1. INTRODUCTION

The 2021-2030 Strategy for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities ('the strategy') was adopted in March 2021. The strategy contributes to building a Union of Equality. It supports the implementation of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU, the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UNCRPD) and the European Pillar of Social Rights (EPSR).

The strategy focuses on eight key areas where further progress was identified as necessary, namely: (1) accessibility; (2) enjoying EU rights; (3) decent quality of life and living independently; (4) equal access and non-discrimination; (5) promoting the rights of persons with disabilities globally; (6) efficiently delivering the strategy; (7) leading by example; and (8) awareness, governance and measuring progress.

The strategy includes 64 main measures, including seven flagship initiatives to be implemented by the Commission, that reflect a 'whole-of-government' and whole-of-society approach involving a wide range of services and ensuring the mainstreaming of disability across policy areas. It also suggests measures that EU Member States should take in diverse areas.

To achieve the strategy's goals, coordinated action across EU, national, local, and regional levels is essential. The strategy urges EU institutions, Member States, and local authorities to integrate the needs of persons with disabilities in all policy and action design, implementation, and monitoring. All EU Member States have ratified the UNCRPD and are bound to implement its provisions domestically.

EU funds support actions under the strategy aimed at enhancing the life for persons with disabilities and EU-level organisations active in this field, while also ensuring that Member States establish frameworks for UNCRPD implementation.

The strategy has been well received by other EU institutions, bodies and stakeholders. It is consistent with many resolutions on the rights of people of disabilities that the European Parliament has adopted over the years, in particular the most recent one of 2025, calling for renewed efforts in this area. The Council endorsed the strategy as a comprehensive and ambitious framework in its Conclusions of May 2021, and the Council has further supported the objectives of the strategy through Council conclusions on employment (in 2022 and 2024) and on independent living (in 2025). Furthermore, 'La Hulpe Declaration', signed in 2024, called for the disability perspective to be mainstreamed in all EU policies and for the development of an ambitious second phase of the strategy.

The EU is a party to the UNCRPD and therefore reports to the UN Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities on the progress made in implementing the UNCRPD. The second review of the EU's implementation of the UNCRPD was held on 11-12 March 2025. Following the review, the UN Committee issued its concluding observations to the EU along with recommendations on how to advance the implementation of the UNCRPD. The recommendations of the UN Committee have been taken into account when updating the Strategy.

This report presents the progress made in the first five years (2021-2025) of the strategy's implementation, including the measures taken by the Member States. It is based on feedback from Member States and civil society organisations on progress made. Section 2 of this report presents an overview of the situation of persons with disabilities in the EU. Section 3 presents the most notable achievements at EU and national level, by areas of action listed in the Strategy. An annex presents an overview of disability-related legislation at EU level, showing how it has evolved since 2017. In conjunction with the present report, the scoreboard published by the Commission tracks progress for each action put forward in the strategy.

The EU and its Member States have put forward a range of ambitious measures, but further progress is still needed to ensure these efforts lead to tangible improvements in the lives of persons with disabilities. Changing the situation of persons with disabilities will require the stepping-up of national, regional and local measures, alongside enhanced support at EU level. EU action alone cannot fully address the persistent and, in some cases, evolving challenges in areas such as poverty, education, employment, independent living, political participation and accessibility.

2. SITUATION OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES IN THE EU

Around 90 million people aged 16 years or over in the EU have some form of disability. This represented 23.9% of the EU's population in 2024. Almost a quarter of this group has reported severe disabilities (6.7% of the EU population) ⁽¹⁾. The number of persons with disabilities in the EU is expected to grow because the population is ageing and because more people have chronic diseases ⁽²⁾.

Despite the efforts made at global, EU and national levels by the relevant authorities and civil society, the situation of persons with disabilities remains challenging. They continue to face a number of barriers in different spheres of life, such as employment, education, health, care, leisure and social activities.

Every person of working age, whether fully able or not, should be given an opportunity to work. However, in terms of employment, only 54.6% of persons with disabilities and of working age (20-64) were employed in 2023 (compared with 72.4% for persons without disabilities of working age). The disability employment gap

(1) Source: Eurostat online database (hlth_silc_07). Disability at EU level is measured by the Global Activity Limitation Indicator \(GALI\).

(2) The prevalence of disability rises with age: the share of people aged 16-24 years who reported a disability was 7.1% within the EU, while for those aged 85 years or over was 72.3%.

remains large, with no significant changes observed in recent years ⁽³⁾. This gap is driven by multiple factors, some of which are being addressed in the Strategy and its related employment package. Moreover, a number of persons with disabilities remain in sheltered employment, and do not always have access to quality jobs or opportunities to transition to the open labour market ⁽⁴⁾.

Having the right skills and qualifications is a prerequisite for accessing and succeeding in the labour market. However, persons with disabilities are still at a higher risk of becoming early school leavers (24.6% compared to 8.0% for persons without disabilities among those aged 18-24 years, according to data from 2024). They are also less likely to complete tertiary education (30.0% of persons with disabilities aged 25-34 years compared with 45.9% of persons without disabilities in 2024) ⁽⁵⁾

Difficulties in accessing inclusive education and participating fully in the labour market can also lead to further vulnerabilities. In 2024, 28.7% of persons with disabilities were at risk of poverty or social exclusion (compared with 17.9% of persons without disabilities) ⁽⁶⁾. This proportion has only slightly improved over the last decade (30.4% in 2015 and 29.7% in 2021).

Furthermore, despite an overall improvement in access to health and care services, persons with disabilities continue to report unmet healthcare needs. For example, in 2024, 5% of the population aged 16 or over with disabilities reported unmet medical needs due to financial constraints, long waiting times or long distance to travel (7.5% in 2015 and 4.6% in 2021). The corresponding figure for persons without disabilities was 1.6% (1.8% in 2015 and 1.1% in 2021) ⁽⁷⁾.

Persons with disabilities have the right to independent living and inclusion in the community. However, 1.4 million children and adults with disabilities currently live in institutions in the EU, despite most Member States having adopted deinstitutionalisation strategies ⁽⁸⁾. Persons with disabilities (particularly persons with intellectual disabilities) often face barriers to exercising their rights to choose and to make decisions over their lives, especially in systems of guardianship or other systems limiting their legal capacity.

Persons with disabilities are more likely to experience violence and abuse, both in their home environment and in institutions. This is particularly the case for women, older persons and children with disabilities. For instance, women with severe disabilities are more likely to experience physical or sexual violence than those without disabilities (46% compared with 28%) ⁽⁹⁾.

