informed*be assessed and, where necessary, adapted by the National Enforcement Bodies. [Am. 16]

- (19a) Air carriers should set up procedures and coordinated action in order to provide adequate information to stranded passengers. Those procedures should clearly indicate who is responsible at each airport for arranging the care, assistance, re-routing or reimbursement and should set out the processes and conditions for the provision of those services. [Am. 17]
- (19b) In order to assist passengers in the case of flight disruptions or delayed, damaged or lost baggage, air carriers should set up contact points at airports where their personnel or third parties commissioned by them should provide passengers with the necessary information regarding their rights, including complaint procedures, and assist them to take immediate action. [Am. 18]

- (19c) Given the short deadlines for the submission of complaints for delayed, damaged or lost baggage, a special baggage claim service should be set up at all airports where passengers have the possibility to submit a complaint upon arrival. For this purpose, air carriers should provide a complaint form in all official languages of the Union to passengers. This could also take the form of the common Property Irregularity Report (PIR). In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission to lay down the form of the standardised claim form through implementing acts. [Am. 19]
- (20) The objective of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should explicitly include the right to compensation for ~~is to strengthen the rights of consumers by ensuring a high level of protection for air passengers experiencing long delays, in accordance with the judgment~~ within the internal market, in line with Article 38 of the Court of Justice Charter of Fundamental Rights. In joined Cases C-402/07 (Christopher Sturgeon, Gabriel Sturgeon and Alana Sturgeon v Condor Flugdienst GmbH) and C-432/07 (Stefan Böck and Cornelia Lepuschitz v Air France SA)<sup>18</sup> (‘judgment in Joined cases C-402/07 and C-432/07’), the Court of Justice reflected this objective by recognizing that passengers experiencing flight delays of three hours or more suffer damage in the form of irreversible loss of time that must be compensated promptly and in a standardized manner.

<sup>18</sup> Judgment of the Court (Fourth Chamber) of 19 November 2009, Christopher Sturgeon, Gabriel Sturgeon and Alana Sturgeon v Condor Flugdienst GmbH (C-402/07), and Stefan Böck and Cornelia Lepuschitz v Air France SA (C-432/07), Joined Cases C-402/07 and C-432/07, ECLI:EU:C:2009:716.

Relying on the principle of equal treatment, the Court confirmed that such long delays cause harm comparable to cancellations and that a difference in treatment could not be objectively justified. Specifically, the Court considered that, when the delay in arrival of a flight is equal to, or in excess of, three hours, the passengers concerned are entitled to compensation, like passengers whose original flight has been cancelled and to whom an air carrier is not able to offer re-routing in accordance with the conditions laid down in Article 5(1)(c)(iii) of the regulation, that is, on a flight which departs no more than one hour before the scheduled time of departure and reaches their final destination less than two hours after the scheduled time of arrival. In line with the principle of equal treatment referred to in that judgment, the same rules should apply for reimbursement, rerouting and, such compensation rights should also extend to passengers whose flights have not been cancelled but who suffer an equivalent loss of time due to the flight being both brought forward before departure and subject to a delay at arrival. Accordingly, in order to maintain robust safeguards for passengers in line with Article 38 of the Charter, as well as to ensure uniform protection, legal certainty and effective enforcement across Member States, Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should explicitly set out a common three-hour threshold for compensation where passengers suffer an irreversible loss of time that is equal to or exceeds three hours in relation to the duration originally planned by the air carrier. [Am. 20]

(21) ~~The judgment in joined Cases C-402/07 and C-432/07 referred to a one-trigger time threshold of three hours for compensation in cases of delay. However, experience gained since the adoption of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 shows that many delays cannot be resolved within the three hours referred to in that judgment and that a short threshold may increase the number of flight cancellations where air carriers reduce the knock-on effects of delayed flights on the subsequent flights by cancelling one or several flights to reposition the aircraft for a next flight. In most circumstances, the passenger would still prefer a delay over a cancellation because the passenger has more certainty as to the arrival at the relevant destination at the earliest opportunity. On many routes, the frequency of flights is limited, and, in cases of cancellation, the passenger cannot be immediately rerouted. Increasing the time threshold therefore presents an advantage for the passenger.~~

[Am. 21]

- (22) ~~With a view to maintaining connectivity, the thresholds above which delays give rise to a right to compensation should be increased to take account of the financial and competitiveness impact on the sector. In this way, it will be possible to avoid incentivising any increase in the frequency of cancellations or restrictions in the number of routes operated or reductions in connectivity offered to passengers in the long term. To ensure that passengers travelling within the Union face homogenous conditions for compensation, the threshold should be the same for all travel within the Union. [Am. 22]~~
- (23) The standardised compensation in Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 serves to compensate for a loss of time which is common to all passengers. ~~The amounts fixed in Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 could, in many cases, go beyond the value of the damage incurred by passengers as established by economic studies. It is therefore appropriate to define different thresholds for compensation levels according to the distance of the flight disrupted and the delay at arrival. [Am. 23]~~

- (24) ~~In accordance with the Union's efforts to promote climate-neutral and environmentally friendly mobility, it is also appropriate to ensure that regulatory frameworks for passenger rights of transport modes converge to the extent possible and that the compensation provided between different modes of transport is levelled. [Am. 24]~~
- (24a) The Flight Emissions Label established pursuant to Article 14 of Regulation (EU) 2023/2405 of the European Parliament and the Council<sup>19</sup> is at the disposal of the service providers should they want to display, in an easily accessible format on their websites and on tickets, accurate and objective information regarding the environmental impact of their travel in a comparable way. [Am. 25]

- (25) To ensure legal certainty, Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should explicitly confirm that the changing of flight schedules has a similar impact on passengers to cancellations~~or~~, delays or denied boarding and should therefore give rise to the same rights. [Am. 26]
- (26) Passengers who miss a connecting flight which is part of a journey as a result of a disruption, a change of schedule or a delay on a previous flight should be properly assisted while waiting for rerouting. In such cases, in accordance with the principle of equal treatment and with the judgement of the Court of Justice in Case C-11/11 (Air France v. Folkerts)<sup>20</sup>, passengers should be entitled to compensation upon reaching the final destination of their alternative flight or transportation, on a similar basis to passengers experiencing disruptions on direct flights in light of the delay upon reaching the final destination of their journey. [Am. 27]

- (27) At the time of booking and prior the purchase of the tickets, air carriers, or, where appropriate, the intermediaries, should clearly inform passengers whether their travel plans would be covered by a single air transport contract and of their rights under Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, particularly regarding missed connecting flights.
- (28) In order to enhance passenger protection, it should be clarified that passengers whose flight was delayed should benefit from rights to assistance and compensation irrespective of whether they are waiting in the airport terminal or are already seated on board the aircraft. However, as the latter have no access to the services available in the terminal, their rights should be reinforced with regard to basic needs and with regard to the right to disembark. The right to disembark may only be limited if there are safety, immigration, air traffic control or security-related reasons. If an air carrier is about to disembark passengers but is informed by air traffic control authorities that the flight is authorised to take-off imminently, it should be allowed to decline to disembark passengers.

- (29) Where a passenger has opted for rerouting at the earliest opportunity, the air carrier often makes the rerouting conditional upon the availability of seats on its own services, thereby denying its passengers the option of being rerouted more quickly by alternative services. Therefore, the carrier should also propose other options for rerouting, including to an alternative airport, by a different route, on another carrier's services or on other transport modes where this can speed up rerouting. Alternative rerouting should be dependent upon the availability of seats. ~~If the air carrier has not offered a rerouting and the cumulated waiting time is prolonged by at least three hours, the passenger should have the right to arrange his or her own rerouting in order to reach his or her final destination without further delay.~~ That rerouting should be, subject to certain conditions, at the air carrier's expenses and provided under comparable transport conditions. [Am. 28]

- (30) When rerouting passengers, air carriers should seek to ensure that passengers can travel with their baggage, including checked and unchecked baggage. An air carrier should be allowed by the passenger to proceed otherwise if restrictions on baggage transportation could cause further delays to passengers awaiting rerouting, without prejudice to its liability in respect of passengers' baggage governed by Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 and by the Convention for the Unification of Certain Rules Relating to International Carriage by Air, agreed at Montreal on 28 May 1999 ('the Montreal Convention').
- (31) Whether transport conditions are comparable could depend on a number of factors and on the particular circumstances. Where possible and where it does not entail further delay, passengers should not be downgraded to transport services of a lower class compared with the one on the reservation. Rerouting should be offered at no additional cost to the passenger, even if passengers are rerouted with another air carrier or on a different transport mode or in a higher class or at a higher fare than the one paid for the original service. Reasonable efforts should be made to avoid additional connections. ~~When using another air carrier or an alternative mode of transport for rerouting,~~ Persons with disabilities or persons with reduced mobility should not be subject to any additional connecting flight when rerouted, unless otherwise agreed by the passenger.

The total travel time should be as close as reasonably possible to the scheduled travel time of the original flight, taking into account the options available at the airport where the disruption occurred, in the same class of transport or a higher one if necessary. If several flights are available with comparable timings, passengers having the right to rerouting should accept the offer of rerouting made by the air carrier, including on those air carriers cooperating with the operating air carrier. If the operating air carrier provides the passenger with rerouting under comparable transport conditions the passenger should accept such rerouting. If the operating air carrier provides the passenger with rerouting options which are not under comparable transport conditions, the passenger could refuse such rerouting. The right to rerouting, including self-rerouting should be maintained. If assistance for persons with disabilities or persons with reduced mobility was booked for the original flight, such assistance should also be available on the alternative route in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>21</sup>. [Am. 29]

- (31a) Where a passenger informed the operating air carrier of his or her choice to continue his or her journey, and if the operating air carrier has not offered within three hours a rerouting, the passenger should have the right to arrange his or her own rerouting under comparable transport conditions in order to reach his or her final destination without further delay. However, the passenger should remain entitled to rerouting by the operating air carrier until the passenger has informed the operating air carrier of his or her decision, to arrange his or her own rerouting. When arranging their own rerouting, the passengers should limit the expenses to those that are necessary, reasonable and appropriate. [Am. 30]
- (31b) Assistance could be limited or declined if its provision would itself cause further delay to passengers awaiting a delayed flight or the rerouting. If a flight is delayed late in the evening but can be expected to depart within a short period of time and if dispatching passengers to hotels and bringing them back to the airport in the middle of the night could lead to a much longer delay, the air carrier should be allowed to decline to provide hotel accommodation and corresponding transfers. Similarly, if an air carrier is about to provide food and drinks but is informed that the flight is ready for boarding, it should be allowed to decline to provide this assistance. Apart from these cases, this limitation should be applied only in very exceptional cases, as every effort should be made to reduce the inconvenience suffered by passengers. [Am. 31]

- (32) Air carriers should offer assistance to passengers from the scheduled time of departure until the departure of their flight ~~or alternative transportation~~. Air carriers currently face unlimited liability for the accommodation of their passengers in the case where the extraordinary circumstances persist for a long period of time. ~~This uncertainty linked with the absence of any foreseeable limit in time may risk endangering a carrier's financial stability, with consequential negative effects for passengers in terms of connectivity.~~ An air carrier should therefore be able to limit the provision of care as regards the duration of accommodation and, in cases where passengers arrange the accommodation themselves, as regards costs and care to three nights. Moreover, contingency planning and speedy rerouting should lessen the risk of passengers being stranded for long periods. [Am. 32]
- (33) Passengers with specific needs such as persons with disabilities, persons with reduced mobility, unaccompanied children, infants, pregnant women and persons in need of specific medical assistance such as people with severe diabetes or epilepsy, may require specific attention by the operating air carrier. In particular, it may be more difficult to arrange accommodation when flight disruptions occur. Therefore, any limitations on the right to be provided with accommodation in cases of extraordinary circumstances should ~~not~~ no account apply to these categories of passenger ~~provided they have informed the operating air carrier in due time~~. [Am. 33]

- (33a) The service providers should ensure that persons with disabilities and persons with reduced mobility have the right, at all times, to use safety-approved respiratory devices on aircraft, free of charge. The Commission should draw up a list of approved medical oxygen equipment in cooperation with the industry and organisations representing persons with disabilities and persons with reduces mobility, taking due account of safety requirements. [Am. 34]
- (34) Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 also applies to passengers who have booked their air transport as part of a package travel. This amending Regulation aims to further improve the coherence between Directive (EU) 2015/2302 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>22</sup> and Regulation (EC) No 261/2004. In that regard, passengers should be able to choose under which of those two legal acts they introduce their claims and, where appropriate, make claims under both legal acts. A passenger who has booked air transport as part of a package should be able to make claims under both legal acts where, for example, the passenger received a compensation from the air carrier for a delayed flight, but is entitled to a price reduction or compensation to be granted by the organiser for specific services, such as a hotel night, meals, an excursion or other events, missed as a consequence of the delayed flight.

<sup>22</sup> Directive (EU) 2015/2302 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 November 2015 on package travel and linked travel arrangements, amending Regulation (EC) No 2006/2004 and Directive 2011/83/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council and repealing Council Directive 90/314/EEC (OJ L 326, 11.12.2015, p. 1, ELI: <http://data.europa.eu/eli/dir/2015/2302/oj>).

However, passengers should not be allowed to cumulate corresponding rights, in particular insofar as the relevant compensation or price reduction granted under both legal acts safeguards the same interest or have the same objective. If passengers introduce their claim with the air carrier, the air carrier should pay the full amount of the compensation due under Regulation (EC) No 261/2004. If passengers make a claim under Directive (EU) 2015/2302, the compensation paid by the air carrier should be deducted from payments due under Directive (EU) 2015/2302 insofar as the underlying rights safeguard the same interest or have the same objective. [Am. 35]

- (35) The reasons for the current level of delays and cancelled flights in the Union are not attributable solely to air carriers. In order to incentivise all actors in the aviation chain to seek efficient and timely solutions to minimise the inconvenience that delays and cancellations cause to passengers, the right of air carriers to seek redress from any third party which contributed to the event triggering compensation or other obligations should not be restricted by Regulation (EC) No 261/2004.

(36) In its judgment in Case C— 502/18 (CS and Others v České aerolinie a.s.)<sup>23</sup> on the interpretation of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the Court of Justice held that, in the case of connecting flights, within the scope of that Regulation, any operating air carrier which participated in the performance of at least one of those connecting flights is liable to compensate the passenger under that Regulation whether or not the flight which that air carrier operated was disrupted. Even if Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 provides that operating carriers fulfilling duties under it may seek compensation from any third party, the Study has shown poor effectiveness of the right of redress provided for in that Regulation. As a result, Union air carriers bear a disproportionate financial burden compared to third country air carriers. With a view to restoring Union air carriers' competitiveness in accordance with the recommendations of the report entitled 'Future of European competitiveness' of September 2024 ('Draghi report'), and to maintaining, in the long run, connectivity, the revision of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should therefore limit the liability of an air carrier to the flights it operates as operating air carrier. [Am. 36]

(37) Regulation (EC) No 2111/2005 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>24</sup> requires the air carriage contractor to inform the passenger of the identity of the operating air carrier and Council Directive 93/13/EEC<sup>25</sup> requires the seller or supplier to provide information to the consumer on the terms and conditions of the contract. Passengers should be informed in more detail about their rights in cases of flight disruption, and should also be adequately informed about the cause of the disruption itself, as soon as the information becomes available. That information should also be provided by the air carrier where the passenger has acquired the ticket through an intermediary established in the Union. That information should, at a minimum, be provided by the air carrier or the intermediary in an accessible format and, where appropriate, through so-called ‘push’ notifications from mobile applications or by other digital means. - (38) ~~In order to ensure better enforcement of passenger rights, the national enforcement bodies should monitor the enforcement of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 and decide on appropriate sanctions to incentivise compliance with that Regulation. [Am. 38]~~
- (38a) The Special Report 15/2021 of the European Court of Auditors concluded that national enforcement bodies lack a good overview of operators' compliance with passenger rights. The Commission in its evaluations also concluded that the overall approach of national enforcement bodies toward monitoring the implementation of the Regulations varies significantly: while some national enforcement bodies tend to be very proactive, others seem only to react to complaints which they receive. To address these shortcomings and to ensure better enforcement of passenger rights, enforcement mechanisms should be strengthened by granting national enforcement bodies independence, establishing a cross-border cooperation mechanism, enhancing their power to obtain information from carriers, and implementing a more effective penalty regime. [Am. 39]

(39) In order to ensure better enforcement of passenger rights, Member States should ensure that consumers have access to mechanisms for an out-of-court resolution of disputes after those consumers have unsuccessfully complained or submitted a request to the air carrier or the intermediary. ~~Those mechanisms should be without prejudice to the right of the Member States to determine whether~~ The participation of ~~the~~ air carriers ~~or~~ and intermediaries under the scope of this Regulation in alternative dispute resolution procedures should be mandatory and their decisions binding. [Am. 40]

(39a) As commercial aviation is an integrated Union market, measures to guarantee enforcement of this Regulation should be more effective at Union level with increased involvement of the Commission. Specifically, the Commission should increase public awareness of compliance by air carriers with passenger rights requirements by publishing a list of carriers that systematically fail to comply with this Regulation. [Am. 41]

- (40) When passengers choose to be reimbursed as opposed to being rerouted, they should be automatically reimbursed, in a timely manner, without an obligation to submit a dedicated request.
- (41) Passengers should be adequately informed by the air carrier or the intermediary about the relevant procedures for submitting requests for compensation and complaints to air carriers or the intermediaries and should receive a reply from the air carriers or the intermediaries within a timely manner. Where the airport managing body activates its airport contingency plan, deadlines for replying could be extended.
- (42) Passengers should also have the option to submit individual disputes to a body or bodies responsible for the out-of-court resolution of disputes following complaints to the air carrier. However, since the right to an effective remedy before a tribunal is a fundamental right recognised in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, those measures should neither prevent nor hinder passengers' access to courts.
- (43) In order to enable passengers to exercise their rights regarding requests, complaints and individual disputes, passengers should be able to directly and personally make an application to the air carriers, intermediaries, or the relevant bodies under Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, in a clear and accessible manner.