Many Member States have made it easier for persons with disabilities to fully participate in elections, yet several barriers remain when it comes to voting and standing as a candidate in elections ⁽¹⁰⁾. Election observers reported that participation by persons with disabilities improved in the 2024 elections for the European Parliament. This was thanks, in part, to the use of alternative voting methods (such as postal voting or mobile ballot boxes), better polling station accessibility and improved ballot readability ⁽¹¹⁾.

3. PROGRESS IN THE AREAS FOR ACTION

The strategy's eight thematic areas for action envisage specific objectives to be achieved by the Commission (in cooperation with other EU institutions), which are to be supplemented by measures at national or regional level. The following points provide information on some of the most significant achievements to date.

3.1. Accessibility

The strategy attaches the greatest importance to accessibility – as an enabler of the rights of persons with disabilities and a prerequisite for their full participation in society and in the economy on an equal basis with others. It is crucial to remove and prevent barriers to build and virtual environments, information and communication technologies, and goods and services (including transport and infrastructures).

Over the last decade, the EU has adopted several rules to ensure the accessibility of key products and services ⁽¹²⁾. Since 2020, the Commission has adopted numerous legal acts with accessibility requirements (e.g. the AI Regulation, the Digital Wallet Directive and the Equality Bodies Directive) and has worked on ensuring that the relevant legislative acts are being correctly implemented, transposed and (where necessary) revised.

To support the implementation of accessibility legislation, the strategy provided for the launch of AccessibleEU, an EU accessibility support centre.

Flagship initiative:

In 2022, the Commission launched AccessibleEU, an EU-wide resource centre for accessibility. The centre brings together national authorities that implement and enforce accessibility rules, as well as experts and representatives of industry and civil society, to share good practices on accessibility, to provide training and to support the development of tools and standards to facilitate the implementation of EU law in this area.

Key facts and figures:

- over 5 104 members gathered in a dynamic LinkedIn group (AccessibleEU Centre); 269 events organised so far at either the EU or the national level, on topics such as accessibility of the built environment, transport, ICT.
- a digital library of over 452 good practices and 395 references on accessibility; six guides and one study published so far to support the implementation of accessibility in spaces, products and services ⁽¹³⁾.
- a broad accessibility monitoring framework established through AccessibleEU to support harmonised data collection across the EU ⁽¹⁴⁾.

European accessibility legislation

- Member States were required to transpose the European Accessibility Act (EEA) ⁽¹⁵⁾ into their national legislation by June 2022. Since June 2025, they have been required to apply these national laws and economic operators to ensure the placing on the market of accessible products and services.
- The Commission supported the EEA's transposition with regular transposition meetings ⁽¹⁹⁾, as well as bilateral meetings with Member States, where it facilitated compliance with the related requirements and highlighted opportunities provided by exchanges of practices. The Commission also opened several infringement procedures to monitor and to support compliance of national legislation with the EAA ⁽¹⁶⁾.

⁽¹⁵⁾ The European Accessibility Act sets EU-wide accessibility requirements for certain key digitally relevant products and services, identified as being the most important for persons with disabilities, and the most likely to have diverging accessibility requirements across EU Member States. e.g. computers; ATMs; ticketing and check-in machines; smartphones; services related to air, bus, rail and waterborne passenger transport; banking services and e-commerce. Directive (EU) 2019/882 on the accessibility requirements for products and services

- The Commission has further supported the EAA's implementation by issuing standardisation request M587 to the European Standardisation Organisations \(ESOs\). This request asks for the revision of three existing standards (in the areas of ICT, built environment and design for all); and the development of new standards for emergency communications, non-digital information and support services.

Accessibility and public administrations

- In May 2021, the Commission released a new 'buying social' guide to take account of social considerations in public procurement, including social inclusion of persons with disabilities.
- In December 2022, the Commission published its evaluation of the Web Accessibility Directive, identifying some gaps such as a shortage of digital accessibility expertise in many Member States.

Accessibility of transport

- Since January 2022, the European Union Agency for Railways (ERA), together with different stakeholders in the railway sector at EU level, has been collecting and exchanging information on the accessibility of train stations. The European Railway Station Accessibility Database will be open to the public to provide accessibility information about railway stations in Europe ⁽¹⁷⁾.
- In March 2023, the Commission adopted the Commission Recommendation on National Support Programmes for Sustainable Urban Mobility Planning. This includes specific goals and objectives to support the development of an urban transport system that takes accessibility aspects into account.
- Following the review of the passenger rights regulatory framework, the Commission adopted in November 2023 two legislative proposals to address remaining gaps in the current passenger rights framework ⁽¹⁸⁾, under negotiations. This includes strengthening the rights of persons with disabilities and persons with reduced mobility in transport by air, water, bus and coach.

⁽¹⁷⁾ The ERA integrated the technical requirements for the provision of data feeding this database into its January 2022 recommendation on Regulation (EU) 454/2011 (TAP TSI). The revision of TAP TSI is ongoing.

⁽¹⁸⁾ Enforcement Omnibus (COM(2023)753) and COM(2023)752.

- In June 2024, the co-legislators adopted the revised Regulation on Union guidelines for the development of the trans-European transport network. The regulation includes measures to improve accessibility for all users, including persons with disabilities and reduced mobility.
- The Driving Licence Directive adopted in 2025 contains provisions to make driving licences for certain types of vehicles more accessible for persons with disabilities.

Accessibility and the green transition

- The Commission is aligning the information on the website on EU energy labels with the accessibility requirements of the European Accessibility Act, ensuring that product information, such as labels on appliances, is perceivable, operable and understandable for persons with disabilities in line with EU accessibility standards.
- The Renovation Wave Communication emphasises that pairing energy efficiency with accessibility in building renovations enhances usability, sustainability, and social inclusion, especially for an ageing population. It also highlights that professionals require training to improve accessibility in renovations.
- The New European Bauhaus (NEB) initiative provides practical solutions for the transformation of the built environment and lifestyles, with a strong emphasis on environmental sustainability, high-quality design and a people-centred approach. Its investment guidelines, published in 2023, set out criteria and recommendations to help public and private investors integrate the three NEB values into projects, including guidance on ensuring accessibility for and inclusion of persons with disabilities.
- The recast Energy Performance of Buildings Directive includes provisions on accessibility in relation to new and existing buildings, guidance and training, and recharging points for electric vehicles. Implementation is monitored through national building renovation plans, identifying good practices to mainstream accessibility and disability rights across EU renovation policies.

Remaining challenges to address

Despite a robust legal framework, implementation gaps persist, compliance remains uneven, and accessibility in transport, housing, and digital services requires further strengthening. While the legal foundations are in place, enforcement, monitoring, and practical application remain key challenges, particularly in ensuring that accessibility is not just a legal obligation but a lived reality for persons with disabilities across the EU.

The Commission is continuing to work with all stakeholders to develop the applicable harmonised standards and other means of facilitating compliance with the accessibility requirements of the European Accessibility Act. A working group will provide a forum for exchanges and knowledge-creation on the enforcement and application of accessibility requirements.