- (44) Having regard to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities<sup>26</sup>, and in order to ensure that the damage to, destruction or loss of mobility equipment or the injury to or death of a recognised assistance dog is compensated to its full replacement cost, air carriers should offer to persons with disabilities and persons with reduced mobility, as defined in Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006, the opportunity to make a special declaration of interest free of charge, which pursuant to the Montreal Convention allows them to seek full compensation for loss or damage. Air carriers should inform passengers of that declaration and of the related rights whenever they make a ticket booking. [Am. 42]
- (45) The person with disabilities and the person with reduced mobility should be entitled to immediately receive a temporary replacement of mobility equipment from the air carrier to replace checked mobility equipment in the case of loss of, destruction or damage to the checked mobility equipment. Given that recognised assistance dogs cannot be easily replaced, other temporary solutions should be provided where a recognised assistance dog is lost, dies or is injured.

(46a) Greater clarity should be provided where a personal item or hand baggage is left behind or lost in the aircraft cabin in order to facilitate the handling of such requests, ensuring a streamlined process and preventing any additional burden or miscommunication for passengers. [Am. 44]

(47) ~~Passengers should be informed at booking, in clear and accessible format, of the maximum dimensions and weight of the baggage they can bring with them in the cabin. Without prejudice to the freedom of pricing principle, air carriers should define a reasonable policy in terms of dimensions of hand baggage which enables passengers to take a piece of hand baggage into the cabin, provided that it complies with applicable safety and security requirements. Given the diversity of the air carriers' policies, it is appropriate that in the review of Regulation (EC) No 1008/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>28</sup>, the feasibility of setting up uniform minimal rules for hand baggage should be assessed. (48) Musical instruments can be of immense monetary, artistic and historical value. Moreover, musical instruments are the tools of musicians' trade used regularly for rehearsal and performance and cannot be easily replaced. Therefore, passengers should be entitled to carry musical instruments into the cabin under their own responsibility, provided those instruments respect capacity, safety and security rules and the air carrier's maximum baggage allowance policy. In order to allow the passengers concerned to assess whether their musical instrument can be stored in the cabin, air carriers should inform them about the size of storage facilities. When capacity, safety and security requirements are fulfilled, the air carrier should endeavour to allow passengers to carry musical instruments on additional seats, provided that the corresponding fares have been paid. Where this is not possible, musical instruments should, where possible, be carried under the appropriate conditions in the cargo compartment of the aircraft. Therefore, Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 should be amended accordingly. [Am. 46]

- (49) Given the short deadlines for the submission of complaints for the rights and obligations covered by Regulation (EC) No 2027/97, air carriers should provide passengers with the possibility to submit a complaint by providing them with a complaint form in formats which are accessible to persons with disabilities and persons who do not use digital tools. Air carriers should, at a minimum, make the complaint form available on the air carriers' mobile applications and on their websites. That complaint form should allow the passenger to immediately file a complaint about damaged, delayed or lost baggage.
- (50) Article 3(2) of Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 has become obsolete as insurance matters are now regulated by Regulation (EC) No 785/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>29</sup>. It should therefore be deleted.

- (51) ~~It is necessary that the monetary limits referred to in the Annex to Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 be regularly amended by air carriers in order to take into account economic developments, as reviewed by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention. - (53a) *The creation of a guarantee fund or a compulsory insurance scheme should for example enable air carriers to ensure that passengers can be reimbursed or repatriated when their flights are cancelled due to the insolvency of an air carrier or the suspension of its operations as the result of the revocation of its operating licence. [Am. 51]
- (55) Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should be without prejudice to the status of and sovereignty over the isthmus of Gibraltar in which the airport of Gibraltar is located and the legal position of the Kingdom of Spain in that regard. Taking into account the current circumstances and in order to provide legal certainty, it should be specified that the rules in Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 should only apply to Gibraltar airport when, following a settlement of the dispute between the Kingdom of Spain and the United Kingdom, the Kingdom of Spain is in a position to exercise effective control over the airport of Gibraltar and to ensure the application of the rules set out in Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 to that airport and a notification of the resolution of the dispute has been published in the Official Journal of the European Union. [Am. 52]

- (55a) This Regulation respects fundamental rights and observe the principles recognised in particular by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, notably consumer protection, the right to protection of personal data, the prohibition of any form of discrimination and the integration of persons with disabilities, the right to an effective remedy and to a fair trial. [Am. 53]
- (55b) In order to improve air passenger protection beyond Union borders, such rights should also be addressed in bilateral and international agreements. [Am. 54]
- (55c) Specific facilities for severely disabled passengers requiring changing and toilet facilities (so-called 'changing places') should be provided at no cost to the passenger at all Union airports with an annual passenger traffic volume of more than one million passengers. [Am. 55]

(56) Since the objectives of this Regulation, namely protecting air passenger rights in a fair and balanced manner, ensuring the competitiveness of the Union's aviation sector and maintaining connectivity for passengers in the long term, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States but can rather, by reason of its scale, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve those objectives,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 1

Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 is amended as follows:

(1) Article 1 is replaced by the following:

‘Article 1

Subject matter

This Regulation establishes, under the conditions specified herein, minimum rights for air passengers in the event that:

- (a) they are denied boarding;
- (b) their flight is cancelled, delayed or rescheduled;
- (c) they miss a connecting flight;
- (d) they are upgraded or downgraded.’;

(2) Article 2 is amended as follows:

(a) points (b) to (f) are replaced by the following:

‘(b) “operating air carrier” means an air carrier that performs or intends to perform a flight under an air transport contract with a passenger or on behalf of another person, legal or natural, having a contract with that passenger, including an air carrier that uses the aircraft of another air carrier, with or without crew of that other air carrier, for the performance of its flights;

(c) “Union air carrier” means an air carrier with a valid operating licence granted by a Member State in accordance with the provisions of Regulation (EC) No 1008/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council*;

(ca) "airport managing body" means a body which, in conjunction with other activities or not as the case may be, has as its objective under national laws, regulations or contracts the administration and management of the airport or airport network infrastructures and the coordination and control of the activities of the different operators present in the airports or airport network concerned; [Am. 56]

‘Article 3

Scope

1. This Regulation shall apply:

- (a) to passengers departing from an airport located in the territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply;
- (b) to passengers departing from an airport located in a third country to an airport situated in the territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply, unless they received equivalent benefits or compensation and were given assistance in that third country, ~~if the operating air carrier of the flight concerned is a Union air carrier.~~ [Am. 72]

2. Paragraph 1 shall apply on the condition that passengers:
  - (a) have a ticket for the flight concerned; or
  - (b) have been transferred by an air carrier or an intermediary from the flight for which they held a ticket to another flight, irrespective of the reason.
3. ~~This Regulation shall not apply to passengers travelling free of charge or at a reduced fare not available, directly or indirectly, to the public. However, it shall apply to passengers having tickets issued under a frequent flyer programme or other commercial programme by an air carrier or intermediary. [Am. 73]~~
4. Without prejudice to Article 8(2), point (d), this Regulation shall only apply to passengers transported by motorised fixed wing aircraft.

5. Unless otherwise specified, the operating air carrier shall be responsible for meeting the obligations under this Regulation.
6. Without prejudice to Article 12 of this Regulation, this Regulation shall also apply to passengers transported on a flight covered by a package travel contract as defined in Article 3, point (3), of Directive (EU) 2015/2302, unless that package travel contract is terminated or its performance is affected for reasons other than a disruption of that flight.
7. ~~Article 7 of this Regulation shall not apply, if the disruption occurs on a connecting flight that both departs from and arrives at an airport in Greenland. [Am. 74]~~
8. ~~This Regulation is without prejudice to the legal position of the Kingdom of Spain regarding the territory of Gibraltar, as well as the isthmus and the airport constructed thereon. [Am. 75]~~

~~It shall apply to Gibraltar airport when, following a settlement of its dispute with the United Kingdom, the Kingdom of Spain is in a position to exercise effective control over that airport and to ensure the application of this Regulation to that airport. The Kingdom of Spain shall notify the Commission when these conditions are met and the Commission shall publish a notification regarding the resolution of the dispute in the Official Journal of the European Union. This Regulation shall apply to that airport from the first day of the month following the date of the publication of that notification in the Official Journal of the European Union.;~~ [Am. 76]

- (4) Article 4 is replaced by the following:

Denied boarding

1. This Article shall apply to passengers that present themselves for boarding at the gate, after they have completed an online check-in or a check-in at the airport, as stipulated and at the time indicated in advance and in writing (including by electronic means) by the operating air carrier, or the intermediary, or, if no boarding time is indicated, not later than 45 minutes before the time of departure indicated on the passenger’s ticket. This Article shall also apply to passengers who do not present themselves for boarding when they were informed in advance that they will be denied boarding against their will.
2. When an operating air carrier reasonably expects to deny boarding on a flight, it shall immediately inform the passengers concerned. The operating air carrier shall, at the same time, specify to the passengers concerned their specific rights under this Regulation applicable to the case, in particular as regards the right to reimbursement ~~or, rerouting under Article 8~~ and compensation and the right to assistance under ~~Article 9~~ this Regulation. [Am. 77]

The operating air carrier shall call for volunteers under conditions to be agreed between each volunteer and the operating air carrier. The air carrier shall inform the volunteers of their rights in accordance with this Regulation. ~~This~~ The agreement with each volunteer regarding the benefits shall only replace the volunteer's right to compensation as laid down in Article 7(1) if the volunteer explicitly approves of it by means of a signed document or any digital means on a durable medium. In absence of such an approval, the volunteer shall be, ~~without undue delay and at the latest within seven calendar days of the denied boarding,~~ immediately compensated by the operating air carrier denying boarding in accordance with Articles 7(1). [Am. 78]

3. If the number of volunteers who come forward is insufficient to allow the remaining passengers with tickets to board the flight, the operating air carrier may then deny boarding to passengers against their will, with the exception of passengers referred to in Article 11.
4. The operating air carrier denying boarding shall immediately specify to the passengers concerned the information on the handling of complaints under Articles 15a and 16a.

The operating air carrier denying boarding shall, without undue delay, offer to the passengers concerned, in a clear manner, the choice between reimbursement and rerouting in accordance with Article 8. By way of derogation from Article 8(1), point (a), when the passengers who were denied boarding are entitled to reimbursement it shall be granted ~~without undue delay and at the latest within seven calendar days of the denied boarding~~ immediately. [Am. 79]

The operating air carrier denying boarding shall offer assistance in accordance with Article 9 to the passengers concerned. By way of derogation from Article 9(1), point (a), refreshments shall be granted immediately.

The operating air carrier denying boarding to passengers against their will shall immediately compensate the passengers concerned in accordance with Article 7(1); ~~without undue delay and at the latest within seven calendar days of the denied boarding.~~ [Am. 80]

5. ~~Paragraphs 3 and 4 shall also apply to return flights where the passenger is denied boarding on the ground that the passenger did not take an outbound flight covered by the same air transport contract.~~ [Am. 81]
- 5a. Passenger shall not be denied boarding at the return journey, including one which consists of multiple flights, on the grounds that the passenger did not take the outbound flight of a return ticket or did not pay an additional charge for this purpose. If boarding is denied to passengers against their will on such grounds, this Article shall apply. In addition, the operating air carrier shall immediately compensate the passengers concerned in accordance with Article 7 and shall assist them in accordance with Articles 8 and 9.; [Am. 82]

6. ~~Where the passenger, or an intermediary, demands the correction of a spelling mistake in the name or given name(s) of one or several passengers or in case of administrative change to those names, the operating air carrier shall correct or change this at least once up until 48 hours before departure without any additional charge to the passenger or the intermediary.;~~ [Am. 83]

- (5) Article 5 is replaced by the following:

‘Article 5

Cancellation

1. In case of cancellation of a flight, the operating air carrier of the cancelled flight shall immediately inform the passengers concerned. The operating air carrier shall, at the same time, specify to the passengers concerned their specific rights under this Regulation applicable to the case, in particular as regards reimbursement or rerouting under Article 8 and assistance under Article 9, as well as the information on the process for requesting compensation defined in Article 7 and on the handling of complaints under Articles 15a and 16a.

The operating air carrier shall, ~~without undue delay, specify to~~ inform the passengers concerned by electronic means of the reasons for the cancellation. ~~The passengers shall be entitled, upon request, to receive in writing the reasons for the cancellation.~~ ~~The operating air carrier shall provide such~~ as soon as this information in a clear ~~manner within seven calendar days of the submission of the request~~ is available, and in any event no later than 30 minutes after the scheduled departure time. [Am. 84]

2. The operating air carrier of the cancelled flight shall, without undue delay, offer the passengers concerned, in a clear manner, the choice between reimbursement and rerouting in accordance with Article 8.

3. The operating air carrier shall offer assistance to the passengers concerned in accordance with Article 9.
4. Passengers shall have the right to receive compensation from the operating air carrier of the cancelled flight in accordance with Articles 7(1) and 7(3) when they choose a reimbursement in accordance with Article 8(1), point (a), or rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (c), ~~or~~and/or when they reach their final destination with a delay at arrival exceeding the ~~thresholds~~threshold set out in Article 7(2) after they choose rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (b). To that end, the air carrier shall systematically provide the passenger with a pre-filled form in an accessible format and on a durable medium in accordance with Article 16aa of Regulation [2023/0437(COD)] on enforcement of passenger rights in the Union. The air carrier shall provide a reply within the deadline set out in Article 7(5).
[Am. 85]

5. An operating air carrier shall not be obliged to pay compensation in accordance with Article 7 if it can prove that the cancellation was caused by extraordinary circumstances and the cancellation could not have been avoided even if the air carrier had taken all reasonable measures. Such extraordinary circumstances may only be invoked in so far as they affect the flight concerned or ~~at least one of the three~~the preceding ~~flights in the rotation sequence planned to be~~flight operated by the same aircraft, and provided that there is a direct causal link between the occurrence of that circumstance and the cancellation of the flight. The burden of proof regarding the existence of that direct causal link shall rest with the operating air carrier. Where no proof of the existence of extraordinary circumstances is provided by the air carrier in a written form, the compensation referred to in Article 7 shall be paid by the air carrier. [Am. 86]

6. The right to receive assistance under paragraph 3 and compensation under paragraph 4 shall not apply if the passengers have been informed of the cancellation at least 14 calendar days before the date of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket. The burden of proof concerning the questions of whether and when the passenger has been informed of the cancellation of the flight shall rest with the operating air carrier.
- 6a. *In the event of cancellation of a flight owing to insolvency, bankruptcy, or the suspension or cessation of the activities of an air carrier, passengers who are stranded shall be entitled to a reimbursement, the return flight to the point of departure or re-routing, and to care, as provided for in Articles 8 and 9 of this Regulation. Equally, air passengers who have not yet started their journey shall be entitled to reimbursement. Air carriers shall prove that they have taken all necessary measures, such as taking out an insurance policy or creating guarantee funds, to provide for the care, reimbursement or re-routing of stranded passengers where applicable. These rights shall apply to all passengers concerned irrespective of their place of residence, point of departure or where they bought their ticket.; [Am. 87]

(6) Article 6 is replaced by the following:

‘Article 6

Delay

1. When an operating air carrier expects a flight to be delayed, it shall inform the passengers concerned immediately, where possible, but at the latest, by the time of departure indicated on the passenger’s ticket. To the extent possible, passengers shall receive regular updates in real-time. The operating air carrier shall, at the same time, inform the passengers concerned of their specific rights under this Regulation applicable to the case, in particular as regards assistance under Article 9, the information on the process for requesting compensation defined in Article 7 and on the handling of complaints under Articles 15a and 16a.

The operating air carrier shall, ~~without undue delay~~ as soon as this information is available, and in any event no later than 30 minutes after the scheduled departure time, specify to the passengers concerned the reasons for the delay of the flight. The passengers are entitled, upon request, to receive in writing the reasons for the delay at arrival. The operating air carrier of the delayed flight shall ~~provide such information in a clear manner~~ send to passengers the pre-filled common form within ~~7 calendar days of the submission of the request~~ 48 hours following travel disruption for the purpose of reimbursement and compensation in accordance with Article 6c.
[Am. 88]

2. The operating air carrier shall offer to the passengers concerned assistance in accordance with Article 9.

3. When the delay reaches the ~~thresholds~~threshold set out in Article 7(2) calculated from the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket, the operating air carrier shall, without undue delay, offer the passengers concerned the choice between reimbursement and rerouting in accordance with Article 8. [Am. 89]
- 3a. Passengers shall have the right to compensation from the operating carrier in accordance with Article 7 where they depart no more than one hour before the scheduled time of departure and reach their final destination with a delay of 2 hours or more after the scheduled time of arrival, provided that the total time lost by the passenger before departure and following the delay at arrival is equal to or exceeds the threshold set out in Article 7(2). [Am. 90]
4. Passengers shall have the right to receive, ~~upon request~~, compensation from the operating air carrier of the delayed flight in accordance with Articles 7(1) and 7(3) when they reach their final destination with a delay at arrival exceeding the ~~thresholds~~threshold set out in Article 7(2). To that end, the operating air carrier shall, systematically within 48 hours following the delay, provide the passenger with a pre-filled form in accordance with Article 16aa of Regulation [2023/0437(COD)] on enforcement of passenger rights in the Union. [Am. 91]

Passengers shall have the right to receive, ~~upon request,~~ compensation from the operating air carrier of the delayed flight in accordance with Articles 7(1) and 7(3) when they choose a reimbursement in accordance with Article 8(1), point (a), or rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (c), or, when they reach their final destination with a delay at arrival exceeding the ~~thresholds~~ threshold set out in Article 7(2) after they choose rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (b).