3.2. Enjoying EU rights

Moving and residing freely

EU citizens have the right to move and reside freely within the EU and to access services in all Member States. However, the strategy acknowledges that persons with disabilities face practical barriers when exercising these rights, due to the absence of mutual recognition of disability status between Member States. Another obstacle they face is the inability to use their national parking card across Member States, because of the differences in the implementation and format of national cards. The Commission has responded by proposing, in 2023, the introduction of a European Disability Card and a European Parking Card, based on common EU templates and mutual recognition of national cards. Following the adoption of Directive (EU) 2024/2841 the two cards will reach persons with disabilities in the EU in June 2028.

Flagship initiative:

Directive (EU) 2024/2841 establishing the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities came into effect on 4 December 2024, facilitating the free movement of persons with disabilities during a short stay in another EU Member State. When travelling in the EU, cardholders will be granted access to special conditions and preferential treatment for a wide variety of services, activities and facilities offered to residents with disabilities. Member States may also decide to apply the Directive's provisions for periods longer than a short stay. Directive (EU) 2024/2842 extends the scope of Directive (EU) 2024/2841 to non-EU nationals legally residing in a Member State.

Remaining challenges to address

Member States have until 5 June 2027 to adopt and publish the laws and administrative provisions to comply with the Directive. Member States are to apply those measures as from 5 June 2028. By 5 June 2029, the Commission must carry out an assessment on any remaining gaps relating to the free movement of persons with disabilities.

Fostering participation in the democratic process

- The Commission issued a Recommendation on inclusive and resilient electoral processes in the Union in 2023. Its aims include promoting inclusive participation of underrepresented parts of the electorate (including persons with disabilities) and making it easier for them to exercise their electoral rights, both as voters and candidates.
- The Commission published the Citizenship Package in 2023, which includes the Guide of good electoral practices addressing participation of citizens with disabilities and identifies common approaches to accessible elections. It also published the Compendium on e-voting, highlighting the use of digital tools to support democratic participation, including accessibility for persons with disabilities.
- In 2025, the Council adopted a Directive to simplify voting and candidacy rules for EU citizens living in a country where they are not nationals. This requires electoral information to be accessible and calls for voting arrangements that take into account the needs of persons with disabilities and older persons to ensure inclusive participation.
- The Commission adopted a report on the 2024 elections to the European Parliament, noting improved participation by persons with disabilities due to alternative voting measures, better polling station accessibility, and improved ballot readability.

Remaining challenges to address

The participation of persons with disabilities in electoral processes has improved in recent years. However, some challenges persist, including barriers to voting posed by the ongoing digitalisation of electoral processes. In addition, persons with disabilities remain markedly underrepresented, both as candidates and as elected officials (e.g. only three Members of the European Parliament have declared that they have a disability). Legal restrictions linked to the blanket removal of legal capacity continue to prevent some persons with intellectual disabilities from exercising their right to vote without individual assessment and possibility of judicial review.

3.3. Decent quality of life and living independently

Developing independent living and reinforcing community-based services

The right to independent living and personal autonomy, i.e. the right of persons with disabilities to choose where and with whom they live and to participate in the community on an equal footing with others, is a key theme of the strategy. The Commission has committed to supporting, e.g. through EU funding, national, regional and local authorities in their efforts to deinstitutionalise care and support systems for persons with disabilities, develop person-centred services and support independent living.

Flagship initiative:

In November 2024, the Commission adopted the Notice Guidance on independent living and inclusion in the community of persons with disabilities in the context of EU funding. The guidance illustrates the approaches reflected in EU fund regulations and provides concrete examples of the types of measures that can be supported with shared management funds (particularly the ESF+ and ERDF). To complement the guidance, work has been carried out within a dedicated subgroup of the Disability Platform to develop a framework for social services of excellence for persons with disabilities. The Commission discussed principles of such a framework with the Council's Social Protection Committee in 2024 and is aligning the work with the planned revision of the voluntary quality framework for social services.

Measures taken by the Member States

Member States have reported on a variety of measures in the area of deinstitutionalisation, supported by EU funding. These include: (i) developing deinstitutionalisation strategies or similar ⁽¹⁹⁾; (ii) proposing a relevant legislative framework or establishment of personal assistance services ⁽²⁰⁾; (iii) measures that specifically target children to avoid their placement in institutional care ⁽²¹⁾; (iv) measures to establish alternative housing ⁽²²⁾; and (v) measures specific to psychiatric care ⁽²³⁾. In addition, Member States have also made progress to ensure accessible and disability-inclusive social housing, although no data are available on the supply of accessible housing ⁽²⁴⁾.

Remaining challenges to address

Most Member States have adopted deinstitutionalisation strategies over the last decade, though progress in promoting independent living and inclusion in the community remains slow and uneven. The guidance on independent living identifies good practices for stakeholders involved in deinstitutionalisation strategies and EU-funded projects. However, significant work still remains to be done to translate these examples into consistent improvements on the ground. To achieve wider uptake and effective implementation, strengthened mutual learning activities and capacity-building measures are necessary. Monitoring tools, clear targets and indicators could be further developed to guide the structural reforms needed and related investments.

Fostering access to high-quality and sustainable jobs

The strategy recognises that employment enables social inclusion and economic autonomy for persons with disabilities, though their situation in the labour market has not significantly improved over the last decade. To address this issue, the Commission has developed policy measures, under the Disability Employment Package, supporting better employment outcomes for person with disabilities.

Flagship initiative:

To support Member States in ensuring that persons with disabilities enjoy social inclusion and economic autonomy through employment, the Commission adopted the Disability Employment Package in 2022. The package provides guidance and examples for employers, employers' associations, public authorities, civil society and persons with disabilities with a view to increasing the employment of persons with disabilities. It covers all stages of employment, from recruitment to retention in employment or return to work. The package has been rolled out jointly with EU and national stakeholders through the Disability Platform.

The package's key deliverables include: guidelines on reasonable accommodation at work, a practitioner toolkit on strengthening public employment services to improve the labour market outcomes of persons with disabilities; a catalogue of positive measures to encourage the hiring of persons with disabilities and combating stereotypes; a manual for managing chronic diseases and preventing the risk of acquiring disabilities; guidelines for effective vocational rehabilitation schemes; and a study on alternative employment models for persons with disabilities ⁽²⁵⁾.