5. This Article shall also apply if the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket was postponed by the operating air carrier.

The right to receive assistance under paragraph 2 and compensation under paragraph 4 shall not apply if the passenger has been informed of such a change at least 14 calendar days before the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket. The burden of proof concerning the questions as to whether and when the passenger has been informed of the change in time shall rest with the operating air carrier.

6. An operating air carrier shall not be obliged to pay compensation in accordance with Article 7, if it can prove that the delay at arrival was caused by extraordinary circumstances and the delay could not have been avoided even if the air carrier had taken all reasonable measures. Such extraordinary circumstances can only be invoked in so far as they affect the flight concerned or at least ~~one of the three~~the preceding ~~flights in the rotation sequence planned to be~~flight operated by the same aircraft and provided that there is a direct causal link between the occurrence of that circumstance and the delay at departure of the subsequent flight. The burden of proof regarding the existence of that direct causal link shall rest with the operating air carrier. Where no proof of the existence of extraordinary circumstances is provided by the air carrier in a written form, the compensation referred to in Article 7 shall be paid by the air carrier. The above does not exempt air carriers from the requirement to provide passengers with assistance in accordance with Article 9.; [Am. 93]

(7) the following articles are inserted:

‘Article 6a

Tarmac delay

1. In the event of tarmac delay, the operating air carrier shall, to the extent possible, provide passengers with regular and real-time updates.
2. Subject to safety or security constraints, where a tarmac delay occurs, the operating air carrier shall ensure adequate heating or cooling of the passenger cabin, free of charge access to toilet facilities on board and shall ensure that passengers referred to in Article 11 receive the required attention. Unless it would extend the tarmac delay or unless it cannot be reconciled with air safety or air security requirements, the operating air carrier shall provide free of charge drinking water on board.

3. Where a tarmac delay reaches ~~three~~two hours in an airport with commercial passenger traffic situated in a territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply, the aircraft shall proceed to the gate or another suitable disembarkation point where passengers shall be allowed to disembark. Beyond that deadline, a tarmac delay can only be prolonged if there are safety, immigration, air traffic control or security-related reasons why the aircraft cannot leave its position on the tarmac.
[Am. 94]
4. Passengers disembarked in accordance with paragraph 3 shall be entitled to the rights provided for under Article 6 and, where applicable, Article 11, taking into account the tarmac delay and the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket.

Article 6b

Missed connecting flight during journeys performed under a single air transport contract

1. Where a passenger misses a connecting flight during a journey as a result of a disruption on the preceding flight, the operating air carrier of the preceding flight shall be responsible for providing to the passenger rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (b), and assistance in accordance with Article 9.
2. Where the operating air carrier cannot reroute the passenger within the time period set out in Article 7(2), points (a) and (b), calculated from the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket of the missed connecting flight, the operating air carrier shall, without undue delay, offer the passengers concerned, in a clear manner, the choice between reimbursement and rerouting in accordance with Article 8.

3. Passengers shall also have a right to receive, ~~upon request,~~ compensation from the air carrier operating the disrupted flight in accordance with Articles 7(1) and 7(3), if they reach their final destination with a delay at arrival exceeding the ~~thresholds~~threshold set out in Article 7(2). [Am. 95]

Passengers shall have the right to receive, ~~upon request,~~ compensation from the air carrier operating the disrupted flight in accordance with Articles 7(1) and 7(3) when they choose a reimbursement in accordance with Article 8(1), point (a), or rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (c), or, when they reach their final destination with a delay at arrival exceeding the ~~thresholds~~threshold set out in Article 7(2) after they choose rerouting in accordance with Article 8(1), point (b). [Am. 96]

Where paragraphs 2 and 3 of this Article apply, the operating air carrier shall, systematically within 48 hours following the missed connecting flight, provide the passenger with a pre-filled form in accordance with Article 16aa of Regulation [2023/0437(COD)] on enforcement of passenger rights in the Union. [Am. 97]

4. ~~Where a passenger plans, and makes, a stopover, the airport where the stopover is made shall be regarded as the final destination of the passenger.; [Am. 98]~~

Article 6c

Extraordinary circumstances

1. Extraordinary circumstances shall be considered to be events which, by their nature or origin, are not inherent in the normal exercise of the activity of the air carrier concerned and are outside that air carrier's actual control. For the purposes of this Regulation, extraordinary circumstances are limited to the circumstances set out in the Annex.

2. When a passenger has a right to compensation from the air carrier in accordance with Articles 4, 5 and 6, the air carrier shall send to the passenger in a written form, within 48 hours, the information about the presence or absence of extraordinary circumstances and provide access to a pre-filled common form in accordance with [16aa of Regulation [2023/..] on enforcement of passenger rights in the Union].
3. Where an unusual event outside the control of one or more Member States has occurred, which has a major impact on air travel with major unfavourable consequences for the aviation sector and which is not covered under Annex to this Regulation, the Commission is empowered to adopt a delegated act in accordance with Article 16h in order to amend the exhaustive list set out in that Annex by adding the relevant extraordinary circumstance, provided that this is strictly necessary to respond to such an unusual event.'; [Am. 99]

(8) Article 7 is replaced by the following:

‘Article 7

Right to compensation

1. In the case of a disruption, the following compensation amounts shall apply under the conditions defined in Articles 4, 5, 6 or 6a and in this Article:

(a) ~~300~~-EUR 300 for all ~~intra-Union journeys and for~~ journeys of ~~3 500~~ 500 kilometres or less; [Am. 100]

(b) ~~500~~-EUR 400 for all ~~for~~ journeys above 1 500 km and up to 3 500 kilometres.km; [Am. 101]

(ba) EUR 600 for all journeys above 3 500 km; [Am. 102]

~~By way of derogation from point (a), for journeys between outermost regions and another territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply, the compensation amounts shall be determined on the basis of the actual distance of the journeys.~~

[Am. 103]

- 1a. *Every three years, the Commission shall adopt a delegated act automatically adjusting the amounts of compensation referred to in this paragraph to the combined overall inflation rate of the three preceding years based on the European Index of Consumer prices published by Eurostat pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2016/792*. [Am. 104]*
2. In the case of a delay at arrival after rerouting following a cancellation under Article 5, a delay at arrival under Article 6 or a delay at arrival after a missed connecting flight under Article 6b, the right to compensation shall arise for delays at arrival ~~of more than~~, or following a loss of time under Article 6, paragraph 3a, of three hours or more, regardless of the distance of the journey. [Am. 105]

- (a) ~~four hours for all intra-Union journeys and for journeys of 3 500 kilometres or less;~~ [Am. 106]
  - (b) ~~six hours for journeys above 3 500 kilometres.~~ [Am. 107]
3. In determining the distances for the purpose of this Regulation, the basis for the calculation shall be the distance between the initial point of departure and the final destination. In the case of a connecting flight, only the initial point of departure and the airport of the final destination shall be taken into consideration. Those distances shall be measured by the great circle route method.
4. Where the passengers have chosen to continue ~~the~~their journey pursuant to Article 8(1), ~~point (b)~~points (a), (b) or (c), and a further disruption occurs during rerouting, the passenger's right to compensation ~~can only arise once~~shall be upheld during the ~~journey to the~~rerouting to their initial point of departure or to their final destination. [Am. 108]

- 4a. The compensation referred to in paragraph 1 shall be paid by electronic bank transfer to the account indicated by the passenger submitting the request. The operating air carrier and the passenger submitting the request may agree, on a durable medium, that the compensation be paid only by credit card or cash.

Right to reimbursement or rerouting

1. In the case of a disruption, ~~passengers~~the operating air carrier shall ~~be offered, free of charge, the choice between the following options,~~ without any further consideration and under the conditions ~~defined~~set out in Articles 4, 5, 6, or 6b and in this Article, offer the passengers a choice between the following options, to be provided free of charge: [Am. 113]

- (a) automatic reimbursement following the completion via the pre-filled common form within ~~14 calendar~~ seven working days from the ~~date of~~ departure ~~passenger's request~~ of the disrupted flight indicated on the passenger's ticket, ~~in cash~~ only by electronic bank transfer, credit card refund or, if agreed bank order to the account indicated by the authorised passenger ~~in a signed document or any other digital means on a durable medium, by other means,~~ of the full cost of the tickets, for the part or parts of the journey or journeys not made, and for the part or parts of the journey or journeys already made if the flight is no longer serving any purpose in relation to the passenger's original travel plans, together with, where relevant, a return flight to the initial point of departure, at the earliest opportunity after the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket or, in agreement with the passenger, before that time; [Am. 114]

- (b) continuation of the passenger's journey under comparable transport conditions, by rerouting the passenger to his or her final destination at the earliest opportunity after the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket or, in agreement with the passenger, before that time; or [Am. 115]
- (c) rerouting, under comparable transport conditions, to their final destination at a later date at the passenger's convenience, subject to availability of seats.
[Am. 116]

The operating air carrier shall provide the information to the passengers pursuant to this Article in a clear and unambiguous manner by electronic means, and at the passenger's request by other means, such as in a paper form. [Am. 117]

~~Where the airport managing body activates its contingency plan in accordance with Article 10a, the deadline referred to in point (a) of this paragraph may be extended to 30 calendar days. [Am. 118]~~

2. In order for the passenger to reach his or her destination as determined under paragraph 1 at the earliest opportunity and with a total travel time as close as reasonably possible to the scheduled total travel time of the original flight, the operating air carrier shall, subject to availability and provided that these are under comparable transport conditions as set out in the air transport contract, offer at least one of the following alternative options for the passenger's consideration and agreement in a signed document or any other digital means on a durable medium:
[Am. 119]

- (a) a flight or connecting flights, following the same route as set out in the air transport contract;
  - (b) a different routing, ~~including to or from alternative~~ between the same airports ~~to the airport of departure and of arrival as~~ stated in the air transport contract, ~~in which case, the operating air carrier shall bear the cost of transferring the passenger from the airport stated in the air transport contract to the alternative airport or to the airport stated in the air transport contract from the alternative airport;~~ [Am. 120]
- (ba) rerouting to or from alternative airports to the airports stated in the air transport contract, in which case, the operating air carrier shall bear the cost of transferring the passenger between the airport stated in the air transport contract and the alternative airport; [Am. 121]

- (c) the use of services operated by another air carrier; or
- (d) where appropriate for the distance to be travelled, the use of another mode of transport.

In the event of rerouting via another mode of transport or with another air carrier, the operating air carrier shall remain responsible for information, assistance and rerouting only until the departure of that rerouting service. The operating air carrier shall remain responsible for compensation for delay at arrival at the final destination in accordance with Article 7. The carrier operating the rerouting service shall be responsible for all other rights connected to that service in accordance with the applicable Union law on passenger rights for that mode of transport. [Am. 122]

3. Where a passenger informed the operating air carrier of his or her choice to continue his or her journey in accordance with paragraph 1, point (b), and paragraph 4, and if the operating air carrier has not offered within three hours a rerouting under comparable transport conditions, the passenger may arrange his or her own rerouting in accordance with paragraph 2. If the passenger chooses to arrange his or her own rerouting, the passenger shall inform the operating air carrier accordingly. The passenger shall have the right to refuse re-routing options if those re-routing options are not under comparable transport conditions, and, in such case, shall maintain his or her rights to assistance in accordance with Article 9 while waiting for the re-routing. [Am. 123]

In the case of a cancellation, the first subparagraph shall apply from the time of departure indicated on the passenger's ticket.

When arranging their own rerouting, the passengers shall limit the expenses to those that are necessary, reasonable and appropriate. The operating air carrier shall reimburse the expenses not exceeding 400 % of the full cost of the ticket or tickets incurred by the passenger within ~~14 calendar~~ seven working days of the submission of the request. ~~Where the airport managing body activates its contingency plan, that deadline may be extended to 30 calendar days.~~ [Am. 124]

4. A passenger may choose between reimbursement in accordance with paragraph 1, point (a), or rerouting at a later date in accordance with paragraph 1, point (c), until when the passenger has accepted a rerouting at the earliest opportunity offered by the operating air carrier in accordance with paragraph 1, point (b), or until when the passenger has decided to self-reroute in accordance with paragraph 3.

The passenger shall inform the operating air carrier of his or her choice.

- 4a. The operating air carrier shall provide the information to the passengers pursuant to this Article in a clear and unambiguous manner by electronic means, and at the passenger's request by other means, such as in a paper form. The burden of proof concerning the passenger's choice shall rest with the operating air carrier. To that end, the operating air carrier shall also ensure that the choice made by the passenger pursuant to this Article is confirmed by means of a signed document or any digital means on a durable medium.; [Am. 125]

Right to assistance

1. ~~In the case of a disruption and subject to the conditions referred to in Articles 4, 5, 6, 6a and 6b and in~~Where reference is made to this article, ~~and when the waiting time for their flight or alternative transportation is prolonged by at least two hours,~~ passengers shall be offered, free of charge, the following: [Am. 126]

- (a) refreshments every two hours of waiting time;
- (b) a meal after three hours and then every five hours of waiting time with a maximum of three meals per day;
- (c) ~~text messages,~~ internet access and two telephone calls. [Am. 127]

The operating air carrier may limit or decline the assistance provided under the first subparagraph if its provision would further delay the departure of the delayed flight or the rerouting, including the departure of the alternative transportation.

2. In addition, where a stay of one or more nights becomes necessary while waiting for the flight or alternative transportation, passengers shall be offered, free of charge, the following:
  - (a) hotel accommodation;
  - (b) transport from the airport to the hotel accommodation and return.

3. The operating air carrier may use vouchers to meet its obligations under paragraph 1, points (a) and (b), and paragraph 2. The vouchers provided in accordance with paragraph 1 shall be able to be used in all shops providing food and refreshments at the airport where the passengers concerned are stranded, on board their flight, and, as appropriate, at the accommodation provided pursuant to paragraph 2, point (a). A voucher provided in accordance with paragraph 2, point (a), can only be issued if the operating air carrier has pre-booked a room for the passenger concerned.
- [Am. 128]

4. Where the operating air carrier does not meet its obligations under paragraphs 1, 2 and 3, the passengers concerned may make their own arrangements. The air carrier operating the disrupted flight shall reimburse the expenses incurred by the passengers within 14 calendar days of the submission of the request for reimbursement, to the extent those expenses are necessary, reasonable and proportionate to the duration of the waiting time and to the costs of accommodation, refreshments and meals at the location of the airport or the location of the accommodation where the passengers are stranded. In case the air carrier fails to provide hotel accommodation within three hours, the passenger shall have the right to arrange their own accommodation and be reimbursed by the air carrier upon the presentation of the corresponding receipt, within seven working days. Where the airport managing body activates its contingency plan, that deadline may be extended to ~~30~~[...] calendar days. The reimbursable amount shall be up to a hotel ceiling referred to in an index published by the Commission reflecting prices in Member States in line with Eurostat data multiplied by a coefficient of 2, in order to account for limited availability and peak-time pricing and to incentivise the provision of accommodation via the operating air carriers within the three-hour deadline. Where the ceiling multiplied by the coefficient is not sufficient to allow the concerned passenger to find appropriate accommodation, the right to self-arrangement of accommodation by the passenger shall not free the operating air carrier from its obligation to provide accommodation. [Am. 129]

5. At all Union airports with commercial passenger traffic, the airport managing body shall put in place arrangements to ensure that drinking water and recharging stations for electronic devices can be made available, free of charge, regardless of the time of day, flight or terminal. [Am. 130]
6. If the disruption is caused by extraordinary circumstances and the disruption could not have been avoided even if the air carrier had taken all reasonable measures, the air carrier may limit the accommodation provided in accordance with paragraph 2, point (a), to a maximum of three nights.
7. Where a passenger opts for reimbursement pursuant to Article 8(1), point (a), while being at the initial point of departure, or opts for rerouting at a later date pursuant to Article 8(1), point (c), the passenger shall have no further rights with regard to assistance under paragraphs 1 and 2 in relation to the relevant flight.’;

Passengers with specific needs

-1. The rights of persons with disabilities and persons with reduced mobility laid down under this Article shall be without prejudice to the rights they enjoy under Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006. [Am. 139]

1. All information provided to passengers under this Regulation shall be provided in an accessible format.
2. This Article shall apply to persons with disabilities, persons with reduced mobility, infants, unaccompanied children and pregnant women, provided that the operating air carrier has been notified of their particular needs for assistance at the time when the disruption is announced, at the latest. It shall also apply to persons in need of specific medical assistance provided that the operating air carrier has been notified of their needs for specific medical assistance at check-in, at the latest. Operating air carriers may require a proof of such needs.

Such notification shall be deemed to cover all journeys under an air transport contract.