- Published in March 2021, the Commission's report on the Employment Equality Directive highlights the Directive's key impact on persons with disabilities. In particular, it stresses the obligation for employers to provide reasonable accommodation in employment and training and, showcases good practices and relevant case law developments on reasonable accommodation and disability by association.
- In June 2021, the Commission adopted the Strategic Framework on Health and Safety at Work 2021-2027. The framework establishes key priorities and measures for improving workplace health and safety. It pays specific attention to protecting vulnerable groups, including workers with disabilities.
- In December 2021, the Commission presented the Action Plan on the Social Economy (reviewed in 2026), which also supports the employment of persons with disabilities in the open labour market, independent living services and job opportunities. Its implementation included the Council Recommendation on social economy framework conditions that was adopted in November 2023.
- In May 2024, two directives to strengthen the role of equality bodies were adopted ⁽²⁶⁾ ⁽²⁷⁾. These include provisions to ensure that persons with disabilities can access these bodies' services and information, particularly in the areas of employment and occupation.
- In 2024, the Commission presented a proposal for a Directive and a revised Council Recommendation on a Quality Framework for Traineeships, aiming to improve the quality, fairness, and accessibility of traineeships, including for persons with disabilities, enabling work experience and skill development in an inclusive environment.

Measures taken by the Member States

- Several Member States have set up quantitative national employment targets for persons with disabilities. Currently 14 Member State have set up national employment targets for persons with disabilities ⁽²⁸⁾. Most of them aim at achieving a certain level of employment of persons with disabilities expressed as a percentage of their total population (between 38% and 60%), some aim at reducing disability employment gap, while other aim at employment of a certain number of persons with disabilities or at creation of jobs for persons with disabilities.

- The role of employment services has been strengthened by e.g. partnerships with foundations / specialised employment institutions that promote the employment of persons with disabilities, offering services exclusively targeted to persons with disabilities or working with a support person and peer support ⁽²⁹⁾.
- Other measures include training programmes; entitlement to unemployment benefits; provision of free advice to start-up entrepreneurs; and the simplification of the procedure for starting a self-employed activity for persons with disabilities ⁽³⁰⁾.

In the area of vocational education and training (VET) as well, Member States have reported on the adoption of a variety of measures, including: development of a strategy/vision for participation in learning; special support measures for persons with disabilities in training; measures aimed at improving the financial situation of persons with disabilities; and measures aimed at improving access to assistive technologies and ICT for persons with disabilities.

Remaining challenges to address

The overall progress made in increasing the employment rate of persons with disabilities is limited and the disability employment gap remains large. The development of the Disability Employment Package has enabled the Commission experts and stakeholders to identify effective measures and examples to improve the access of persons with disabilities to the labour market. The remaining priority is to ensure the large-scale dissemination and implementation of the guidelines, coupled with efforts to tangibly increase the employment participation of persons with disabilities.

Consolidating social protection systems

- In December 2022, the Commission published a synthesis report on 'social protection for people with disabilities', prepared by the European Social Policy Network, describing and analysing the provision of certain disability specific income support and of selected support services as well as highlighting the EU's role in supporting mutual learning and sharing in this area.

- The Commission provided guidance and support for the implementation of relevant reforms in the Member States through the recovery and resilience plans process and the Technical Support Instrument ⁽³¹⁾ to ensure social inclusion of persons with disabilities, focusing on a human-rights-based approach to disability assessment, progress in deinstitutionalisation and inclusive education.

Measures taken by the Member States

Most Member States have taken measures to tackle gaps in the social protection of persons with disabilities and to reduce inequalities ⁽³²⁾. This includes ensuring sufficient coverage and level of social protection for persons with disabilities (e.g. adjustment of some benefits and eligibility criteria, as well as improving the disability assessment procedure).

Remaining challenges to address

Two emerging priorities that deserve further attention: (i) mainstreaming a human rights-based approach to disability assessment, and (ii) factoring in the additional costs of having a disability when conceptualising disability social protection benefits (particularly in the context of rising costs of living that are often greater for persons with disability). The interaction between disability benefits and other types of benefits (particularly old-age pensions and work-related contributory benefits, which can reduce overall income support for persons with disabilities), deserves attention.

3.4. Equal access and non-discrimination

Improving access to justice, legal protection, freedom and security

- In February 2022, the Commission published a study on the cross-border legal protection of vulnerable adults in the EU. In May 2023, it proposed a legislative package, under negotiation, consisting of a Council decision obliging Member States to join the 2000 Hague Protection of Adults Convention, and a proposal for a regulation on the cross-border protection of adults.

⁽³²⁾ Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Germany, Estonia, Ireland, Greece, Spain, France, Croatia, Italy, Cyprus, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, Austria, Poland, Slovenia, Slovakia and Sweden.

- In March 2023, the Commission published its report on procedural safeguards for vulnerable adults who are suspects or accused persons in criminal proceedings, which also addresses persons with disabilities.
- In December 2025, the co-legislators provisionally agreed on the revision of the Victims' Rights Directive. The revised rules include specific provisions for victims with disabilities; ensure better protection; improve access to support services; and increase accessibility in legal procedures.
- In the area of civil protection, the Union Civil Protection Mechanism includes persons with disabilities in disaster exercises; provides training of experts on diversity and inclusion aspects; funds projects supporting vulnerable groups; and sets disaster resilience goals for Member States that focus on the needs of vulnerable groups in disaster risk assessment, planning and response.

Remaining challenges to address

The EU Justice scoreboard shows a number of positive trends including in relation to the physical accessibility of court buildings and court rooms, the accessibility of legal aid, or of online information or solutions in place to help older persons participate in court proceedings, though some challenges in these areas remain. Since the inclusion of questions related to disability in 2022 in the scoreboard, every year more member states are reporting more measures to address the needs of persons with disabilities.

Equal access to goods and services (including housing and consumer protection)

- In May 2023, the co-legislators adopted the General Product Safety Regulation \(GPSR\), which requires that the safety of products should be assessed for all relevant aspects, including the needs of and risks to consumers with disabilities.

In November 2025, the Commission adopted the 2030 consumer agenda, which recognises the rights of persons with disabilities and the distinct challenges they face, such as limited accessible information and functionality.

- The EU energy consumer framework includes provisions concerning vulnerable consumers, including persons with disabilities. Member States must take measures to protect vulnerable consumers from energy disconnection. This is relevant for persons with disabilities who rely on electricity for life-sustaining medical devices, mobility equipment, and assistive and communication technologies.

- In December 2025, the Commission adopted the European affordable housing plan. The plan addresses vulnerable groups (including persons with disabilities) by addressing housing accessibility, independent living, access to social and affordable housing, rental protection and support for homeless persons with disabilities.
- In December 2025, the Commission adopted the revised Decision on Services of General Economic Interest, providing Member States with a faster and simpler way to support affordable housing. The decision clarifies aspects related to the provision of services, therefore facilitating support for independent living and community inclusion for persons with disabilities, including accessibility and assistive technology services, personal assistance and centres for independent living and rehabilitation services.