3. ~~At the latest at check-in, and subject to seat availability,~~ Any person accompanying the persons referred to in paragraph 2 or accompanying a child, under the same air transport contract, shall be offered by the air carrier, free of charge, the possibility of being seated in a seat adjacent to that person or child. Where adjacent seats are unavailable, the air carrier shall endeavour to assist the accompanying person(s) to find adjacent seats. [Am. 140]
4. At boarding, operating air carriers shall give priority to persons referred to in paragraph 2 and any person or recognised assistance dogs accompanying them, as well as to children in a pram or a pushchair with their accompanying person. [Am. 141]

- 4a. Operating air carriers shall ensure, at no additional cost, that infants and children in need of a pram or a pushchair can be transported in a pram or a pushchair up to the boarding gate or aircraft door, and that a pram or a pushchair is made available to them at the aircraft door, unless there are safety, security, capacity or operational constraints. [Am. 142]
- 4b. Where the airport does not fulfil its obligations under Articles 7 and 8 of Regulation (EU) No 1107/2006 and, as a result, persons with disabilities and persons with reduced mobility or unaccompanied minors miss their flight, the air carrier shall be responsible for compensation, rerouting and assistance of those passengers in accordance with Articles 7, 8 and 9 of this Regulation. By ... [date of application of this amending Regulation], the Commission shall define the detailed arrangements for the application of the respective responsibilities of the air carrier and the airport managing body and the means of redress, through an implementing act in accordance with Article 16bd of this Regulation. This implementing act shall not undermine the air carrier's responsibilities in relation to the compensation, rerouting and assistance of passengers under this paragraph. [Am. 143]

5. In applying the rerouting and assistance in accordance with Articles 8 and 9, the operating air carrier shall pay particular attention to the needs of the persons referred to in paragraph 2. Air carriers shall provide this rerouting and assistance to those persons, including to any persons or recognised assistance dogs accompanying them, as soon as possible.

Air carriers shall not charge the passenger any supplement or additional fees on top of the price of the flight ticket for this personal item. It is mandatory that carriers provide clear, transparent, and easily accessible information on the weight and dimension requirements for the personal item at the time of booking and after the booking is completed, ensuring passengers are fully informed before their journey.*

2. Passengers shall always have the right to carry on board one piece of hand baggage. The hand baggage shall not be subject to price supplement on the price of the flight ticket within the maximum dimensions of 100 cm (sum of length, width, and height) and maximum weight of 7 kilos. Air carriers may apply different provisions regarding additional or larger hand baggage.

The hand baggage may be stored either in the aircraft cabin (as carry-on baggage) or in the aircraft hold. The carrier may refuse to allow the hand baggage on board only on grounds of security connected with the weight or size of the hand baggage in relation to the characteristics of the aircraft.

Air carriers shall provide clear, transparent, and easily accessible information on the weight and dimension requirements for the hand baggage at the time of booking and after the booking is completed, ensuring passengers are fully informed before their journey.

3. *For the event that a personal item or hand baggage is left behind in the aircraft cabin, the operating and contracting air carriers shall establish in advance which party is responsible for handling any subsequent requests. The designated responsible air carrier shall automatically inform the passengers, upon the completion of booking, regarding the procedure for retrieving forgotten personal items or hand baggage. The supplementary sum which, in accordance with Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention, and without prejudice to Article 6a, may be demanded by a Union air carrier when a passenger makes a special declaration of interest in delivery of their baggage at destination, shall be based on a tariff which reflects the additional costs of transport and insurance for baggage valued above the liability limit. The tariff shall be made available to passengers on request.’;

(5) Article 5 is replaced by the following:

‘Article 5

1. In the case of death or injury of passengers, the Union air carrier shall without delay, and in any event not later than fifteen days after the identity of the natural person entitled to compensation has been established, make such advance payments as may be required to meet immediate economic needs on a basis proportional to the hardship suffered.
2. Without prejudice to paragraph 1, an advance payment in the case of death of passengers, shall not be less than 16 % per passenger, of the minimum amount of liability set under Article 21(1) of the Montreal Convention and by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention.

3. An advance payment shall not constitute recognition of liability and may be offset against any subsequent sums paid on the basis of Union air carrier liability, but is not returnable, except in the cases prescribed in Article 20 of the Montreal Convention or where the person who received the advance payment was not the person entitled to compensation.

3a. If baggage is lost, delayed or damaged, air carriers shall first compensate the passengers with whom they have concluded a contract before being able to bring any claim against the airports or service providers for the damage, for which they are not necessarily responsible.; [Am. 196]

(6) Article 6 is amended as follows:

(a) paragraph 1 is replaced by the following:

- ‘1. ‘Article 6a

1. Whenever carrying checked-in mobility equipment or recognised assistance dogs, the Union air carrier shall make passengers aware of their rights and ensure that each person with disabilities or person with reduced mobility is offered the option to make a special declaration of interest in delivery at destination, in an accessible format, pursuant to Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention, at booking, at the same time as the notification pursuant to Article 6 of Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006, and at the latest when the equipment is handed over to the air carrier and, in the case of a recognised assistance dog, at boarding. In that case, the Union air carrier shall not charge the passengers concerned an additional fee. The Commission shall adopt implementing acts laying down the model form to be used for such a declaration of interest. Those implementing acts shall be adopted in accordance with the advisory procedure referred to in Article [6f(2)]. Where the equipment is destroyed, lost, damaged or delayed, or in the case of the death of, or injury to, a recognised assistance dog, the Union air carrier may require proof of the cost of replacement, including temporary replacement, of the mobility equipment or the recognised assistance dog from the person with disabilities or person with reduced mobility to support the amount declared in the special declaration of interest.

[Am. 199]

When selling carriage by air on behalf of the Union air carrier, intermediaries shall make passengers aware of their rights and offer the passengers concerned the option to make a special declaration of interest, in an accessible format, pursuant to Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention, at booking and at the same time as the notification pursuant to Article 6 of Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006. This special declaration of interest shall be given under the same conditions as set out in the first subparagraph. The intermediary shall transmit the declaration to the Union air carrier as soon as possible. [Am. 200]

2. In the case of destruction, loss, damage or delay in the carriage of checked mobility equipment or in case of death of or injury to a recognised assistance dog, the Union air carrier shall be liable to pay a sum not exceeding the sum declared by the passenger; unless it proves that the sum claimed is greater than the person's actual interest in delivery at destination.

3. Where paragraph 2 applies, and without prejudice to Articles 7, 8 and Annex I, fourth subparagraph, of Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006, the Union air carriers shall rapidly make all reasonable efforts to provide immediately needed temporary replacements for checked mobility equipment and temporary solutions in replacement of recognised assistance dogs. The person with disabilities or the person with reduced mobility shall be permitted to keep that temporary replacement free of charge until the compensation referred to in paragraph 2 has been paid or until the Union air carriers have compensated the legal or natural persons for the costs of needed temporary replacement of mobility equipment or of a recognised assistance dog.

4. Compliance with paragraph 3 shall not constitute a recognition of liability of the Union air carrier.

Article 6aa

1. The national enforcement body designated under Article 16 of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 shall ensure compliance with this Regulation. For this purpose, it shall monitor:

- a) the terms and conditions of air transport contracts;
- b) the systematic offer of a special declaration of interest for checked mobility equipment, and of an appropriate level of compensation in case of damage caused to mobility equipment;
- c) the payment of an advance payment under Article 5(1) when applicable;
- d) the application of Article 6.

2. For the purpose of monitoring the protection of passengers with reduced mobility and disabled passengers in case of damage to their mobility equipment or assistive devices, the national enforcement body shall also examine and take account of the information on complaints concerning mobility equipment submitted to the bodies designated under Article 16a of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004.
  3. The sanctions laid down by Member States for infringements of this Regulation shall be effective, proportionate and dissuasive.
  4. In their annual reports pursuant to Article 16(6) of Regulation (EC) No 261/2004, the National Enforcement Bodies shall also publish statistics on their activity and on the sanctions applied with regard to the application of this Regulation.

Article 6b

1. Without prejudice to Regulation (EC) No 1008/2008, when selling carriage by air to, from or within the Union, all air carriers and intermediaries shall clearly indicate in an accessible format at booking, as well as on their mobile applications and on their website, and furthermore, in the case of air carriers, make available on request at the airport (including at self-service check-in machines):

- the maximum baggage allowance in terms of dimension and weight that passengers are permitted to carry within the cabin, and in the hold of the aircraft, corresponding to the fare for the class of transport for each of the flights included within a passenger's reservation;
- any restrictions on the number of items that would be applied within a given maximum baggage allowance;
- the conditions under which fragile or valuable items, such as musical instruments, sports equipment, children's pushchairs and infant seats shall be transported in the passenger cabin or in the cargo hold of the aircraft;
- without prejudice to paragraph 2, potential additional charges applied for the carriage of checked and unchecked baggage, including musical instruments referred to in Article 6c,

- the specific reasons which may preclude the carriage in the cabin of unchecked baggage pursuant to paragraph 3.

Core travel services and additional charges must be clearly identifiable and capable of being purchased separately from each other. [Am. 202]

If hand baggage is moved from the cabin of the aircraft to its hold before boarding or take-off, it must be returned to passengers as they disembark the aircraft, as hand baggage. [Am. 203]

2. Without prejudice to Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006, air carriers shall permit passengers to carry a personal item and hand baggage within the maximum dimensions of 100 cm (sum of length, width, and height) in the cabin and at no extra cost in accordance with (EC) No 261/2004. Carry-on baggage allowances may be expressed in maximum dimensions or maximum weights of the total carry-on allowance per passenger, or both, but without any restriction on the specific number of items carried. [Am. 204]

3. Where specific reasons, such as safety reasons, capacity reasons or a change of the aircraft type since the reservation was made, preclude the carriage in the cabin of a personal item referred to in paragraph 2 or of hand baggage, the air carrier may carry that unchecked baggage in the hold of the aircraft, but at no further cost to the passenger.
4. Paragraphs 2 and 3 shall apply to all air carriers departing from an airport located in the territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply and to all ~~Union~~ air carriers arriving in the territory of a Member State to which the Treaties apply.
[Am. 205]
5. This Article does not affect the restrictions on unchecked baggage established by Union rules such as those laid down in Regulation (EC) No 300/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council* and Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2015/1998** and by international security and safety rules.

Article 6c

1. A Union air carrier shall permit a passenger to carry a musical instrument in the passenger cabin of an aircraft subject to applicable security and safety rules and the technical specifications and constraints of the aircraft concerned. Musical instruments shall be accepted for carriage within an aircraft cabin provided that those instruments can be stowed safely in a suitable baggage compartment within the cabin or under an appropriate passenger seat. ~~An air carrier may determine that~~ When accepted for carriage within the aircraft cabin, a musical instrument shall form part of a passenger's ~~checked~~ hand baggage allowance ~~and shall not~~. The air carrier may determine that additional charges are to apply for hand baggage to be carried in addition to that allowance. [Am. 206]

2. ~~Subject to applicable security and safety rules,~~ Where a musical instrument is too large to be stowed safely in a suitable baggage compartment within the cabin or under an appropriate passenger seat, an air carrier may request the payment of a second fare where such musical instruments are carried as ~~unchecked~~hand baggage on a second seat. ~~Furthermore, passengers may be required to select and purchase adjacent seats for both~~Such additional fare shall not be subject to the payment of the relevant airport departure tax. Where a second seat is purchased an air carrier shall make reasonable efforts to seat the passenger and the musical instrument, ~~one always being a window seat for the musical instrument. Where available and if requested, musical instruments shall be carried in a heated part of an aircraft cargo hold subject to applicable safety rules, space constraints and the technical specifications of the aircraft concerned~~ together. [Am. 207]

- 2a. Where space is available and if requested, musical instruments shall be carried in a heated part of an aircraft cargo hold, subject to applicable safety rules, space constraints and the technical specifications of the aircraft concerned. Air carriers shall provide special tags for clear display on musical instruments to ensure that they are handled with the necessary care. Only instruments that are properly packaged in a rigid and/or hard-shell container specifically designed for such items shall be allowed to be carried as aircraft cargo. [Am. 208]*
- 2b. An air carrier shall clearly indicate at booking and in its terms and conditions the basis on which musical instruments will be transported, including the applicable charges, the facilities for the carriage of musical instruments that are available on the aircraft concerned and the dimensions of these facilities. Where a second seat needs to be booked, passengers shall be offered the possibility of booking that second seat online. [Am. 209]*

ANNEX II

‘Annex

Information notice as referred to in Article 6

INFORMATION NOTICE ON AIR CARRIER LIABILITY FOR PASSENGERS AND THEIR BAGGAGE

This information notice summarises the liability rules applied by Union air carriers as required by European Union legislation and the Montreal Convention.

COMPENSATION IN THE CASE OF DEATH OR INJURY

There are no financial limits to the liability for passenger injury or death caused by an accident on board the aircraft or during any of the operations of embarkation and disembarkation.

Without prejudice to Article 20 of the Montreal Convention on the exoneration of the air carrier, for damages up to the limit under Article 21 of the Montreal Convention as updated by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention [the air carrier shall indicate between brackets the approximate amount in local currency], the air carrier cannot exclude or limit its liability. Above that amount, the air carrier is not liable if it proves that:

- the damage was not due to the negligence or other wrongful act or omission of the air carrier or its servants or agents, or
- that the damage was solely due to the negligence or other wrongful act or omission of a third party.

ADVANCE PAYMENTS

If a passenger is killed or injured, the air carrier must make an advance payment, to cover immediate economic needs, within 15 days from the identification of the person entitled to compensation. In the event of death, this advance payment shall not be less than 16 % of the limit under Article 21 of the Montreal Convention as updated by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention [the air carrier shall indicate between brackets the approximate amount in local currency].

DELAYS CAUSED TO PASSENGERS

In the event of a passenger being delayed, the air carrier is liable for damage unless it took all reasonable measures to avoid the damage or unless it was impossible to take such measures. The liability for passenger being delayed is limited to the limit under Article 22(1) of the Montreal Convention as updated by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention [the air carrier shall indicate between brackets approximate amount in local currency].

BAGGAGE DELAYS

In case of baggage delay, the air carrier is liable for damage up to the limit under Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention as updated by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention [the air carrier shall indicate between brackets the approximate amount in local currency], the compensation limit being applicable per passenger and not per piece of checked baggage. The air carrier shall not be liable when it has taken all reasonable measures to avoid the damage resulting from such delay or when it was impossible to take such measures.

DESTRUCTION, LOSS OR DAMAGE TO BAGGAGE

The air carrier is liable for damage up to the limit under Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention as updated by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention [the air carrier shall indicate between brackets the approximate amount in local currency], the compensation limit being applicable per passenger and not per piece of baggage.

In the case of damaged or lost checked baggage, the air carrier is liable unless the damage is caused by an inherent defect, quality or vice of the baggage.

In case of unchecked baggage (hand luggage baggage), including personal items, the air carrier is only liable if the damage has resulted from its fault or that of its servants or agents. [Am. 241]

HIGHER LIMITS FOR BAGGAGE

A passenger can benefit from a higher liability limit by making a special declaration at check-in, at the latest, and by paying a supplementary fee if so required. That supplementary fee shall be based on a tariff which is related to the additional costs involved in transporting and insuring the baggage concerned over and above the liability limit of the limit under Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention as updated by the International Civil Aviation Organization pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention {(the air carrier shall indicate between brackets the approximate amount in local currency)}. The tariff shall be made available to passengers upon request. [Am. 242]

Persons with disabilities and persons with reduced mobility shall systematically be offered at booking, at the same time as the notification pursuant to Article 6 of Regulation (EC) No 1107/2006, and at the latest when the equipment is handed over to the air carrier and, in the case of a recognised assistance dog, at boarding, the option of making a special declaration of interest, in an accessible format, for the transportation, at no additional cost, of their mobility equipment or of their recognised assistance dog.

EXONERATION

If the carrier proves that any damage covered by the liability rules applied by Union air carriers as required by Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 and the Montreal Convention, including death or injury, was caused or contributed to by the negligence or other wrongful act or omission of the person claiming compensation, or the person from whom he or she derives his or her rights, the carrier shall be wholly or partly exonerated from its liability to the claimant to the extent that such negligence or wrongful act or omission caused or contributed to the damage.

TIME LIMIT FOR COMPLAINTS REGARDING BAGGAGE [Am. 243]

If the baggage is damaged, delayed, lost or destroyed, the passenger must in all cases complain to the air carrier as soon as possible. The passenger must complain within a time limit of 7 days in case of damage to checked baggage and within a time limit of 21 days in case of delayed baggage, in both cases from the date on which the baggage was placed at the passenger's disposal. To that extent, passengers may find a dedicated form on the websites and on the online applications of air carriers which can either be submitted on paper or online. Such complaint form must be accepted by the air carrier at the airport as a complaint. The date of submission of such a complaint shall be considered by the air carrier as the filing date of the complaint pursuant to Articles 31(2) and 31(3) of the Montreal Convention, even if the air carrier requests further information at a later date.

LIABILITY OF CONTRACTING AND ACTUAL CARRIERS

If the air carrier actually performing the flight is not the same as the contracting air carrier, the passenger has the right to address a complaint or to make a claim for damages against either carrier. This includes cases where a special declaration of interest at delivery has been agreed with one or the other of the two carriers.

TIME LIMIT FOR ACTION

Any action in court to claim damages must be brought within two years from the date of arrival of the aircraft, or from the date on which the aircraft ought to have arrived.

MOBILITY EQUIPMENT DESTRUCTION, LOSS, DAMAGE OR DELAY

The air carrier is liable for the destruction, loss, damage or delay of mobility equipment up to the limit under Article 22(2) of the Montreal Convention pursuant to Article 24(2) of the Montreal Convention [the air carrier shall indicate between brackets the approximate amount in local currency], the compensation limit being applicable per passenger and not per piece of baggage.

A passenger can benefit, at no additional cost, from a higher liability limit by making a special declaration specifying the cost of replacement of its mobility equipment, at the latest at check-in.

In case of the destruction, loss, damage or delay of mobility equipment, the air carrier shall pay compensation not exceeding to the sum declared in the special declaration.

Before the payment of this compensation, the air carrier shall make all reasonable efforts to provide immediately needed temporary replacements for mobility equipment beyond the termination of the journey of the passengers concerned.

BASIS FOR THE INFORMATION

The basis for the rules described above is the Montreal Convention of 28 May 1999, which is implemented in the Union by Regulation (EC) No 2027/97 (as amended by Regulation (EC) No 889/2002 and by Regulation (EU) .../...+) and in the Member States by their national legislation.