Inclusive and accessible education

- In November 2022, the Council Recommendation on Pathways to School Success was adopted. It encourages the establishment of inclusive, high-quality education systems that remove barriers to learning, provide targeted support, and ensure that all learners can fully participate and benefit from education.
- The Commission has continued to support inclusive education in the Member States through the European Education Area strategic framework working groups, notably the working groups on Schools - Pathways to School Success and on Equality and Values in Education and Training.
- Erasmus+ and the European Solidarity Corps have introduced flexible mobility options, strengthened support services and expanded financial aid (including for inclusion support, preparatory visits and accompanying persons) to better enable the participation of persons with disabilities.

Measures taken by the Member States

In the area of inclusive education, the measures taken by Member States include adaptations of existing facilities for pupils with disabilities ⁽³³⁾; plans to establish competence centres to meet the specific needs of students with disabilities ⁽³⁴⁾; and individualised support structures to increase the competence of teachers ⁽³⁵⁾; and inclusive settings in education systems, such as specialised support or curricula for inclusive education ⁽³⁶⁾.

⁽³⁴⁾ Belgium, Germany, France, Luxembourg and Austria.

⁽³⁵⁾ Ireland, Spain, Italy, Malta, Lithuania, Luxembourg and Sweden.

Remaining challenges to address

There is still work to be done to achieve the goal of truly inclusive education. Digital education remains insufficiently accessible for students with disabilities. With regard to education and training on accessibility, the educational offer still does not meet the increased need to ensure that disability aspects are integrated in the curriculum, be it in digital design studies or in architectural studies.

Sustainable and equal access to healthcare

- In February 2022, the Commission launched the European Cancer Inequalities Registry. In November 2022, the Council adopted the Recommendation on Cancer Screening, which includes references to persons with disabilities.
- In June 2023, the Commission adopted a communication on a comprehensive approach to mental health. This identifies flagship initiatives, supported with EUR 1.23 billion, for Member States that fund, among other projects, measures relevant to persons with mental and intellectual disabilities.
- In November 2025, the Commission published guidelines on how to improve access to healthcare and overcome barriers for persons with disabilities, along with other deliverables under the EU4Health Programme.

Measures taken by the Member States

Measures reported by the Member States: include measures to improve access by persons with disabilities to the general healthcare system ⁽³⁷⁾ and to preventive healthcare ⁽³⁸⁾; development of strategies for rare diseases ⁽³⁹⁾; and establishment of expert centres for rare diseases ⁽⁴⁰⁾.

⁽³⁸⁾ Spain, France, Croatia, Italy, Luxembourg, Malta and Sweden.

⁽⁴⁰⁾ Bulgaria, Czechia, Estonia, Greece, Italy, Lithuania, Luxembourg, and Sweden.

Remaining challenges to address

The high volume of information that has been collected during this period allows a better understanding of the situation, enabling the identification of remaining gaps, as well as good practices to promote equal access to health by persons with disabilities. Guidelines on how to increase access and overcome barriers to access to healthcare for persons with disabilities are an opportunity for Member States to take further actions in the national and local context.

Improving access to art and culture, recreation, leisure, sport and tourism

- The Commission has promoted art works made by persons with disabilities as part of projects funded by the Creative Europe Programme e.g. 'Europe Beyond Access', 'Perform Europe' and the 'Culture Moves Europe' mobility scheme.
- In May 2021, the Commission published the Guide on EU funding for tourism in order to, amongst others, further promote the development of accessible tourism. In February 2022, the Commission presented the Transition Pathway for Tourism, detailing key measures, targets and ways to achieve the green and digital transitions and secure the long-term resilience of the tourism sector, taking accessibility aspects into account.
- The Commission Communication on a Culture Compass for Europe of November 2025 recognised disability as a barrier to participation in cultural life and called for inclusive, accessible cultural policies and sustained investment in culture.

Measures taken by the Member States

Member States have reported on measures they have taken to promote and support persons with disabilities as artists, such as: funding for theatrical productions in which persons with disabilities have a leading role; organization of seminars and workshops; awareness-raising and trainings on inclusion and accessibility for those working in culture ⁽⁴¹⁾; and measures to improve the accessibility of information or infrastructure in the culture sector ⁽⁴²⁾.

⁴¹⁾ Belgium, Denmark, Germany, Ireland, Greece, France, Italy, Malta, the Netherlands and Austria.

⁴²⁾ Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Ireland, Greece, Spain, France, Croatia, Italy, Cyprus, Lithuania, Malta, the Netherlands, Austria, Poland, Slovenia and Slovakia.

Remaining challenges to address

Despite legal provisions guaranteeing equal access to culture, not everyone has equal access to culture either as a consumer, or as an amateur or professional contributor. Challenges experienced by persons with disabilities in this field range from the inaccessibility of cultural venues to negative attitudes and stereotypes in the representation of persons with disabilities in art, to the insufficient involvement of people with disabilities in cultural organisations and decision-making processes.

Ensuring safety and protection

- The Commission adopted the EU Strategy on the Training of Justice Professionals for 2021-2024, focusing on the training of justice professionals on the rights of specific groups, including persons with disabilities.
- In May 2024, the Directive on combating violence against women and domestic violence was adopted, which includes specific provisions and protection for women and girls with disabilities.
- In November 2025, the Fundamental Rights Agency published a study on fundamental rights protection for persons with disabilities living in institutions. The study collected information on how human rights standards and principles are applied in the development and provision of care in institutional settings to address violence and abuse.

Measures taken by the Member States

Measures reported by Member States include establishing procedures for assessing vulnerabilities, including disabilities, in an international protection context ⁽⁴³⁾; and improving the accessibility of reception and application procedures ⁽⁴⁴⁾; and organising training for protection officers and interpreters ⁽⁴⁵⁾.

Remaining challenges to address

A significant legislative gap in EU non-discrimination law persists when it comes to equal treatment of persons with disabilities outside the field of employment. The Commission will continue supporting the Council Presidencies and Member States with all possible means to reach the required unanimous agreement on the proposal for the Equal Treatment Directive. The proposed directive would expand the protection against discrimination on the grounds of disability, among others, beyond the area of employment to the areas of social protection, including healthcare, education, and access to and supply of goods and services available to the public, including housing. The most recent progress report on the proposed directive was issued by the Danish Presidency of the Council on 11 November 2025.

⁽⁴³⁾ Germany, Greece, France, Croatia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Finland.

⁽⁴⁴⁾ Germany, Greece, France, Croatia, Lithuania, Malta, Netherlands, Austria and Sweden.

⁽⁴⁵⁾ Germany, Greece, France, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Austria, Poland, Slovakia, Finland and Sweden.

3.5. Promoting the rights of persons with disabilities globally

The EU has focused on reinforcing its global role as an advocate for the rights of persons with disabilities. This involves taking social inclusion into account in international relations, external measures, policy planning, funding programmes and activities.

- In June 2021, the Commission published an updated 'Toolbox for placing rights-holders at the centre of the EU's Neighbourhood, Development and International Cooperation'. The updated toolbox positions disability inclusion as essential to the human rights-based approach and emphasises that it should be pursued in all external cooperation. It provides regular training on disability inclusion, and in 2023, updated the guidance on disability in external actions, by issuing the Guidance Note on disability inclusion in external actions.
- The Commission has continued to use the OECD Development Assistance Committee \(DAC\) disability marker to track investments; recent data indicate that the proportion of new disability-inclusive action has increased ⁽⁴⁶⁾. Moreover, as of 2021, the Commission requires its humanitarian partners to indicate the number of unique beneficiaries with disabilities disaggregated by gender and encourages the use of the Washington Short Set of Questions, as a standard data collection methodology.
- In 2023, the Commission launched a dedicated e-learning to further promote the use of the 2019 Operational Guidance on the Inclusion of Persons with Disabilities in EU-funded Humanitarian Aid Operations and better equip partners and staff to put it into practice.
- In 2024, the first-ever EU candidate for a UN Human Rights Committee was elected to the United Nations Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. This has bolstered the EU's role and helped advance dialogues with State Parties on promoting the rights of persons with disabilities globally.

⁽⁴⁶⁾ In 2024, 46% of newly funded programmes under the Neighbourhood, Development and International Cooperation Instrument (NDICI) were disability-inclusive (an improvement from 28% in 2023). Similarly, 67% of the newly funded programmes under the Instrument for Pre-Accession Assistance (IPA III) integrated disability considerations in 2024 (up from 33% in 2023).

- In April 2025, the Commission signed the Berlin-Amman Declaration at the Global Disability Summit and proposed a set of commitments to promote the inclusion of disability in external action.

Remaining challenges to address

Through the measures set out in the strategy, the EU's leading role in the implementation of the UNCRPD has gained further visibility and opened the opportunity for a more systematic approach. Reporting on disability mainstreaming and targeted measures by reference to the OECD DAC marker remains extremely important. The EU's external services need to address the recommendations made by the UN CRPD Committee and implement the Commission commitments made at the Global Disability Summits, including the Amman-Berlin Declaration.

3.6. Efficiently delivering the strategy

The active involvement of persons with disabilities is essential for the successful delivery of the Strategy. Their first-hand experience ensures that policies, programmes, and initiatives respond to real needs and challenges. Participation in decision-making, planning and monitoring helps to identify barriers, test solutions and co-create accessible services and environments.

UNCRPD compliance in policymaking under the Better Regulation

- In November 2021, the Commission published an updated Better Regulation Toolbox. The update, among other points, enhances disability-inclusiveness and ensure consistency with the UNCRPD.
- The Commission has ensured that disability matters are included and considered in policymaking, including through capacity building measures such as dedicated training courses on disability mainstreaming for the equality coordinators of the Task Force on Equality and other Commission staff.

Stepping up cooperation between EU institutions and Member States

- Disability coordinators have been appointed in all the Commission's directorates-general and in most EU agencies, including the EEAS and some EU delegations. Disability coordinators meet regularly to coordinate the strategy's implementation in the Commission and to mainstream disability in policy areas.
- The Commission, the European Parliament and the Council have developed a structured dialogue on the UNCRPD's implementation. This involves regular trilateral meetings at both technical and political level.

- Visibility and attention to disability challenges have been increased in the European Semester process for coordinating Member States' economic and social policies. Since 2022, the disability employment gap indicator has been part of the social protection monitor scoreboard for the Member State analysis. In 2025, four Member States received country-specific recommendations on disability addressing employment and poverty challenges.

Working with Member States, local and regional authorities and civil society organisations

Flagship initiative:

In October 2021, the Commission established the Disability Platform, which provides a forum for cooperation with the Member States and civil society. Members meet at least three times a year to exchange experiences and reflections and prepare together EU-level policy initiatives in the field of disability, mainly through the subgroups dedicated to the flagships initiatives of the strategy: AccessibleEU, the European Disability Card, the Disability Employment Package, Independent Living, and Social Services.

Since 2021, other measures have been taken at EU level in several areas.

- In the Council Conclusions of June 2021 on the Strategy, Member States made a commitment to ensure the implementation of the UNCRPD and mainstream disability in all policies to be dealt with at Council level.
- The Commission organises the European Day of Persons with Disabilities, in partnership with the European Disability Forum, to mark the International Day of Persons with Disabilities. This two-day annual event brings together more than 400 policymakers from the EU Member States, high-level experts and disability advocates. The conference is combined with the ceremony of the Access City Award, to recognise cities' outstanding efforts to improve accessibility for persons with disabilities. Over the past 16 years, 77 cities have received the award (including 16 first-prize winners).

Measures taken by the Member States

Several Member States have reported that they have established dedicated national strategies for disability to foster the implementation of the UNCRPD and the integration of disability-aspects into other measures at national, regional or local level.

Supporting implementation through EU funding

- In June 2021, the Common Provisions Regulation ⁽⁴⁷⁾ was adopted. It includes (i) horizontal enabling conditions for the Member States to ensure that the use of EU funds is compliant with the UNCRPD and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU; (ii) thematic enabling conditions related to the shift from institutional to community-based care; and (iii) accessibility requirements for persons with disabilities.
- Through the ESF+, which has a total budget of over EUR 141 billion for the 2021–2027 programming period (over EUR 94 billion from the EU budget), the Commission has continued to support the Member States and regions in developing inclusive education, training and employment programmes; and in promoting the active inclusion of persons with disabilities. The ESF+ also has a strong focus on promoting high-quality community-based social services and EUR 16,3 billion (including EUR 11.5 billion from the EU budget) is programmed on operations supporting “equal access to quality social and healthcare services.”
- Through the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF), Member States and regions have earmarked EUR 22 billion for 2021-2027 to improve access to services in employment, education, social inclusion, housing, healthcare, culture, and sustainable tourism, with EUR 2.4 billion dedicated to vulnerable groups (including persons with disabilities). This funding focuses on accessible infrastructure and cross-border collaboration, and emphasises community-based services and inclusion, aligning with UNCRPD principles.
- The Commission provides funding through the Citizenship, Equality, Rights and Values (CERV) programme to support rights, non-discrimination, equality, and advancing non-discrimination mainstreaming as well as organisations of persons with disabilities. Between 2022 and 2025, CERV and the ESF+ co-funded 12 EU-level networks of civil society organisations working to protect and promote the rights of persons with disabilities. Total funding exceeded EUR 26 million.
- Under Pillar II of the EU Research and Innovation Framework Programme Horizon Europe, the 2021-2022 calls for proposals included 32 topics related to persons with disabilities, with total funding of EUR 462 million. The 2023-2024 calls for proposals included 23 such topics, with total funding of EUR 468 million. Under the 2025 calls for proposals, topics related to persons with disabilities amounted to EUR 50.2 million. These topics covered areas such as health, culture and inclusive society, civil security, the digital and industrial sectors, climate and mobility, and food and the environment.

⁽⁴⁷⁾ Covering European Regional Development Fund, the European Social Fund Plus, the Cohesion Fund, the Just Transition Fund and the European Maritime, Fisheries and Aquaculture Fund and financial rules for those and for the Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund, the Internal Security Fund and the Instrument for Financial Support for Border Management and Visa Policy.

- Since 2021, Erasmus+ has supported the learning mobility activities of over 46 200 participants with disabilities in the fields of education and training, youth and sport, representing around 1.4% of all supported mobility participants. It has also supported more than 1300 learning mobility projects and close to 1000 cooperation projects aimed at developing accessibility tools, methodologies or disability-inclusive policies in these sectors in the same period.

July 2025, the Commission presented its proposal for the 2028-2034 multiannual financial framework \(MFF\), with a total budget of almost EUR 2 trillion.

- The MFF proposals thoroughly address equality and non-discrimination, including disability references.
- The national and regional partnership plans (NRPPs) will be the main EU funding instrument for Member States, consolidating funding streams from the previous periods into a single plan for each Member State and covering different policy areas, including cohesion and social inclusion. The proposal for the National and Regional Partnership Plan includes as a horizontal principle non-discrimination and accessibility.
- As part of the Plans, the ESF will remain the main instrument to promote and strengthen social cohesion, investing in Europe's people, their future.
- According to its dedicated regulation (still pending adoption), the ESF will contribute to supporting quality jobs and labor mobility, improving education, training, and lifelong acquisition of skills, fighting poverty and homelessness, promoting social inclusion and equality, addressing material deprivation and developing social infrastructure. At least 14 % of the financial envelope of the new single Fund (including loan support but excluding direct payments under the CAP and excluding Social Climate Fund budget) will be dedicated to social objectives. This corresponds to at least EUR 100 billion.
- The expanded Agora EU programme brings together support for culture, media and civil society. It features a robust CERV+ strand that is aimed, among other objectives, at protecting and promoting fundamental rights, equality and non-discrimination.
- The Budget Expenditure Tracking and Performance Framework Regulation notes that the Charter of Fundamental Rights prohibits disability discrimination and ensures independence and integration rights for persons with disabilities. It also reaffirms the EU's commitment to the UNCRPD.

Measures taken by the Member States

As part of the preparation of ESF + programming for 2021-2027, Member States reported on: consultations with representatives of various stakeholders, such as representative associations, employers, workers, insurance bodies, and local and regional authorities ⁽⁴⁸⁾; and the implementation of horizontal enabling conditions monitored by UNCRPD focal points ⁽⁴⁹⁾.

Remaining challenges to address

EU funds have supported the inclusion of persons with disabilities in various areas of life and across regions and territories in the EU. Future funding should continue to support the inclusion of persons with disabilities in economy and society.

3.7. Leading by example

The Commission aspires to be a role model in promoting the rights of persons with disabilities. By implementing the strategy, it seeks to inspire other EU institutions, agencies and bodies to follow its example and fulfil their UNCRPD obligations.

Making selection, recruitment, employment and retention processes disability-inclusive

Flagship initiative:

In December 2022, the Commission presented a new human resources strategy. This was followed by an updated action plan on diversity and inclusion in the workplace for 2023-2024, which includes measures to promote diversity and the inclusion of staff with disabilities and carers. DG HR will use the findings of the 2025 diversity and inclusion survey for the revision of the action plan on diversity and inclusion.

The Commission coordinates and exchanges good practices on inclusion with disability coordinators of other EU institutions and the European Personnel Selection Office (EPSO). EPSO adopted an equality and diversity action plan in May 2022, further enhancing the accessibility of its communication and selection procedures and covering dedicated outreach activities, including for candidates with disabilities and special needs, to increase the diversity of EPSO's candidate pool.

⁽⁴⁹⁾ Bulgaria, Czechia, Spain, France, Croatia, Cyprus, Luxembourg, Malta, Austria, Slovenia, Slovakia, Finland, Sweden.

Since 2021, other measures have been taken at EU level in several areas.

- The Commission has taken numerous measures to remove barriers for persons (staff and public) with disabilities, including by providing accessible ICT equipment ⁽⁵⁰⁾ and organising inclusive meetings and conferences ⁽⁵¹⁾.

Accessibility of communication

- In September 2022, the Commission adopted the 2022-2025 web accessibility action plan, which aims to ensure that EU websites, including the documents they contain, and online platforms comply with the accessibility standards. The Commission created a dedicated Task Force on Web Accessibility and a network of accessibility correspondents in every Commission directorate-general, to raise awareness of web accessibility requirements.
- The EU's Publications Office provides training for Commission staff on accessible publishing and produces accessible and easy-to-read publications.
- The Commission works towards ensuring both physical and virtual accessibility in its conferences and events. In 2025 it updated both the interpretation checklist used internally by conference managers, adding emphasis on Sign Language Interpretation, and the guidelines on accessible and inclusive conferences. The Commission provides international sign interpretation upon request at conferences and events (62 meetings benefited in 2025).

Accessibility of buildings

- The accessibility of the EU institutions' premises has been improved thanks to dedicated action plans, such as the 2021-2023 equality work plan of Commission's Office for Infrastructure and Buildings. The plan addresses the needs of staff and visitors with specific physical needs and/or permanent or temporary impairments, with a view to ensuring physical accessibility and raising awareness.

⁽⁵⁰⁾ As part of its digital workplace strategy, the Commission updates annually the list of specific end user IT equipment for staff with disabilities and ensures its availability. The Commission has also launched the HR Transformation Programme to ensure digital accessibility to desktop and mobile applications for staff.

⁽⁵¹⁾ Guidelines: Accessibility and Inclusion. Tools and services supporting the organisation of accessible events and conferences include closed captions and subtitles for all official EU languages, international sign-language interpretation and an accessible participants registration tool that collects information on special requirements.

- The Commission has ensured that all newly occupied buildings, new and renovated buildings (as well as venues where Commission events take place) comply with European accessibility standards ⁽⁵²⁾.

European Schools

- The European Schools have approved part-time schooling for pupils with special needs in order to better accommodate diverse learning needs, endorsing the Introducing Flexibility to the European Schools' Curriculum (effective from September 2026).
- The European Schools have also updated the list of assistive technologies and are finalising a self-paced online course on universal design for learning to equip educators with inclusive teaching strategies.

Remaining challenges to address

Despite ongoing progress since 2022, when the web accessibility action plan was adopted, some challenges persist in ensuring that Commission's websites are accessible to all and, that the Commission's content is ready for AI-driven discovery, personalisation and multilingual services. While all Commission buildings in Brussels and Luxembourg continue to comply with legal obligations on accessibility for persons with disabilities, more efforts are needed to respond to the diverse needs of persons with disabilities. The Commission will continue mainstreaming diversity and inclusion in HR policies and collecting equality data

3.8. Awareness, governance and measuring progress

Since 2021, a number of measures have been taken at EU level in several areas, such as:

Awareness-raising to combat stereotypes around disability

- In July 2022, the Commission launched the 'Together for Rights' campaign to raise awareness of the rights of persons with disabilities in the EU and promote the strategy ⁽⁵³⁾.

⁽⁵²⁾ Including for example tactile path from the main entrance of the building to the elevator; tactile signage for calling the elevator and audio information in it; warning tactile stripes in the staircases; ramps for people with wheelchairs; accessible parking spaces; accessible toilets on each floor.

⁽⁵³⁾ The campaign focused on six key rights: mobility; inclusive education and work; independent living; political participation; accessibility; and inclusive culture, leisure and sports. A range of materials was produced, including videos, visuals, newsletters and leaflets. 27 disability influencers from across the EU promoted the strategy.

- In May 2023, the Commission launched the multiannual campaign ‘Let’s Make it Work’ to raise awareness about workers’ rights and social rights. Under this campaign, equality at work for persons with disabilities was highlighted.

Strengthening the EU framework under the UNCRPD

- Representatives of the focal point at the Commission and the EU framework under the UNCRPD have met annually, discussing actions implemented by the Commission and by framework members (i.e. the European Disability Forum, the European Ombudsman, the EU Fundamental Rights Agency and related committees of the European Parliament).
- The Commission has launched a tender for a study on the functioning of the EU framework, looking into recommendations to improve the work and effectiveness of the framework and to comply with the UNCRPD’s Concluding Observations to the EU.

Ensuring sound monitoring and reporting

- The Commission has established a monitoring framework for the strategy with an annually published scoreboard to provide information on progress made in implementing the strategy.
- Eurostat has introduced new indicators that measure various aspects of the lives of persons with disabilities and has established a thematic webpage dedicated to disability statistics.
- In 2021, the Disability Employment Gap was introduced as a new headline indicator in the Social Scoreboard, which accompanies the European Pillar of Social Rights.

Remaining challenges to address

Data collection and presentation significantly improved, though there are still issues concerning disability statistics e.g. population coverage. Further efforts are needed to obtain data on the situation of persons with disabilities and each of the rights enshrined in the UNCRPD - disaggregated by age, sex and type of impairments.

4. Conclusion

The 2021-2030 Strategy for the rights of persons with disabilities has been implemented amidst a series of crises: the COVID-19 pandemic, Russia's full-scale war of aggression against Ukraine, the energy crisis, followed by high inflation and increased cost of living. These crises have shed light on the situation of persons with disabilities in the most precarious situations, particularly those in poor households and in institutional care. In this context, the strategy has remained a valuable compass that shows the way forward on advancing the rights of persons with disabilities.

This report has taken stock of progress so far and shown that significant advances have been made on all the priorities of the strategy. Most of the flagship initiatives and all the measures planned for the reporting period have either been delivered or are ongoing (27 of the 64 measures have been completed and 37 are still ongoing). The needs of persons with disabilities have been taken into account in a wide range of EU legal acts, policies and measures. Member States have demonstrated a strong commitment to achieving the strategy's objectives and advancing the rights of persons with disabilities.

Gaps nevertheless remain between persons with and without disabilities. Persons with disabilities still face barriers to education, employment, social protection, health, voting and independent living. The work carried out so far should be consolidated. For instance, while breakthrough legal acts such as the European Accessibility Act and the European Disability Card Directive constitute tangible steps forward, further efforts are needed to build a barrier-free EU.

Member States, civil society organisations and other stakeholders have been consulted and have contributed to policy and legislative developments during the implementation of the strategy. They have also provided input and observations for this progress report. Their feedback and participation will remain indispensable for the implementation of the enhanced strategy for the rights of persons with disabilities up to 2030. This will help ensure that specific disability measures and disability mainstreaming continue to be developed in order to promote, protect and ensure the full and equal enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms by persons with disabilities.

Annex

EU Legal acts which refer to matters governed by the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

INTRODUCTION

The United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (later referred to as the UNCRPD) was adopted by the UN General Assembly on 13 December 2006. It is the first international legally binding instrument that sets minimum standards for the protection and promotion of the human rights of persons with disabilities. As of March 2026, it has 193 parties, including not only all the European Union's 27 Member States but also the EU itself. This was the first time that the EU has become a party to an international human rights convention.

The Council adopted Decision 2010/48/EC for the conclusion of the UNCRPD on 26 November 2009. The EU formally became a party to the UNCRPD on 23 December 2010. It finally entered into force for the EU on 22 January 2011. The EU has since then been formally committed to upholding and protecting the rights of persons with disabilities as enshrined in the UNCRPD.

The conclusion of the UNCRPD was an opportunity for the EU to identify the parts of its legislation which contribute to the protection of the rights of persons with disabilities. The Declaration of Competence - Appendix to Annex II of Decision 2010/48/EC - sets out a list of EU legal acts that related to matters covered by the UNCRPD at the time of the conclusion and illustrates the scope of the EU's competence in this field.

The publication of the Progress Report on the implementation of the Strategy for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities 2021-2030 is an opportunity to publish an up-to-date overview of EU legal acts referring to matters governed by the UNCRPD. The EU's growing commitment to the promotion and protection of the rights of persons with disabilities can be seen in the growing number of legislative acts that relate to matters governed by the UNCRPD.

The present document compiles and tracks all the major EU legal acts, such as regulations, directives and decisions of the EU institutions, that are particularly relevant to persons with disabilities and their rights It updates the list published by the Commission in the 2017 progress report on the European disability Strategy. They are provided for informative purposes, and the list is non-exhaustive. The list includes legal acts that were already covered by the Declaration of Competence in 2010 and that are still in force as well as other more recent legal acts. A comparison between the two shows the expansion of EU legislation supporting the rights of persons with disabilities ⁽⁵⁴⁾. The declaration concerning the competence of the Union with regard to matters governed by the UNCRPD should therefore be updated in due course as required by Article 44(1) of the UNCRPD.

⁽⁵⁴⁾ Some of the acts that were in the original declaration are no longer listed in the present list as they have been repealed.
